G7 accommodates Indian stand on need for Internet curbs

Open Societies Statement reworked to prioritise national security over freedoms

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Internet freedoms are subject to national security, said government sources, claiming that India's tough negotiations on the joint communiqué issued by G7 and Guest Countries at the session on Open Societies had ensured that the original language criticising "Internet shutdowns" was amended to include New Delhi's concerns.

The explanation came after the 'G7 and Guest Countries: 2021 Open Societies Statement' referred to "politically motivated Internet shutdowns", which indirectly addresses Internet blackouts in various parts of the world including India.

Kashmir has experienced Internet and mobile telephony shutdown since Article 370 was amended on August 5, 2019. Similar communication shutdowns were witnessed in Delhi and Assam during the protests against the Citizenship Amendment Act during 2019-2020 and the farmer's protest last January. Communication shutdowns were also witnessed in other parts of the world, including Hong Kong where a protest against Chinese security laws intensified during 2019.

The G7 statement also

Global worry

The statement from the G7 and Guest Countries indirectly addresses Internet blackouts in various parts of the world, including India

"We are at a critical juncture, facing threats to freedom and democracy from rising authoritarianism, electoral interference, corruption, economic coercion, manipulation of information, including disinformation, online harms and cyber attacks, politically motivated Internet shutdowns, human rights violations and abuses, terrorism and violent extremism."

S. JAISHANKAR

took note of the developments in military-ruled Myanmar as well as in larger economies. "We are at a critical juncture, facing threats to freedom and democracy from rising authoritarianism, electoral interference, corruption, economic coercion, manipulation of information, including disinformation, online harms and cyber attacks, politically motivated Internet shutdowns, human rights violations and abuses, terrorism and violent extremism," declared the statement, referring to the problems facing the democratic world.

The assertion in the statement appears to touch upon several issues that are sensitive in nature as they are often subjected to public debate in India.

Sources indicated that the mention of the topics in the statement took place in the backdrop of a sustained exchange of opinions between G7 and Indian teams.

Public safety

The statement went on to say that the G7 and guest countries would "promote respect for internationally accepted norms that drive inclusivity and protect digital civic-space, including through capacity building, and ensure that the design and application of new technologies reflect our shared values, respect human rights and international law, promote diversity and embed principles of public safety".

Government sources said that "politically motivated Internet shutdowns" clarified that national security and public order concerns are an exception to the need for Internet freedoms.

According to the sources, during his visit to London in early May, External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar fielded questions about the government's actions against protesters and the clampdown in Jammu and Kashmir after August 5, 2019. The sources said Mr. Jaishankar "made it clear" that law and order concerns were important and public safety had to be prioritised when regulating the flow of information.

He also fielded questions about the Internet shutdown for months in Jammu and Kashmir, as well as during the Republic Day protests by farmers in Delhi this year.

Mr. Jaishankar attended the meetings virtually as he was under quarantine in London.

The G7 Foreign Ministers-level statement issued earlier in May, however, also referred to "Internet shutdowns" as a subject that the organisation would counter.

LJP implodes with 5 of 6 MPs edging out Chirag

Rebels choose his uncle Paras to lead parliamentary party

SOBHANA K. NAIR
NEW DELHI

Less than a year after the death of Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) founder Ram Vilas Paswan, his party is on the verge of a split, with five of its six Lok Sabha members replacing party president Chirag Paswan with his uncle, Pashupati Nath Paras, as the leader of the parliamentary party.

The revolt coincides with a widely expected Union Cabinet reshuffle. For months, Mr. Paswan had pinned hopes of filling the vacancy that arose on the death of his father. The rebellion clearly shows that Mr. Paras, too, nurses the same hope.

Mr. Paras has been supported by Mr. Paswan's cousin Prince Raj (Samastipur MP), Mehboob Ali Kaiser (Khagaria), Veena Devi (Vaishali) and Chandan

Rajasthan govt. to set up Vedic Education Board

Cong. had promised it in its manifesto

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
JAIPUR

The Congress government in Rajasthan will set up a Vedic Education and Sanskar Board to revive the knowledge of ancient Sanskrit scriptures and connect the learnings of the Vedas with science and yoga. The board is likely to be set up in the coming four to five months.

Minister of State for Sanskrit Education Subhash Garg said here on Monday that a committee appointed to define the aims, objectives and functioning of the board had submitted its report to the State government. Based on the panel's recommendations, the board will adopt education modules revolving around Vedic knowledge.

The ruling Congress had promised the establishment of the Vedic Education and Sanskar Board as well as steps to promote Sanskrit language and education in its manifesto for the 2018 State Assembly election.

CM's announcement

Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot had announced in January this year that the work for setting up the board would be expedited to encourage the students to carry out research on the Vedas and enable them to assimilate the country's "glorious traditions".

He had pointed out that Ayurveda and Sanskrit universities had also been established in the State during the tenure of the Congress government earlier.

The committee has reportedly studied several models of Vedic teaching being followed in other States and recommended a curriculum for schools, which would include subjects such as science, mathematics, Sanskrit, yoga and meditation.

'AAP will contest all seats in Gujarat poll'

Kejriwal alleges BJP and Congress playing a fixed match in the State to trick voters

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
AHMEDABAD

Delhi Chief Minister and convener of the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Arvind Kejriwal on Monday said his party will contest all seats in the Gujarat Assembly election next year. Mr. Kejriwal said AAP would provide a "real alternative" to the people of Gujarat while visiting a temple in Ahmedabad. He inducted popular TV anchor Isudan Gadhavi into the party.

"AAP will contest each and every seat in the 2022 Gujarat Assembly elections. AAP is a credible alternative to the BJP and the Congress. Gujarat will change soon," he said.

"In the past one year during the pandemic, Gujarat has been treated like an orphan. Today, the youth are unemployed, farmers are committing suicide and children are struggling to get admission in schools and colleges. Even businessmen and traders are scared," he said at the Vallabh Sadan temple.

The AAP leader slammed both the ruling BJP and the Opposition Congress for the 'plight' of the State and said the two parties were playing a fixed match to trick the voters. "Gujarat is suffering because of the friendly alliance between them. The BJP has been in power in the State for the last 27 years. I heard people saying that the Congress is in the pocket of the BJP. Both parties are the same here as whenever the BJP is in trouble, the Congress provides help."

'Credible alternative'

He said AAP would prove to be a real and credible alternative to the ruling BJP in Gujarat as its performance in Delhi is a testimony.

"The people of Gujarat want to know why the electricity costs are so high here when it's free in Delhi. If government-run schools and hospitals are top-class in Delhi, why are they non-functional in Gujarat? The time has come to change Gujarat."

Mr. Kejriwal had last visited Surat in February when his party emerged as the main Opposition after the civic body elections.

AAP had made inroads into Gujarat politics by winning 27 seats in the 120-member Surat Municipal Corporation. The party has been working across the State, preparing for the Assembly polls.

Education Minister reviews
two key education projects

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

Education Minister Manish Sisodia on Monday chaired a review meeting of two key education projects — Youth for Education (YFE) programme and Parent Outreach Programme. The mission of both the programmes is a mapping of schoolchildren, Mr. Sisodia said.

"Through the YFE programme, our children would be able to receive adequate guidance from a young generation that has been through a similar process. Every child of this society, who are between ages of 20-30 years, whether it is a 12th graduate or has a job or internship or is an entrepreneur can guide our school students and help them in building their careers," he said. Mentioning the Parent Outreach project, Mr. Sisodia said, this one has been designed with the idea to make a communication change between schools, children and parents. "The idea is for the whole community to become a school. To build an environment that is supportive. These two programmes will ensure that our community is shaped in a way that helps our students grow holistically," he said.

At present, the government said, the YFE programme has been piloted in 46 schools, roping 4,000 mentors. Also, it said, the Parent Outreach Programme plans to build a network of School Management Committee members and "School Mitras" to help other parents create a strong bond in the community. The programme trained 560 SMC members and Heads of 41 schools.

Summer effect at Singhu: farmers start collecting milk from villages

Group of protesters make rounds, bring hundreds of litres of milk to agitation site

HEMANI BHANDARI
NEW DELHI

With the summer at its peak, the availability of milk for consumption of protesting farmers has gone down. They have now resorted to collecting the dairy product from other villages.

Why the shortage?

Komaldeep Singh Cheema, a resident of Doaba, has been a part of the protest since the beginning. He said because of summers, the cattle are producing less milk and is leading to a limited supply from Haryana. As a result, Mr. Cheema and a few others from the district, have decided to collect milk for the consumption of farmers at the protest.

"Those from Punjab don't prefer packaged or powdered milk. Most of them fall sick if they consume it. This essentially has made us decide to take up this initiative," he said.

Mr. Komaldeep said announcements are being made in five villages since June 2, asking people to donate milk for the protesters. "Some people gave a litre while others gave 2. Some even donated litres, and some gave a bucket full of milk. In one of the five villages, people donated more than 450 litres," he added.

Milk collected over four days was kept in an ice-making unit for preservation. The group then started for Singhu border from Doaba on June 6. "We finally collected 750 litres, put it in a water tanker with lots of ice, and covered it with wet sacks," he said.

At the protest site, they drive across the lengthy stretch distributing milk to people and those running langar services. The kheer langar, which was running for months, stopped a while ago because of milk shortage and also the dishes being perishable.

The group made two rounds from the villages to Singhu and is set to make its third round to the protest site. Mr. Komaldeep said that after she shared his initiative on social media, people from Canada and the UK have called him to extend help.

Help pours in

"A man called me from the UK and asked how we were transporting the milk. When I explained we were taking it in water tankers, he said he'll send ₹1.5 lakh for a special tanker to be built for milk. Another person called from Canada and extended help for unlimited petrol for the journey," Mr. Cheema said.

Another initiative taken at the protest site is Kisan Express, a trolley fitted with seats for people to be transported from their lodging to the stage. The initiative was taken by Life Care Foundation, Kisan Aid, and Swachh Kisan Morcha.

"The reason Kisan Express has been started is to increase the number of people coming to the stage area. Because of heat and mostly the elderly staying here, it became important for them to have a vehicle for commute," said Avtar Singh, who runs a makeshift hospital at the protest site. He added that the battery rickshaw was proving to be expensive and less efficient.

Delhi govt.'s claim on ONORC misleading, Centre tells SC

Ration card portability dependent on ePoS machines

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Central government maintained in the Supreme Court that the Delhi government's claim to have launched 'One Nation One Ration Card' (ONORC) scheme was "misleading".

"The claim of Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi regarding launch of One Nation One Ration Card [ONORC] plan in NCT of Delhi is misleading, as they claim to have implemented it only in circle 63 Seemapuri. Only a handful of transactions conducted in a single circle with about 42 electronic points of sale (ePOS) machines cannot be considered as implementation of ONORC," the Centre submitted before the court.

The Centre, represented by Additional Solicitor General Aishwarya Bhati, observed that the implementation of the ONORC would require national portability transactions to be rolled out formally in all the fair price shops of all the circles of Delhi in which more than 2,000 ePoS (electronic point of sale) machines had been supplied and were waiting for operation.

"It is pertinent to appreciate that a very large number of inter-State migrants are present across Delhi, such as migrant workers, street dwellers, ragpickers, migratory labourers, construction workers, rickshaw pullers, auto/taxi drivers, and others, who do not have access to their National Food Security Act food grains," the Centre said.

None of these economically marginalised population, who were away from their native villages and towns, were able to access their quota of subsidised food commodities assured to them under the Food Security Act, it stated.

"There is no full implementation of the ONORC and reporting of such transactions/distribution details of NFSA/PMGKAY food grains on the central portals/dashboards," it noted.

The onus of implementing the ONORC was on the States.

While most States were implementing it, Assam, Chhattisgarh, Delhi and West Bengal have not yet integrated into the scheme. Their integration would depend on their "technical readiness" to implement the portability of ration cards, it pointed out.

The Centre's submissions came despite Delhi's stand that it was implementing the ONORC scheme.

Recently, Food Secretary Sudhanshu Pandey had written to the Delhi government to resume the use of ePoS machines at ration shops. He said at least 10 lakh migrant workers, who had ration cards in their home States, would be able to access subsidised food grains in the Capital.

Ration card portability under the ONORC scheme is dependent on ePoS machines, as they use Aadhaar-linked biometric authentication to verify the identity and entitlement of beneficiaries even if they are not registered at that particular shop. Delhi had suspended the use of ePoS in early 2018, after widespread complaints of poor network leading to authentication failures and exclusion of genuine beneficiaries.

A case under relevant sections was registered on the house owner, Beena's statement. The identity of the assailants was established as Pankaj and Rahul Tiwari.

"On June 8, the police got a tip-off and nabbed Pankaj from Poswal Chowk, Mohan Garden. A countrymade pistol with two live rounds was recovered from him," said DCP (Dwarka) Santosh Kumar Meena. The motorcyle, used in the crime, has also been recovered.

The accused said he played several national and international tournaments, winning several gold and silver medals.

A few days before the incident, he had a quarrel with one Nikhil in which Gautam — Beena's son — supported Nikhil. In order to frighten Gautam, he fired at his house, the DCP said. Efforts are on to nab the other accused, the police added.

AAP claims scam in Ram mandir land purchase

Can land price rise from ₹2 crore to ₹18.5 crore within five minutes, asks Sisodia

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

AAP leader Manish Sisodia and party MP Sanjay Singh on Monday alleged that there is a "big scam" in the land bought for Ram mandir by Ram Janmabhoomi Trust.

"BJP had duped 115 crore followers of Hindutva within minutes under the name of Prabhu Shri Ram," said Mr. Sisodia. He said that Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Trust bought 12,080 square meters of land worth ₹18.5 crore on March 18.

"The land was bought from Ravi Mohan Tiwari and Sultan Ansari in the presence of Anil Mishra and BJP Mayor of Ayodhya Rishikesh Upadhyaya, who are members of this trust. Many citizens donated money to wards the establishment of Ram mandir, whether it was a farmer who took out some donation from their earnings or a labourer who used up his earnings to donate," Mr. Sisodia said.

"But Ravi Mohan Tiwari and Sultan Ansari had bought the same land from Harish Pathak and Kusum Pathak five minutes before for ₹2 crore. In five minutes, Ravi Mohan Tiwari and Sultan Ansari surprisingly sold it for ₹18.5 crore to the trust. In both these transactions, Anil Mishra and BJP Mayor of Ayodhya Rishikesh Upadhyaya were witnesses," he said.

Defrauded 115 cr. people

Mr. Sisodia claimed that Ram bhakts were of the belief that their hard-earned donations for Ram temple will be used in the creation of the temple, but they have all been disappointed with the "fraud BJP". "Five people, within five minutes, defrauded 115 crore Hindus," he added.

"Can land price increase from ₹2 crore to ₹18.5 crore within a matter of 5 minutes?

People donated money to be a part of the creation of a resplendent Ram temple, but BJP has just made a joke of their faith and their trust. This land scam is a clear show of corruption and it is a black day for all Prabhu Shri Ram followers," the AAP leader said.

Sanjay Singh claimed that BJP leaders have defamed all those involved in the "scam". "BJP leaders should now come to light and announce how much they have earned through this scam and it is crystal clear that BJP leader and Mayor of Ayodhya have a big role to play. Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Trust should give a full account of the money received through donations by people," Mr. Singh said.

Accused held; police say it seems to be case of sexual assault

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

A 62-year-old woman was allegedly stabbed to death in east Delhi's Dallupura village. They said prima facie, it appears to be a case of sexual assault, however, a post-mortem report is awaited.

The accused — Vipin Dedha from Dallupura village — has been arrested, a senior officer said.

The police received information about the incident from Dharamshila Hospital on Sunday at New Ashok Nagar police station. "A team reached the hospital and found that the victim, a resident Dallupura village, was declared brought dead in the hospital. Her throat was slit with a sharp-edged weapon, and she also sustained multiple injuries on her stomach," said DCP (East) Priyanka Kashyap.

Next, a case under Section 302 (Murder) was registered at New Ashok Nagar police station. During investigation, the police analysed the CCTV footage of the area and identified the accused following which he was held.

During interrogation, he admitted having committed the offence, the police said, adding that a knife, used in the crime, has been recovered. The accused told the police that he was in an inebriated condition at that time. The incident came to light when the woman's son came home after completing his duty as a guard in Noida and found her lying in a pool of blood. The woman was from Begusarai in Bihar and used to live in the city with her son and grandson. She used to sell vegetables near her house. The incident happened on Sunday when she was selling vegetables with her grandson. At 12 p.m., she went home to cook food when the accused attacked her.

A 22-year-old Delhi Civil Defence (DCD) volunteer was arrested for allegedly impersonating a Delhi Police Assistant Sub-Inspector at Old Delhi Railway station to travel without a ticket, the police said on Monday.

DCP (Railways) Harendra Kumar Singh said the accused has been identified as Jai Kishan Yadav.

The incident came to the fore on Sunday morning after Constable Yogesh Kumar spotted Yadav in Delhi Police ASI uniform. Yadav told the Constable that he joined the force in 2019.

"When the Constable posted with the 7th battalion of Delhi Armed Police asked Yadav as to how he got promoted to the ASI rank at such a young age, the accused could not give a satisfactory response," Mr. Singh said.

'Wanted to go home'

During interrogation, he allegedly told police that he is a resident of Mayapuri Phase-II. He said he along with his two brothers wanted to go to their home in Uttar Pradesh by Farrakka Express train but they had only two confirmed tickets. "Yadav said he wore the uniform so that he is not questioned during his travel," Mr. Singh said.

HC quashes bail to former Fortis chief

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Monday quashed a local court order granting bail to former promoter of Fortis Healthcare Shivinder Mohan Singh in a case of allegedly misappropriating funds of Religare Finvest Ltd.

Justice Suresh Kumar Kait noted that "continued detention of respondent No.2 (Mr. Singh) in this FIR case is necessary not only to unearth the conspiracy hatched by him, but also to derive out/ trace the siphoned money which he has credited for his personal benefit".

The court said the "nature and gravity" of accusation against Mr. Singh was serious.

"The grant of bail in a case involving cheating, criminal breach of interest by an agent of such a large magnitude of money, affecting a very large number of people would also have an adverse impact not only on the progress of the case but also on the trust of the criminal justice system that people repose," it said.

On the argument of Mr. Singh that other co-accused have been granted bail in this case, the court observed, "while granting or refusing bail, the role attributed to each accused has to be seen independently and reasoning for one may not be binding on the other".

According to data provided by the DMRC to The Hindu, between June 7 and June 13, a total of 1,422 commuters were fined and 1,103 people counselled even as the Delhi Metro continued to operate at 50% capacity.

The highest number of fines levied due to commuters not wearing masks was 288 on June 11, followed by 253 and 251 people on June 12 and June 10 respectively.

On June 9, two days after the resumption of services, the number of people fined for being without masks stood at 224 while on June 7, at least 86 commuters were fined for the same.

Random checks

Flying squads deployed by the DMRC carry out random checks for violations and either levy fines or counsel the commuters, according to officials.

The highest number of people counselled, on a single day in the past week, was 209 on June 12 followed by 189 passengers on June 11 and 170 passengers on June 9.

June 7, the first day of resumption had seen 106 commuters being counselled by officials to follow COVID-19 protocol.

Even though resumption of services was permitted last week by authorities, metro trains continue to run at half the capacity in a bid to contain the virus transmission.

Due to the reduced capacity, only 25 passengers are permitted inside coaches at any given point, according to Delhi Metro Rail Corporation officials, while adding that standing passengers are not allowed inside coaches.

Delhi bans soaps, detergents not conforming to new BIS rules

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

To reduce pollution in the Yamuna, the Delhi government on Monday banned the sale, storage, transportation, and marketing of soaps and detergents, which do not conform to the revised Bureau of Indian Standards rules, as per an official order.

The order was issued by the Delhi Pollution Control Committee. In January, the National Green Tribunal had accepted recommendations of a two-member expert panel which had suggested directing the Delhi government to take such a step.

All authorities should ensure compliance of the order through strict vigil and surprise checks, read, the order.

Badal not to appear before SIT tomorrow in Kotkapura case

The former CM cites health reasons, asks for rescheduling of appearance date

VIKAS VASUDEVA
CHANDIGARH

Former Punjab Chief Minister and Shiromani Akali Dal patron Parkash Singh Badal will not be appearing before the Special Investigating Team (SIT), probing the 2015 Kotkapura police firing incident, due to health reasons.

Parkash Singh Badal

Mr. Badal has been summoned by the SIT at a residence in Mohali on June 16.

In a letter to the SIT chairman, Mr. Badal said that he was committed to fully cooperate with the law and that he had complete faith in the judiciary. He had, however, asked the SIT "to reschedule the date for his appearance for the investigations as he was not keeping good health and had been advised complete bed rest for ten days by doctors."

The former Chief Minister said that as soon as his health gets better he would be available to join the investigation as per law. Mr. Badal added that he was hopeful that "the newly set-up SIT, unlike the previous one, would respect the law of the land and conduct a fair investigation, withstanding political interference from the ruling dispensation."

In his two-page response to the summons from the SIT, Mr. Badal said that "the entire process of investigations already stands brazenly compromised through blatant and unapologetic political interference and it reeks too strongly of political vendetta to inspire any confidence about a fair process of law being followed."

The Akali Dal leader pointed out that the very need for the present SIT had "arisen out of the brazen politicisation of the case by the previous SIT." In this regard, Mr. Badal came down heavily against one of the members of the previous SIT for his "openly political conduct" which had allegedly subverted the entire investigative process.

SIT role questioned

"With a callous and contemptuous disregard for all the established procedures and norms, this officer completely usurped and appropriated to himself the entire functioning and designated role of all the other members of the SIT, including it Chairman, and rendered them totally redundant and they were reportedly not even a part of the investigative process," said Mr. Badal.

Mr. Badal said that the findings of the previous SIT had been scripted jointly by half a dozen high profile members of the ruling party.

Man killed over cow smuggling suspicion

7 detained in Rajasthan, case filed

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
JAIPUR

A man was allegedly beaten to death and another seriously injured when a group of people attacked them while they were transporting bovine animals in Rajasthan's Chitorgarh district late on Sunday night.

The victims were taking three oxen in a van to their native village in neighbouring Madhya Pradesh.

The local people near Begun town alleged that the two persons were smuggling cows and attacked them, though the victims claimed that they were taking the animals to their village for farming work.

The police reached the spot on getting the information and rushed the victims to a hospital after chasing off the attackers, who were hitting them with sticks and had snatched away their documents and mobile phones.

One of them, identified as Babu Bhil, 25, succumbed to his injuries, while Pintu Bhil was stated to be in a stable condition.

Police have registered a case of murder and detained seven persons for interrogation in connection with the incident. The two persons, belonging to the Bhil tribe, hailed from Jhabua district of Madhya Pradesh.

Victim from M.P.

The police reached the station area on Saturday, the police said on Monday. They said the accused were known to the girls who were lured for a meeting at the plantation site.

7 held for gang rape of four girls

The accused were known to the tribal girls, say police

SYED SAJJAD ALI
AGARTALA

Seven youth have been arrested for allegedly gang-raping four tribal girls, aged between 14 and 16, in west Tripura. A medical examination has confirmed the incident.

The crime occurred deep inside a rubber plantation under the Srinagar police station area on Saturday, the police said on Monday. They said the accused were known to the girls who were lured for a meeting at the plantation site.

The police swung into action after the parents of the girls registered a complaint under the PCO Act.

"The FIR also incorporated IPC Sections 376 (B) and 120 (B). The youth were sent to judicial custody after they gave a confessional statement before a judicial magistrate," the police said.

The girls told the investigating officer that an auto-rickshaw driver had helped them return home after they managed to reach the roadside late on Saturday evening.

Punjab AAP protests 'scam' in scholarships for Dalit students

'Two lakh students deprived, money given to fake colleges'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
CHANDIGARH

The Aam Aadmi Party workers and leaders on Monday staged a protest close to the official residence of Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh against alleged irregularities in the post-matric scholarship scheme for Dalit students.

AAP's Harpal Singh Cheema, the Leader of the Opposition in the Punjab Assembly led the protesters, who were prevented from reaching the CM's residence.

Mr. Cheema alleged that Congress government had squandered huge amount of money meant for scholarships of two lakh Dalit students, jeopardizing their future. "At the behest of the government, the police administration has violated our constitutional right to protest, but we will continue our struggle and the AAP workers would go on hunger strike on June 15 in front of the offices of Deputy Commissioners in all the districts across the State," he said.

'Register case'

Mr. Cheema said AAP's struggle would continue until a police case was registered against the wrongdoers under Scheduled Castes and Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act. Senior AAP leader Man-winder Singh Giaspura said the investigation report submitted by senior IAS officer Kirpa Shankar Saroj on the alleged post-matric scholarship scam revealed that the scholarships were given to fake colleges. "As a result, genuine private colleges have not received funds and lakhs of Dalit students have been deprived of their right to education," he said.

Deputy Leader of Opposition Saravjit Kaur Manu, said "while the government has embezzled the scholarship money of Dalit students, it has also discriminated in giving jobs to Dalit youth and promotions to employees."

'Under-reporting of virus deaths in Odisha'

STAFF REPORTER
BHUBANESWAR

The Odisha Congress on Monday accused the Naveen Patnaik government of under-reporting COVID-19 deaths to cover up its failure in tackling the pandemic.

"In about 40 days, Nayagarh, a small district, has officially communicated that 117 persons have succumbed to COVID-19. However, the State government has been maintaining Nayagarh's COVID-19 death-toll at 59, combining fatalities of both first and second waves," Congress leader Nishikant Mishra told a press conference.

Mr. Mishra said Nayagarh's actual deaths got exposed when the internal communication of inclusion of pandemic victims found its way to public domain.

Special audit sought

"The government document says 117 persons died of COVID-19 between April 28 and June 10," said the Congress leader. Demanding a special audit of all COVID-19 deaths in the State, the Congress said there was no harm in making the actual death figure public.

Alleging that under-reporting of deaths was deliberate, Mr. Mishra said the government must own responsibility for mismanaging the pandemic as many people in rural areas were left to die without the robust healthcare system.

COVID: child rights panel to identify children for relief

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
JAIPUR

The Rajasthan State Commission for Protection of Child Rights will render assistance to voluntary groups in the identification of children who have lost their parents to the COVID-19 infection, for a financial relief package announced by the State government. The orphans will get an ex gratia of ₹1 lakh each, followed by a financial assistance every month.

Commission chairperson Sangeeta Beniwal said here on Monday though the pandemic had affected all sections during the last one year, children in the rural areas had borne the brunt because of poverty and vulnerability. Coupled with the child labour, the pandemic had brought havoc to children.

Ms. Beniwal said at a virtual event here that the community participation at the grassroots would help eradicate child labour and extend relief to the children affected by the pandemic. Banswara-based Vaagdhara group, which is working on the livelihood issues in the tribal areas, organised the event, attended by social activists and child rights volunteers.

As part of the Chief Minister's Corona Baal Kalyan Yojana, the children who lost their parents will get, besides the ex gratia, ₹2,500 a month till they attain 18 years of age.

An elite club

The G-7 needs to be more open and less exclusive in an increasingly interlinked world

The G-7 summit, at Carbis Bay, sent out two very strong messages. The first was driven by the United States's new President Joseph Biden and his vow that "America is back" to take the lead on global challenges. The G-7 commitment to donate one billion coronavirus vaccines to poorer countries and to invest $12 trillion in their combined pandemic recovery plan depends on U.S. commitments for a large part. The special communiqué on "Open Societies" for the G-7 outreach, and the invitation to "fellow democracies" India, Australia, South Korea and South Africa are also an extension of his stated commitment to convening a Democracy Summit this year. Even the slogan for the G-7, "Build Back Better", was a White House term to declare America's economy and jobs recovery plan. The second message was the consensus amongst the seven-member countries on countering China. The final G-7 communiqué holds no less than four direct references to China, each negative, including criticising Beijing for its rights record in Xinjiang and democratic freedoms in Hong Kong, its "non-market policies and practices...", concerns over its actions in the China Seas, and a demand for a transparent investigation into the origins of the COVID-19 virus. Though the bonhomie among the G-7 leaders was palpable, the differences and contradictions in the grouping remain a challenge. Even two decades ago, questions were raised about whether the grouping (earlier, the G-8), could claim its mantle as the world's "richest" countries, when emerging economies, China and India, are not included. On economic issues, the EU is a more representative unit than the individual European G-7 member countries. Finally, the premise of a group like the G-7, that of an exclusive club of the "haves" or "the best vs the rest", seems anachronistic in a world that is much more interlinked now than in 1975, when the grouping first came about.

India, a special guest to the G-7/G-8 since 2003, has also maintained its independent course, especially on political issues. It is significant that the G-7 outreach communiqués that included the guest countries, did not make the same references to China as the main document, and MEA officials clarified that Chinese aggression was not raised at the outreaches, which focused on the pandemic, climate change and democratic freedoms. India voiced concerns about some clauses in the joint communiqué on Open Societies which condemned "rising authoritarianism", net shutdowns, manipulation of information, and rights violations – areas where the Modi government has often been criticised itself. Addressing the session on Open Societies, Mr. Modi said that India is a "natural ally" to the G-7. In the present, the Government will be expected to walk the talk on its commitments at the G-7 outreach, especially in the areas of information clampdowns, given that India had the largest number of Internet shutdowns in 2020.

Djokovic is now in sight of a Golden Slam after winning on a difficult surface

Novak Djokovic has always maintained that ending his career with the most number of Grand Slam titles is one of his prime motivations to keep playing tennis. In the Roland-Garros final on Sunday, he took a giant stride in realising this dream with a sensational come-from-behind five-set victory over the fast-rising Greek Stefanos Tsitsipas for his 19th Major, pulling him within one title of his celebrated rivals Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal. It was the Serb's second French Open trophy, making him only the third man in history (after Roy Emerson and Rod Laver) and first in the Open Era (post 1967) to win all four Slams at least twice. The rhythmic allure of the record aside, the sense of completeness and the feeling of sporting immortality it brings, even to a career as storied as Djokovic's, is unparalleled. So will the 34-year-old's semifinal victory over 13-time champion Nadal, the greatest of all clay-courtiers. That Djokovic had the tennis to challenge the Spaniard was never in doubt. What was astonishing was the way he bounced back from the shell-shocking in last year's final and outwitted an in-form Nadal. For Djokovic to not fall off the emotional cliff and defeat Tsitsipas – a player 12 years younger – brought to light one of his constant themes – poise and resilience under relentless pressure.

The triumph is yet another reminder that Djokovic is this era's most complete player. Where Federer has tweaked his shot-making with a larger racquet-head and Nadal has displayed new levels of aggression, Djokovic has prioritised balance, footwork and timing. Currently, no one can perhaps hit as well as Djokovic, from both wings, with pace and spin, at varied angles, even when on defence. As Nadal and Tsitsipas found out over exactly four hours and 11 minutes each, a tennis court had never felt smaller. This has now kindled hopes of a 'golden' Grand Slam, a herculean feat of winning all four Majors and the Olympic gold in a single year. However, if there is one man who has dared to dream and succeeded, it is Djokovic. Unseeded Barbora Krejckikova perhaps took cue and became the Czech Republic's first singles champion in Paris in 40 years, providing a storyline to latch on to after Naomi Osaka's withdrawal because of mental health concerns and Serena Williams' early exit. Nine months ago, Krejckikova was ranked outside the top-100 and had appeared in only three singles main draws at Slams. But with two doubles and three mixed doubles trophies, she was no stranger to success. Over the last fortnight, with her delightfully languid but polished game, she became the first woman since Mary Pierce in 2000 to sweep both singles and doubles at Roland-Garros.

The road from Galwan, a year later

China is now in a different league, competing with the U.S., and New Delhi faces the task of living with an uneasy calm

SUSHANT SINGH

On June 15 last year, the Line of Actual Control (LAC) witnessed its first deaths after 1975 when 20 Indian soldiers and at least four soldiers of China's People's Liberation Army (PLA) died in a violent clash in Galwan in Ladakh. An Indian news report (<https://bit.ly/3wmeUeH>) mentioned that around 50 Indian soldiers had been taken captive by the PLA during the clash and released in batches over three days. Although both countries have given gallantry awards to the fallen soldiers, details about the violent incident have not been officially made public so far.

Political accountability

This is in keeping with the broader approach of the Government where no official briefing or press conference about the situation in Ladakh has taken place in the last 13 months. The ministerial statements in Parliament were monologues with no questions allowed from other representatives of the people. The official excuse was operational security, but the actual reason was to avoid political embarrassment for Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Four days after the Galwan clash, Mr. Modi addressed an all-party meet where he unequivocally stated, "Na koi wahan hamari seema mein ghus aaya hai aur nahi koi ghusa hua hai, na hi hamari koi post kisi dusre ke kabze mein hai" (No one has intruded and nor is anyone intruding, nor has any post been captured by someone.) A huge public outcry led to an official clarification by the Prime Minister's Office which contained rhetoric that dodged the offending remarks (<https://bit.ly/3vjvjoaQ>).

The Government's political strategy for dealing with the Ladakh border crisis has been based on dodging, denial and digression. An honest appraisal of the situation in Ladakh would be politically costly for a government led by a "strong" Prime Minister, as PLA soldiers remain in control of what was hitherto in Indian control. Despite the largely supportive news channels, the Government has not been able to convince the public about its version of events. In the recent 'State of Nation' poll conducted by C-Viewer, 44.8% respondents said the Chinese encroachment in Ladakh was a failure of the Modi government, while only 37.3% said it was not (<https://bit.ly/3gmiaaA>).

The crisis in Ladakh erupted months after Mr. Modi had held his second informal summit with the Chinese President Xi Jinping (at Mamallapuram, Tamil Nadu) and weeks after he hosted the then United States President Donald Trump for a political event in Ahmedabad, Gujarat. For someone attributing his foreign policy prowess to the power of his persona and his personal chemistry with other world leaders, there could be no worse rebuttal of his claims than the timing of the Chinese incursions. In a government identified solely with the Prime Minister and dominated by his office – there is no record of the Cabinet Committee on Security being convened to discuss the Ladakh border situation – Mr. Modi is being held responsible in the public imagination for the setback.

Military situation

The current situation is not militarily precarious in Ladakh. With a continued deployment of 50,000-60,000 soldiers, the Indian Army has been able to hold the line to prevent any further ingress by the PLA. The Chinese presence on the Indian side of the LAC in Gogra, Hot Springs and Demchok gives the PLA some tactical advantage but the area which majorly jolts Indian military plans is the Chinese control of Depsang Plains. With "official sources" trying to palm it off as a legacy issue, despite evidence to the contrary from many retired military officers, the Indian Army has only weakened its negotiating position during the talks with the PLA. In any case, there has been no progress in talks after the disengagement at Pangong lake and Kailash range in February.

Outside of Ladakh, the Indian Army remains in an alert mode all along the LAC to prevent any Chinese misadventure but the bigger change has been its reorientation of certain forces from Pakistan border towards the China border. The basis of this shift was articulated by the Chief of Defence Staff General Bipin Rawat when he recently said that China is a bigger security threat for India than Pakistan. The Ladakh crisis has also exposed India's military weakness to tackle a collusive threat from China and Pakistan: to avoid such an eventuality, the Government opened backchannel talks with Pakistan which led to the reiteration of the ceasefire on the Line of Control.

External rebalancing

The Ladakh crisis has also led the Government to relook external partnerships, particularly with the United States. After his meeting with External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar late last month, U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken tweeted that they discussed the "India-China border situation". The Indian side was silent about it but senior U.S. military officials have earlier spoken of the intelligence and logistics support provided to the Indian forces in Ladakh, while the Indian military has sought to learn from the American experience of implementing the Multi Domain Operations (MDO) doctrine to wage a war of the future against a technologically superior PLA.

That China is "a larger neighbour, better technology", was acknowledged by General Rawat recently, to argue that India will "obviously prepare for a larger neighbour". The military importance of the Quad remains moot, with India reportedly refusing to do joint naval patrolling with the U.S. in the South China Sea; the two treaty allies of the U.S., Japan and Australia, also refused. Moreover, India's focus on its land borders and its limited resources for military modernisation in a period of economic decline impinge on its maritime ambitions in the Indo-Pacific.

Balancing act

Even as India has tried to talk tough with Beijing and shown greater interest in the Quad, its attempts to counter the burgeoning Chinese influence in the neighbourhood have faltered, exacerbated by the mishandling of the second wave of the novel coronavirus pandemic. With the widening power gap between New Delhi and Beijing, the challenge is as much economic as it is geopolitical. Despite the border crisis and the Indian restrictions on Chinese technology companies, China displaced the U.S. to be India's biggest trade partner in 2020-21, up to nearly 13% of India's total trade compared to 10.4% a year ago (<https://bit.ly/3CFyDRs>).

For the Modi government, it has been a difficult balancing act between its domestic rhetoric and external reality. Even though India has been dependent on China for medical equipment to fight the pandemic and asked for assured supplies, the Government has been reluctant to publicly acknowledge this dependence: it underplayed Mr. Xi's message to Mr. Modi offering support and assistance. It has asked Beijing to grant visas to Indian students and businesspersons but has refused medical aid or Chinese vaccines. Simultaneously, New Delhi has placed the border issue at the centre of the relationship with China, arguing that there can be no normalcy without restoration of status quo ante at the borders.

Unappetising choices

For the past few decades, Indian planners operated on the premise that their diplomats will be able to manage the Chinese problem without it developing into a full-blown military crisis. That belief has been laid to rest. Militarily, Chinese incursions in Ladakh have shown that the idea of deterrence has failed. A return to the status quo ante of April 2020 remains a mirage with the Chinese side refusing to engage meaningfully after February. New Delhi has learnt that it can no longer have simultaneous competition and cooperation with Beijing; the dramatic engagement that started with Rajiv Gandhi's historic visit to China in 1988 is over.

The bouquet of choices before the Modi government is not appetising. A new reset in bilateral ties, à la the early 1990s, is difficult because China is now in a different league, competing with the U.S. India will never be comfortable taking sides in a new Cold War between the U.S. and China, as it has always valued its strategic sovereignty. Beijing seems as keen as New Delhi to avoid a military conflict, though accidents such as Galwan can never be ruled out. That leaves India with the daunting task of living with this tense and uneasy calm with China for some time, a challenge brought to the fore by the Ladakh crisis.

The events of the past one year have significantly altered India's thinking towards China. The relationship is at the crossroads now. The choices made in New Delhi will have a significant impact on the future of global geopolitics.

Unlocking war histories with a purpose

The declassification of India's military history should also lead to building on successes and avoiding past follies

ARJUN SUBRAMANIAM

Saturday's announcement by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on archiving, declassifying and compiling of war histories (<https://bit.ly/3zroQ1L>) is a long overdue initiative that signals that the Ministry of Defence (MoD) is at last willing to shed its shroud of confidentiality over happenings long gone by. Largely conforming to global practices, the policy has the potential to kick-start multiple initiatives within the MoD and the three services that will offer researchers, analysts and historians an easy lens into studying military operations in the post-Independence period.

Interlinked challenges

Drawing on my own experiences of nine years as a practitioner-historian who has struggled to put together two definitive historical and joint narratives of war and conflict in contemporary India, conversion of this policy into deliverables will be a tough and unglamorous grind. The four biggest challenges facing this initiative will be the fusion of political directives and strategic decision making with the operational and tactical happenings on ground; compilation and reconciling and analysis of events at multiple levels (headquarters, commands and field formations); putting together a team of dedicated researchers and historians with a mix of academics and practitioners with access to records and files; and lastly, putting together a concurrent oral history and digitisation of all archival compilations associated with this initiative.

Decisions to go to war and wage conflict in democracies are largely political decisions and it is important that such decisions are fused into compilations of war histories. For example, one of the reasons why the Indian Army is reluctant to declassify the Henderson Brooks Report that considered operational failures during the 1962 war with China is because it is largely a scathing indictment of the Indian Army's leadership without any accountability assigned to the political establishment led by Jawaharlar Nehru and Krishna Menon. On the other hand, several histories of the Vietnam War can now be considered credible and well-rounded because researchers have had access not only to operational accounts but also to archived discussions between the political architects of the conflict such as Presidents J.F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson and Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Similarly, General K. Sundarji and Ambassador J.N. Dixit have borne the brunt of much criticism by researchers examining India's intervention in Sri Lanka from 1987-1990 because they expressed themselves in the open domain without fear. But it is only when researchers get access to records of discussions involving other generals, admirals and air marshals and even Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, Minister of State for Defence Arun Singh and even political heavyweights in Tamil Nadu such as M.G. Ramachandran and M. Karunanidhi, that the cobwebs around Operation Pawan will be cleared.

On 'Brasstacks'

'Most military historians of contemporary India agree that Exercise Brasstacks (1986-87) heralded the transformation of Indian war fighting doctrine, tactics, techniques and procedures in conventional war fighting, particularly in the plains and the desert. However, all of them, including this writer, have relied on oral recollections to put together a mosaic of what may have transpired in the confines of the Military Operations (MO) Directorate of the Army HQ and thereafter. Writing the official history of Exercise Brasstacks must be high on the list of the initial projects in this initiative as it will highlight the fusion of decisions taken at multiple headquarters right down to the regiment and squadron level.

The right approach needed

Notwithstanding the effort taken to put together official histories of the 1965 and 1971 wars, these are considered as safe histories that only scratch the surface of strategic decision making, operational analyses, leadership and lessons for the future. The reason for this is the absence of robust multi-disciplinary teams that are required to put together each such history and the desire to bring out non-controversial documents. While highlighting controversies and failures must not be an obsession with such initiatives, it is only a robust academic-cum-practitioner flavour accompanied by good and contemporary writing that will lend weight to such histories.

Unlike the Ministry of External Affairs which has stolen a march over other ministries in declassifying files, the three service headquarters and MoD have been rather slow in initiating this. Not only is it difficult to trace files from eras gone, it is highly possible that in the absence of digital conversion, several priceless discussions have been destroyed in the periodic discarding of files. But even if such files are available, who will spend long hours trying to identify elements that remain historically relevant?

Digitisation and creation of oral histories will form a critical component of this transformation. Both are either unfolding at a snail's pace or are absent in our existing official repositories of history at the service headquarters or war colleges. A software major must be roped-in for this and an outreach must be made to individual historians, think tanks and global repositories to share their oral history collections on contemporary Indian military history.

The first chapter

Considering the timeline of 25 years, a suggested list of declassifications to trigger this transformative initiative are the Nathu La skirmish of 1967, 'The Lightning Campaign' in the Eastern Theatre during the 1971 War, Operation Meghdoot (Siachen), Exercise Brasstacks and its subsidiary operations, and Operation Falcon (Sumdorong Chu). Lest the initiative be accused of only showcasing successes, Operation Pawan (Indian Peace Keeping Force; picture) too needs to be officially written about, albeit with due sensitivity. One of the hallmarks of a leading power/emerging power/power of consequence and a leading military is the ability to take criticism, tackle institutional reluctance to expose faultlines and push forward with reform with the big picture in mind. History does not offer a blueprint for the future, but it is certainly instructive in building on successes and not repeating the follies of the past. That proposition must be the bedrock on which this initiative takes off.

After Galwan

There is no denying the fact that the Government could not contain China's aggression and retrieve our territory encroached on by the Chinese last year (Page 1, June 14). China has been stealthily taking away our land.

We need to gradually move towards isolating China, economically and politically, on the global stage for the sake of peace and prosperity. China cannot be trusted and we have examples, from the unmaking of Panchsheel to Galwan. India needs to join forces that want China to play by international rules. Hopefully, Joe Biden's America will forge such an alliance. History will judge us by the actions which we take today to defend ourselves.

Fugitive's trail

The narrative on fugitive economic offender Mehul Choksi is strange. Both he and his lawyers claim that he is a citizen of Antigua while our authorities insist that he is still an Indian. On the other hand, hundreds of thousands of people in Assam say that they are Indians and are being questioned. A citizen of Antigua does not need a visa to travel to Dominica. So why is he being held, and who has roughed him up? As the saying goes, there is more to this than meets the eye. It is remarkable how within days of his arrest, officials from several ministries in India joined forces, hired an executive jet and went to bring him back. The speed at which it all happened, especially the release of funds for the chartered jet, shows how efficient our officials can be at times.

To the fore

The ability to dig oneself out of a trench is the mark of a true champion and Novak Djokovic demonstrated it in full measure at this year's

French Open by winning even after being two sets down. The final however did not match up with the high quality tennis witnessed in the semi-final against Rafael Nadal. While Roger Federer, Nadal and Djokovic extend their dominance in men's tennis, in contrast is the situation of an almost different champion in every Slam in women's tennis, after the decline of the Williams sisters. The Slams also highlight a fading India when not so long ago, it had some decent players on the international stage.

ANTHONY HENRIQUES, Mumbai

I am one of those countless fans of Djokovic who have been mesmerised by this complete tennis player. He may lack the finesse of a Federer and the fire power of a Nadal, but with no visible chinks in his armour, he is sure to reign for a long time.

The ideas that Satyajit Ray couldn't film

Ray was always assessing the cinematic potential of literary sources that ignited his imagination

AMITABHA BHATTACHARYA

Satyajit Ray is universally admired for his cinematic creations. However, to understand his mind, it may be worthwhile to reflect on the literary ideas that he could not transform on celluloid. Some are well known – The Alien, A Passage to India and the Mahabharata. But there were many more which only the Ray aficionados are aware of. Fortunately, the essays and letters of Ray and his son Sandip; the biographies by Marie Seton (Portrait of a Director, 1971) and Andrew Robinson (Satyajit Ray: The Inner Eye, 1989); Suresh Jindal's My Adventures with Satyajit Ray – The Making of Shatranj Ke Khilari (2017), Nasreen Munni Kabir's Conversations with Waheeda Rehman (2014); and articles by Bangladeshi photojournalist Amanuel Haque and others throw some light on the subject.

An idea about aliens

Based on his own story and ideas, and encouraged by the famous author Arthur C. Clarke, Ray drafted the screenplay of his sci-fi film The Alien in 1967. Columbia Pictures agreed to produce it with Peter Sellers in an Indian role. Steve McQueen was contacted and even Robert Redford considered, and the Indian cast was almost finalised. Columbia even advanced some money for the project. However, there were many unexpected twists and turns, as recounted by Ray in "Ordeals of the Alien" (The Statesman, October 4 and 5, 1980), and the project had to be abandoned. Ray wrote to Sellers:

"Dear Peter, if you wanted a bigger part

Why, you should have told me so right at the start.

By declining at this juncture You have simply punctured

The Alien balloon,

Which I daresay would be grounded soon

Causing a great deal of dismay To Satyajit Ray."

The project was revived later, but by then Steven Spielberg's E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial was released (1982),

THE HINDU ARCHIVES

with 'striking parallels' noticed by Clarke and others. Ray held, as Robinson quotes, that E.T. "would not have been possible without my script of The Alien being available throughout America in mimeographed copies". However, Spielberg commented, "Tell Satyajit I was a kid in high school when his script was circulating in Hollywood". Despite advice, Ray did not pursue the matter further. His depiction, as communicated to Jindal, that the aliens were "benign by nature, small and acceptable to children, possessed of certain supernatural powers, not physical strength but other kinds of powers, particular types of vision, and that they take interest in earthly things" was indeed influential.

The West's image of India

Ray met E.M. Forster at Cambridge in 1966 with the intention to film A Passage to India. Robinson quotes Ray, "... but he knew my name. He kept shaking his head much of the time which meant that he didn't want the book to be filmed. That was the drone – no! – in words, gestures, looks, everything. He was adamant. And I felt there was no point in asking why." Later, much after Forster's death, Ray was approached in 1980 by the trustees at King's College, but by then he had lost interest in the subject. David Lean's version (1984), understandably, could not satisfy Ray – "... The whole thing is too picturesque... For me none of the characters come alive... Peggy Ashcroft's performance notwithstanding..." In a famous essay "Under Western Eyes" (Sight & Sound, Autumn 1982), Ray had touched upon the limitations of the West's interest in India and how its views were often distorted and unreal, sometimes even with "grotesque stereotypes as Hurree Janset Ram Singh..." He ended, "Slighted for so long, India will not yield up her secrets to the West so easily..." It is a pity that A Passage... could not be filmed by Ray.

All on paper

The Mahabharata fascinated Ray from his early childhood. From the late fifties he had been planning to film it. But in what language? "How to introduce even the main characters to a non-Indian audience?" At one time, he intended to cast Dilip Kumar, Toshiro Mifune and others. Ray was interested in the dice game part. More than the war, it was the exploration of personal relationships between the characters that appealed to him cinematically. In jest, he once told Jindal, "I gave up, because I couldn't imagine Kirk Douglas playing Arjuna."

Waheeda Rehman, who acted in Ray's Abhijan (1962), said that Ray had been keen to adapt R.K. Narayan's The Guide and had contacted her for the female lead. As she observed, the approach and treatment of the film would have been entirely different under Ray's direction. But then we would have missed the Bollywood blockbuster.

There were many Bengali film ideas that Ray had nurtured at some point or the other, as detailed by Sandip Ray in Ananya Satyajit (1998) and others. Bankimchandra Chattopadhyay's Rajasimha (with Balraj Sahni) and Devi Chaudhurani (with Suchitra Sen), Saratchandra Chattopadhyay's Mahesh, Bibhutibhusan Bandyopadhyay's Drabamayeer Kashibash and Ichhamati, Manik Bandyopadhyay's Padma Nadir Majhi, Mahasweta Devi's Bichhan, Buddhadeva Bose's Ekti Jiban, Prafulla Roy's Ram Charitra, Shibrām Chakraborty's Debotar Jonmo, Banaphool's Kichhukshan, Bangladeshi writer Shahed Ali's Jibrailer Dana and Selina Hossain's Hangor Nodi Grenade were thought of. For a variety of reasons, including non-availability of actors (Chunibala Devi and Suchitra Sen, for example), these ideas had to be abandoned at different stages. According to Sandip, his father moved on with his work, never regretting what could not be pursued.

Ray was approached by Indira Gandhi to make a documentary on Jawaharlal Nehru for whom he had admiration. Besides, in a letter of June 1, 1978, Ray wrote to Jindal about the proposals he had been requested to consider "... (a) documentary on Rajasthani music for French TV... (b) a 3-part film for BBC (each 90 minutes long) on any subject or subjects of my choice... (c) a proposal from UNO to make a film on 'the horrors & miseries of war', for worldwide TV screening... (d) a revival of The Alien under a major U.S. company backing with an updated script and a new title..." UNICEF approached him for a film on child labour. Ray was also interested in the operatic form of Balmiki-Pratibha, and documentaries on notables like Radhanath Sikdar who first calculated the world's highest mountain peak. None of these eventually took off for reasons not publicly known.

Conscious of what's happening all around, Ray was immersed in ideas. A storyteller, both in celluloid and print, he was always assessing the cinematic potential of literary sources that ignited his imagination. Now, on the occasion of Ray's 100th birth anniversary celebrations, it is for the researchers to probe and delve into the available material in order to fathom why many of these ideas couldn't get transported to the medium of cinema.

A policy difficult to defend

Allowing money spent out-of-pocket to feed vaccine production in India is regressive and inequitable

SOHAM D. BHADURI

The Union government recently reversed the liberalised vaccination strategy. States no longer have to bear the responsibility of procuring vaccines; the Centre will procure them on behalf of the States as the single purchaser. While this move has been applauded, some doubt that a few things will change under the new regime. One area of objection has been that the private sector's share of total vaccines remains unchanged at 25%.

Problematic decision

As some experts have rightly pointed out, the private sector's share of total manufactured vaccines is out of sync with its share of total vaccination centres, which are far fewer than the government's, thus entailing a demand-supply mismatch between government and private centres and concomitant inequities. Although capacity to vaccinate is a more important metric to consider than just the relative share of vaccination centres, it is unlikely to be a redeeming factor. However, the policy looks problematic even if the number and the share of private vaccination centres increases substantially to accommodate their share of total vaccines.

Writ large, a 25% share for private vaccination entails an implicit assumption that 25% of the population is willing and able to pay for a commodity for which social benefits exceed private benefit. This is indicative of our mistaken assumption of an inflated 'middle class'. The fact is that the affluent form only a small fraction of the uppermost 25% of our population based on income.

Markets tend to under-produce commodities having significant positive externalities. Preventive services like vaccines generate a lower private demand than curative services. Subsidising or incentivising users and penalising non-users of preventive services are two ways of promoting consumption of such services. Even assuming reasonably higher levels of wealth, education, and COVID-19 awareness in the uppermost 25% of the population, significant demand generation concerns would remain, which may lag behind desirable levels. Not to mention that this section is also likely to have better access to free vaccines provided by the government, creating a 'crowding out' effect for the poorer sections. Of course, we assume here that India doesn't have a large surplus of vaccines. We also need to consider the age structure and its possible implications. A large chunk of self-payers are likely to be younger, productive individuals, who are at lesser risk of severe disease and mortality than the elderly.

It's intriguing as to what motivates this 25% share for private players. Is the government driven by herd immunity considerations, which project that between 60% and 80% of the population needs to be imperatively immunised? It is crucial to realise that vaccinating the poorer and marginalised sections, even if it is free of charge, is much more challenging than vaccinating the easily accessible better-off sections. The resultant disparities along geographic and socioeconomic lines would not be consistent with the notion of herd immunity.

All this points to the need to increase the government's share of total vaccines. It is unfair to demonise private hospitals in this situation, especially since service charges have now been capped. The benefits, if any, of differential pricing are likely to accrue mainly to vaccine manufacturers. But vaccine production is also a costly process, and the government's track record of investing in domestic COVID-19 vaccine production has been anything but phenomenal. The result of this is that money spent out-of-pocket is feeding vaccine production in India, which is an inequitable and regressive way of doing things.

Better engagement with private sector

Traditionally, India's approach to dealing with the private sector has been 'all or none' of sorts. On accusations of extortionate pricing by private players, the government hasn't hesitated to impose often unreasonable and unfavourable pricing restrictions. On the contrary, successive governments have frequently been criticised for adopting an unduly favourable attitude towards the private sector in healthcare. It's time we moved beyond this. Greater reach, innovative processes, and efficiency are some of the strengths of the private sector. Any engagement with this sector needs to sufficiently exploit such strengths as part of a strategic purchasing framework. But this will require the government to engage with smaller players too, not just big private hospitals. This will be replete with challenges, including the need for strong regulatory and information systems. More decentralised but accountable regulation might be called for. However, it is possible to envision a favourable risk-benefit trade-off with such engagement. The pandemic is the right time to attain the appropriate public-private policy mix.

Preserving India's archives

Moving the collections in the National Archives annexe needs careful planning and execution

UDAY BALAKRISHNAN

The National Archives is the primary repository of documents on India's past. The last time it was in the news was in 2016 when digital copies of files relating to Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose were made publicly accessible.

Moving the collections in the National Archives annexe needs careful planning and execution. Few know this better than The British Library. Its guide from its Preservation Advisory Centre, titled 'Moving Library and Archive Collections', is succinct and comprehensive, covering every aspect of shifting an archive. A significant point it makes is that "the order in which the collection is to be moved and unpacked must be carefully considered and mapped. In the long term, it is cheaper to put items into their correct place straight away, rather than being rushed into a random storage arrangement."

Those who are protesting the demolition of the annexe include scholars holding important positions in some of the best institutions. They have access to the finest archival expertise in the world. They are best placed to produce a detailed report on how to move the contents of the National Archives annexe and share it with the government giving names of institutions and experts willing to help. Not just the National Archives, but those of the States too are in poor shape. A case in point is the Goa archives, one of the oldest in the country. It contains material relevant not just to India but also to the rest of Asia, Europe, Africa and South America.

While making their proposal, these scholars would do well to recommend an integrated national approach to archival management bringing together State archives too. The private sector could be brought in to construct a world-class building within the next two years as part of CSR and have the annexe collections shifted there. Such a project will do a lot of good for India's image rather than all the protests from a "community of concerned", which, incidentally, is all of us.

Poor shape

The National Archives is in poor shape. A series of articles published in The New York Times in March 2012 by the historian Dinyar Patel laid bare the parlous state of the National Archives. He noted, among other things, that "letters penned by Mohandas K. Gandhi, B.R. Ambedkar, Gopal Krishna Gokhale, and other eminent Indian nationalists have suffered from exposure to humid weather, staff negligence and mishandling, and improper preservation methods." Things have improved since then, but not enough. Writing in The Telegraph Online, of May 30, 2021, Sana Aziz, Assistant Professor of History at Aligarh Muslim University, pointed to lack of expertise to manage acquisitions which has led to "the locking up of some of the rare documents in Persian, Urdu, Arabic, Sanskrit, Prakrit, Tamil, Malayalam, and Modi (records from Maharashtra)".

DATA POINT

Out in the open On October 2, 2019, all the villages in India were declared open defecation-free (ODF). However, recently published data from the National Family Health Survey-5 (NFHS-5) show that in not one of the 18 States surveyed did all the households have access to a toilet facility. The share of access to any type of toilet ranged between 61.7% in Bihar to 99.9% in Mizoram. The survey was initiated in mid-2019 and continued till March 2021. Data also show a wide gap in access to toilets between SC/ST households and other households. By Jasmin Nihalani and Sumant Sen

President's Rule for Punjab

(From an editorial)

The dissolution of the Punjab Assembly by the Governor, Dr. D.C. Pavate, has obviously upset the long-nurtured plans of the topplers who were getting ready to replace the shaky Akali Dal Ministry headed by Mr Badal by what could have only been an equally shaky and ramshackle coalition. No tears need to be shed over the exit of the Badal Government which, along with the Akali Dal itself, had been riven by faction and intrigue for months. Those who thought that the reunion of the faction headed by Mr. Gurnam Singh with the parent Dal under Sant Fateh Singh in November last would ensure stable government in the State would seem to have reckoned without the Akalis' penchant for groupism and infighting. The present crisis which has sparked off some vague and unspecified charges of corruption against some of the Ministers by another Minister, Mr. Trilochan Singh Riasti, was but part of this factional struggle within the party, though his demand for a smaller and more compact Cabinet for so small a State was reasonable. Mr Badal's reluctance to get rid of some of the Ministers on the eve of the Assembly session is also easily explained, as with the outgoing Ministers would also have gone some of the needed support in the Assembly.

The Tilak Swaraja Fund

We hope the attention of our readers has been drawn to the article in Young India by Mahatma Gandhi extracted in the Hindu of the 13th instant on "The Need of The Hour". Mr. Gandhi says that "it will be nothing short of a tragedy if we do not fulfil the Bezwada programme before the end of the month. This question of payment is the acid test of our sincerity, earnestness and capacity. Let us hope that the 30th of this month will not find us wanting." The Joint General Secretary of the Indian National Congress has been issuing earnest appeals to the people in this Presidency exhorting them to respond to the national call for contributing to the Tilak Swaraja Fund. He has been publishing from time to time the amounts received which upto date has only come up to about Rs. 30,000. How poor the response has been so far is shown by the amounts due, from the various Districts, and the amounts collected. We earnestly hope that Madras will not cut a sorry figure among all the Provinces on the 30th June.

Govt. report flags 'lapses' in Nagaland bat study

"We are not aware of lapses," said Mr. Mayor, in written replies to The Hindu. "The [bat] samples we have collected are invaluable to research and understanding zoonotic pathogens," he added, directing all further enquiries on the clearances and bat samples to the Ministry of Health.

However, both the Ministry of Health report dated February 2021, as well as a series of communications between the Ministry of Health and Welfare, and the Department of Atomic Energy, which oversaw the NCBS study in October-November 2020, referred to the issues. The Hindu has seen copies of these documents.

"The research publication raised serious concerns as the samples were collected from humans and bats with intent to test for viral pathogens and resulting antibodies of highly infectious pathogens (risk group 4 viruses).

The study didn't have the requisite approval of ICMR. Moreover, the facility at NCBS was not equipped in terms of biosafety and biosecurity to undertake such testing," states the Health Ministry report.

"The inquiry committee (including Health Ministry and ICMR officials) visited NCBS, Bangalore as well as Nagaland to understand the work done, methodology followed, and places visited during the course of the study," said the report, adding that they found "concerning lapses in the study protocols and procedures".

"All the lapses were discussed and appropriate actions were suggested," it added.

Safe storage issues

Meanwhile, differences over the storage of the Nagaland bat samples between the Department of Atomic Energy (DAE), and the Ministry of Health continue. The Health Ministry wants the samples of nucleic acid extract stored at the Bio Safety Level -4 (BSL-4) standard facility at the National Institute of Virology Laboratory in Pune, rather than NCBS's Bengaluru facilities, that are rated BSL-3 at present.

While the DAE contends that the samples were "non-infectious" and had been checked for the presence of filoviruses (Ebola and Marburg), the Health Ministry contends that such samples must be handled in a laboratory equipped for "biosafety and biosecurity conditions" as otherwise they can pose a "significant public health hazard".

"The issue of bio-security comes under the Department of Biotechnology, and the ICMR has no business raising any concerns on a study done by the NCBS, which is an institution under the Department of Atomic Energy," said noted virologist Gagandeep Kang.

When asked, however, an official said that a 1987 Health Ministry order had designated ICMR Director General and the Health Secretary as the Chairpersons on the committee clearing all research involving foreign funding and foreign collaboration.

According to the citation in the study, named "Filovirus-reactive antibodies in humans and bats in North-east India imply zoonotic spillover", that was published in 2019, the research was funded by U.S. Dept of Defense, U.S. Naval Biological Defense Research Directorate, and Indian Department of Atomic Energy, and credits researchers at Duke-NUS Singapore, U.S. Uniformed Services University as well as Shi Zhengli and Xinglou Yang from the Wuhan Institute for "writing-review and editing" the paper. Protests greet Administrator in Lakshadweep

Residents seek Praful Patel's recall, withdrawal of the 'reforms'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT KOCHI

Clad in black robes and holding black flags and placards, the islanders of Lakshadweep, locked down at their modest households on account of the raging COVID-19 pandemic, protested against the arrival of the Union Territory's Administrator, Praful Khoda Patel, on Monday.

The protest, which was called by the all-party Save Lakshadweep Forum, was to demand the immediate recall of Mr. Patel and the "withdrawal of the unwieldy reforms being pushed by the Union Territory administration under his stewardship".

Hundreds of islanders and those in the mainland put up posters and protest pictures on various social media platforms to express their dismay at the "anti-people policies" that were announced

Muneer Manikfan, village (dweep) panchayat vice-chairperson at Minicoy, said in a video message that the protest was conducted to force the Union government to revoke the "unilateral, draconian, anti-people and anti-environment" draft legislation and orders that were issued by Mr. Patel.

In view of the protests, the police took out a route march along the streets of Kavaratti, the capital, on Sunday night, which the islanders termed as an "intimidation tactic".

Counsel added that there were instances of sheds on the beaches being used for illicit activities.

Ashok Gajapathi Raju gets back Simhachalam temple post

Govt. role in the matter very limited, he said in his plea

The High Court of Andhra Pradesh on Monday struck down G.O. Ashok Gajapathi Raju be reinstated as chairman of both the trusts.

Mr. Ashok said in his petitions that the established practice in the Simhachalam Devasthanam had been for the "eldest male lineal descendant" of the Pusapati Ga-japathi family of the princely State of Vizianagaram to be the hereditary trustee and it was in vogue for more than three centuries and continued even after the temple came under the purview of the Madras Endowment Act of 1951 and subsequently Acts 17 of 1966 and 30 of 1987 of Andhra Pradesh. He asserted that Ms. Sanchaita had no legal claim to be claimed as a "founder family member" as per Section 17 of Act 30, 1987 leave alone being appointed as the hereditary trustee when members of the family belonging to the previous generation were there.

Mr. Ashok said in his petition that the government's jurisdiction on the MANSAS Trust was very limited as it was a public charitable trust and its functioning was guided by the trust deed executed by the settlor.

He also cited certain provisions of the Hindu Succession Act and various judgments as lending credence to his arguments.

The Superior General of the Franciscan Clarist Congregation Sister Ann Joseph has conveyed to Sister Lucy Kalappura, formerly a member of the congregation, that the Vatican had rejected her appeal against her dismissal from the religious order.

The Clarist congregation, a Catholic religious order based near Kochi, had cited several reasons for dismis-was yet to start at the tribunal because of the COVID-19 spread," she told The Hindu.

"As per the letter from the Vatican, my appeal was produced before the Signatura in May 2020," Sister Lucy said, adding that usually the tribunal would not take such a hasty decision, especially during a pandemic outbreak.

The reasons included Sr. Lucy's failure to explain adequately her violating the rules of the religious order and not wearing her religious habit.

She was also accused of

Took part in protest

Sr. Lucy shot into the limelight with her participation in a protest in Kochi in September 2018, when priests, nuns, and religious personnel from the Catholic Church joined hands with reform-minded Church members and voluntary groups to demand the arrest of Bishop Franco Mulakkal of Jalandhar, who was accused of raping a Catholic nun.

The protest was withdrawn after the bishop was arrested.

Sr. Lucy was expelled from the congregation in August 2019 but the Mananthavady munsiff court had given her a reprieve in December of the same year.

A floating bed of degraded water hyacinth being prepared for cultivation of marigold at Thanneermukkom.

For Onam, marigolds from a floating raft

Youth undertakes farming experiment

K.A. MARTIN KOCHI

A small fraction of the millions of marigold flowers used during the annual Onam season to make floral carpets and decorate homes will come from a floating raft farming experiment undertaken by an enterprising young farmer in the Vembanad backwaters in Alappuzha's Thanneermukkom panchayat.

Sujit Swami Nikarhil, who has been into farming for over a decade, said he had put up marigold plants on about 400 sq.ft. of floating raft set up on bamboo frames and held together by coir geotextile with a bed of degraded water hyacinth. He said the flowers from the one-cent raft would be harvested for the Onam season.

Floating raft agriculture, with water hyacinth forming the bed, has been experimented with extensively. It was found, over the last five years, that amaranthus flourishes on the floating raft beds, said K.G. Padmakumar, veteran agricultural scientist and director, International Research and Training Centre for Below Sea Level Farming, Kuttanad.

Floating raft farming had been taken up as a measure of improving adaptability and resilience in the background of climate change, said Dr. Padmakumar. He said experiments in the Alappuzha-Cherthala Canal near Kalavoor with amaranthus had been a great success. Another experiment had been taken up at Kanjipadom. These showed that crops like vegetable cowpea, chillies and tomatoes too were suited for the farming method. The crops should be of short duration so that they can be harvested in about 45 to 60 days, by which time the water hyacinth bed degrades completely.

Dr. Padmakumar said floating raft agriculture with cage fish farming could be remunerative for people. The activities could be taken up even on part-time basis to generate additional income, he added.

Vice president of the panchayat Praveen G. Panicker said the local body looked upon the novel idea as a means to get rid of water hyacinth, which posed problems across water bodies.

Trying to rescue LJP: Pashupati Paras

He indicates that the party will not follow Chirag Paswan's line against JD(U) chief Nitish Kumar

SOBHANA K. NAIR
NEW DELHI

Just hours after five of the six MPs of the Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) met Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla over replacing party president Chirag Paswan with his uncle, Pashupati Nath Paras, as the Leader of the Parliamentary Party, Mr. Paras said he had no complaints against his nephew.

Speaking to mediapersons on Monday morning, Mr. Paras said he was only trying to rescue the party. In the same breath, he also praised Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, calling him 'vikas purush', in a clear indication that the party would not follow Mr. Paswan's line against the JD (U) chief. Mr. Paras, who earlier served as a Minister in Mr. Kumar's Cabinet, made it clear that the six MPs would not join the JD (U). The rebel MPs had an hour-long meeting with another JD(U) leader Lallan Singh at party MP Veena Singh's residence.

What is particularly damaging for Mr. Paswan is that among the rebel MPs is his cousin, Prince Raj, who is said to be very close to him and whom he had anointed as the Bihar unit chief, replacing Mr. Paras.

Mr. Raj is the son of LJP founder Ram Vilas Paswan's younger brother Ramchandra Paswan, who died in 2019. Ram Vilas Paswan never recovered from the shock of his brother's death and in some way that accelerated the deterioration of his own health, leading to his death a year later. The Sunday evening events are the culmination of a nearly seven-month long discontent in the party against Mr. Paswan for his particularly twisted political stand.

He launched a campaign targeting the JD(U) and Mr. Kumar without severing ties with the NDA. He continued to sing praises about Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The LJP won one Assembly seat, managed to garner nearly 6% of the vote share and cost the JD (U) nearly 35 to 40 seats.

Within the party forum, many leaders, including Mr. Paras and Mehboob Ali Kaiser, had criticised Mr. Paswan. Mr. Paras had also made a public statement praising Mr. Kumar, but had to retract it under pressure from his nephew. Mr. Paras and other rebelling MPs have also accused Saurav Pandey, another close aide of Mr. Paswan, of excessive interference and arrogance.

'Fallout of State poll'

Speaking to The Hindu, Mr. Kaiser, observed, "The Sunday events are a fallout of the Bihar elections. We advised him not to go against Nitish Kumar. A leader has to listen to people, but Chirag was impervious to any of our suggestions."

The rebel group did not hold any grudge against Mr. Paswan, who should relent to work under Mr. Paras. "He can work a couple of years under Mr. Paras till he learns the ropes and is amenable to listening to sound advice," Mr. Kaiser added.

Mr. Paswan's aides claimed that the entire rebellion was orchestrated by the JD(U). Recently at a virtual meeting of the NDA constituents, Mr. Paswan, had excused himself, citing ill-health. Sources said he was asked to do so by the BJP after the JD(U) made it clear that they would not tolerate his presence.

The LJP rebellion is likely to strengthen the JD(U)'s parliamentary position. Out of the 40 MPs from the State, the JD(U) has 16 and the BJP 17.

For now, Mr. Paswan has maintained a studied silence. "As of today, Chirag Paswan is the president of LJP," Abdul Khaliq, secretary general of the LJP said. Mr. Paras too has not staked claim to control the party outside of Parliament. Mr. Paswan is hoping that he can placate the rebels by leaving the president's post to his mother, Reena Paswan, though that would only bring in a temporary truce.

Land bought in 'transparent' deal, says Ram Temple Trust

Official cites transfer of money to sellers through bank

LUCKNOW

A day after it faced allegations of financial corruption worth several crores in the purchase of a piece of land in Ayodhya, the Trust set up to build the Ram Mandir said it had carried out the deal with great alacrity and transparency.

Champat Rai, general secretary of the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra, said the 1.2-hectare land in Bagh Bijeti was purchased through full "transparency". Issuing a clarification over the allegations, Mr. Rai said the current sellers of the land had executed contracts in their favour in 2011, 2017 and 2019.

Since the plot was "found useful" by the Trust, the persons concerned were contacted, Mr. Rai said. The final due amount was fixed at ₹1,423 per square feet, which was much less than the market value of nearby land, he said.

"After an agreement was reached over the rate, the persons concerned were required to complete their previous contracts, only then the land could be acquired by the Trust," he said.

As soon as the deed of land was completed in favour of them, the Trust with "great alacrity and transparency" signed the agreement and got it registered, Mr. Rai said in a detailed statement.

He also said the land was purchased with the consent of major temples like Kaushalya Sadan.

Mr. Rai added that from Day 1, the trust had been in favour of making all payments directly into the accounts through banks and the same was followed in this case too.

He accused the parties who raised questions over the deals of creating a situation of "fear in society". A day earlier, he had called the allegations politically motivated.

Holding a separate press conferences on Sunday, former SP MLA from Ayodhya Pawan Pandey and AAP Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Singh had alleged that the land, valued at ₹5.8 crore was purchased and registered by two local businessmen for ₹2 crore on March 18 at around 7:10 p.m. but within 10 minutes of the transaction, the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra purchased the land for an appreciated rate of ₹18.5 crore.

The two leaders further alleged that both the land agreements, which took place just minutes apart, had common witnesses - Ayodhya Mayor Rishikesh Upadhyay and Trust member Anil Mishra.

Probe Ayodhya land deal: Congress

Party alleges 'big scam' by temple trust, says SC must take note of the matter

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Congress on Monday sought a Supreme Court-monitored probe into allegations of irregularity in the purchase of land at Ayodhya by the Ram temple trust.

Addressing a virtual press conference, Congress general secretary and chief spokesperson Randeep Surjewala called the land purchase a "big scam" that used funds collected from devotees and asked Prime Minister Narendra Modi to answer whether those behind the land deals had his protection.

"The Chief Justice and the Supreme Court must take cognisance of the matter and order a court-monitored probe into the charges," Mr. Surjewala said. The top court should also get an audit done for all the donations and funds received and spent by the trust for the construction of the Ram temple in Ayodhya, he said.

on the directions of the Supreme Court, the court should also carry out a probe on the assessment value of all land purchased by the trust from donations and make it public in the traditions of idealism of Lord Ram, Mr. Surjewala said.

He, however, clarified that the construction work on the proposed Ram temple was going on in full swing and the Congress did not want the work to be stopped.

"Shri Ram himself is justice, truth and religion/righteousness. Cheating in his name is unrighteousness," tweeted former Congress chief Rahul Gandhi in Hindi with the hash tag #RamMandir scam.

'Inflated price'

Mr. Surjewala alleged that the Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust had purchased "12,080 square metres of land" at Ayodhya in Uttar Pradesh at an inflated price of ₹18.5 crore.

On March 18, he claimed, the said land was purchased by the temple's trust at ₹18.5 crore from Ravi Tiwari and Sultan Ansari but records of land deeds showed that the same plot was sold to them by Kusum Pathak for ₹2 crore. And that too on the same day barely five minutes before the transaction with the temple trust took place.

The Congress spokesperson claimed that trust members and BJP leader Anil Mishra, and Hrishikesh Upadhyay, a former Mayor of Ayodhya, were signatories to the ₹18.5-crore land deal as per the land deeds. He asserted that the facts pointed to a "big scam" in funds collected from devotees and this amounted to committing a big sin

"Will the Prime Minister answer if those sinners, who have traded the faith of Lord Ram's devotees, have his protection," he asked.

"How could BJP leaders commit such a big malpractice in the name of Lord Ram whose words, values and ethical conduct are sworn as ideals. How much more land has been purchased in such a manner at throwaway rates out of funds received for the temple's construction," asked Mr. Surjewala.

Journalist killed in U.P. 'road accident'

He sought protection from liquor mafia

OMAR RASHID
LUCKNOW

A journalist in Pratapgarh district of Uttar Pradesh, who had written to the police on Saturday fearing a threat to his life from the liquor mafia, died in an alleged road accident on Sunday, the police said.

Sulabh Srivastava, 42, worked as the district correspondent for news channel ABP News.

Additional Superintendent of Police (East) Surendra P. Dwivedi said Srivastava was returning to Pratapgarh from Lalganj between 10 p.m and 11 p.m. on Sunday after reporting on an incident when the accident took place near a brick kiln at the Katra crossing. Labourers working at the kiln found him lying injured on the road. He was taken to hospital where he was declared brought dead.

The officer said prima facie it was found that he was travelling alone and the death happened after he hit a pole and a tubewell on the side of the road. The police, however, were "probing all other angles deeply", he added.

Application to ADG

In an application submitted to Prayagraj ADGP Prem Prakash through WhatsApp, Srivastava had sought police protection, fearing a threat to his life from the liquor mafia which, he said, was unhappy with his coverage of the recent unearthing of illegal liquor factories and police raids in the district. "Last two days, whenever I went out of my house for some work, I felt I was being followed. Based on sources and public discussion, I feel that some liquor mafia who are unhappy over my news, can cause harm to me and my family," he wrote.

Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav condemned the incident and demanded a high-level probe.

The Editors Guild of India said it was "shocked by the cavalier manner" in which the police were treating the "mysterious death" of the journalist. "The authorities paid no heed to his fears," it said. The death comes at a time when the media is facing increasing pressures from the Central and State governments, who insist that they follow the official narrative regarding the administration's handling of the pandemic, it said.

'May 28 order has no link with CAA'

Notification by Centre facilitated non-Muslims to apply for citizenship

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL
NEW DELHI

The Union Home Ministry maintained in the Supreme Court on Monday that its May 28 order delegating power to Collectors in 13 districts across five States to grant citizenship to non-Muslims from Pakistan, Afghanistan and Bangladesh has "no relation whatsoever" with the controversial Citizenship (Amendment) Act of 2019.

The 2019 Act, better known as 'CAA', is under challenge before the Supreme Court. The law is accused of "fast-tracking" citizenship for non-Muslim persecuted minorities - Hindu, Sikh, Jain, Buddhist, Par-si and Christian - from the three neighbours. The CAA is blamed of illegally granting citizenship on the basis of religion.

Petitions in the Supreme Court have drawn parallels between the CAA and the May 28 notification, which facilitates non-Muslims from the three countries residing in 13 districts of Gujarat, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Haryana and Punjab to apply for citizenship.

The Indian Union Muslim League, represented by advocate Haris Beeran, said the May 28 order was a deliberate ploy to implement the CAA's "malafide designs". The Ministry countered that the May order "merely delegates the power of [granting citizenship by registration and naturalisation] to the local authorities in particular cases".

"The Central government used its authority under Section 16 of the Citizenship Act... It is merely a process of decentralisation of decision-making aimed at speedy disposal of the citizenship applications of such foreigners... It has no relation whatsoever to the CAA," the MHA affidavit said.

But Mr. Beeran expressed his doubts, saying "if it has no relation to CAA, where does the May 28 notification draw authority from to specify the same communities for the same three countries for facilitating the citizenship process".

The government reasoned that the notification did not "provide for any relaxations to the foreigners who applies only to foreigners who have entered the country legally". The applicants should possess valid documents like passports and Indian visa. "Any foreigner of any faith can apply for citizenship of India at any time," the MHA affidavit said. The government, however, said the May 28 notification was only one among numerous such orders passed in the past to meet "administrative exigencies".

West Bengal Finance Amit Mitra on Monday said there has been a "dramatic shift" in the Centre's policy towards the GST Council where it is resorting to an "authoritarian and majoritarian" approach undermining its authority and creating an impasse.

Mr. Mitra had sent a dissent note after the 44th meeting of the Council held last week and described its move to retain tax levies on COVID relief materials as a "totally anti-people decision" that was "thrust upon" members.

'China, India, Pak. expanding nuclear arsenal'

Number of warheads globally appears to be increasing, reversing the earlier trend, says SIPRI report

DINAKAR PERI
NEW DELHI

China is in the middle of a significant modernisation and expansion of its nuclear weapon inventory, and India and Pakistan also appear to be expanding their nuclear arsenals, according to Swedish think tank Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI) Year Book 2021 released on Monday.

"The overall number of warheads in global military stockpiles now appears to be increasing, a worrisome sign that the declining trend that has characterised global nuclear arsenals since the end of the Cold War has stalled," said Hans M. Kristensen, associate senior fellow with SIPRI's Nuclear Disarmament, Arms Control and Non-proliferation Programme.

According to the year book, India possessed an estimated 156 nuclear warheads at the start of 2021, compared with 150 at the start of last year, while Pakistan had 165 warheads, up from 160 in 2020. China's nuclear arsenal consisted of 350 warheads, up from 320 at the start of 2020.

The nine nuclear armed states - the U.S., Russia, the U.K., France, China, India, Pakistan, Israel and North Korea - together possessed an estimated 13,080 nuclear weapons at the start of 2021. Russia and the U.S. together possessed over 90% of global nuclear weapons, SIPRI said.

IISS report

A report by the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS), London, in May titled 'Nuclear Deterrence and Stability in South Asia: Perceptions and Realities' said that chance played an important ameliorative role in the India-Pakistan crisis of February 2019 and the two countries "risk stumbling into using their nuclear weapons through miscalculation or misinterpretation in a future crisis." "India and Pakistan are seeking new technologies and capabilities that dangerously undermine each other's defence under the nuclear threshold," said the report. It said China's evolving profile as a nuclear-weapon state was compounding India's security challenges.

Indian labs widen net for a mutant form of Delta variant

It allows the virus to escape antibodies, similar to virulent South African variant

JACOB KOSHY
NEW DELHI
An emerging form of the Delta variant that allows the coronavirus to "escape" antibodies, in recently approved treatment regimes, is appearing on the radar of Indian scientists.

Five Indian labs have submitted data on this modified variant in May and June to GISAID, a global repository of coronavirus variants. Public Health England (PHE), a United Kingdom body, has also stated that of the 63 genomes in its repository as of June 7, six were from India. This does not, however, mean that only six instances of this form of the virus exist in India. Evidence of the mutant have been found in Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Telangana and Karnataka.

Called AY1 or B.1.617.2.1, it is a variant of Delta (B.1.617.2), but with a mutation called K417N, which has previously been identified in the Beta variant – first identified in South Africa. This is an international Variant of Concern (VOC), marked by being highly infectious and significantly able to reduce the potency of vaccines. "It has all the mutations that make the Delta variant, along with an additional concerning one with the South African variant," said Shahid Jameel, former adviser to the Indian SARS-CoV2 Genomic Consortium (INSACOG). "It is indeed a matter of concern, and we should be sequencing more to identify how widely prevalent it is in India."

The Delta variant is now regarded as the most prevalent variant in India, comprising nearly 31% of the 21,000 community samples processed until late May. The ICMR-National Institute of Virology and the CSIR-Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology, Hyderabad, have conducted laboratory tests to determine the potency of Covishield and Covaxin against the new variant.

While antibodies continued to be produced against the variant, they were fewer than against the strain used by the vaccine companies to prepare their vaccines. However, antibody levels are not the only markers of immunity. An additional concern with the K417N mutation, according to a database of the CSIR-Institute of Genomics and Integrative Biology (CSIR-IGIB), was that it was associated with resistance to a newly developed monoclonal antibody treatment drug, Casirivimab and Imdevimab, for treating those with moderate and severe disease, but at high risk. Marketed by Roche and Cipla in India, the drug was recently approved by India's Central Drug Standards and Control Organisation. The price for each patient dose, a combined dose of 1200 mg (600 mg of Casirivimab and 600 mg of Imdevimab), will be ₹59,750 inclusive of all taxes, a statement said.

Anurag Agrawal, Director, CSIR-IGIB, New Delhi, however, said as of now, the AY1 was "just something to keep track of".

A report from PHE on June 11 said that of the 36 identified cases of the AY1 in the U.K., 27 occurred in those who had taken at least one dose of vaccine. There were no deaths reported so far among the 36 cases.

India reports 58,463 cases

2,698 new deaths recorded; 14.99 lakh vaccine doses given

India recorded 58,463 new COVID-19 cases and 2,698 new deaths till 9.30 p.m. on Monday. The country has so far reported a total of 2,95,68,540 cases and 3,77,027 deaths.

Tamil Nadu reported 12,772 new infections, followed by Maharashtra (8,129) and Kerala (7,719). Maharashtra recorded 1,592 new fatalities, followed by Tamil Nadu (254) and Kerala (161). Maharashtra's fatalities include backlog deaths, which were missed in the previous reports.

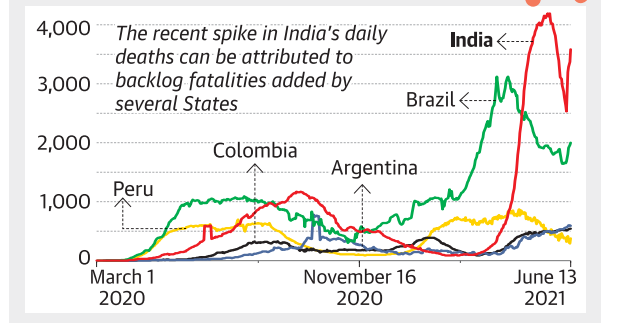

The figures do not include cases and deaths from Nagaland, Arunachal Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Tripura and Ladakh. The data are sourced from the respective States' health bulletins.

Nearly 14.92 lakh samples were tested in the country on Sunday (the results for which were made available on Monday).

Nearly 14.99 lakh vaccine doses were administered in the country in the 24 hours ending 7 a.m. on Monday, which is 19.84 lakh doses fewer than what was recorded in the previous 24 hours.

Heavy toll

The seven-day rolling average of daily COVID-19 deaths in India stood at 3,588 on June 13. It was highest in the world

It is also 1.08 lakh doses more than what was recorded during the corresponding period a week ago. The seven-day rolling average of daily vaccinations in the country continues to increase. It stood at 30.03 lakh on June 13, which is more than the 26.96 lakh recorded a week before (June 6).

At least one dose
About 21.1% of adults in India, 42.5% of those aged above 45 and 46.1% of persons aged above 60 have been administered at least one dose of a COVID-19 vaccine until 8 p.m. on Monday. While 15.2% of the country's population has received at least one dose, only 3.5% are fully vaccinated. The figures are based on the estimated population in 2021.

The share of fully vaccinated persons in comparable economies such as Brazil and Russia are 11.12% and 9.81%, respectively.

India continued to record the highest number of seven-day average daily deaths in the world, with 3,588 deaths on June 13. The two countries with the highest fatality count after India were Brazil (2,000) and Argentina (590). Nearly 33% of the world's new deaths were recorded in India on June 13.

Centre lists food schemes for migrants labourers

States responsible for distribution: govt.

The Centre on Monday informed the Supreme Court that the States and the Union Territories have purchased nearly 3.7 lakh tonnes of foodgrains at concessional rates from the Food Corporation of India this year to supply to migrants without ration cards and others outside the protective cover of the National Food Security Act (NFSA), debunking apprehensions in court that those without ration cards may be left to die amid a devastating pandemic.

The Supreme Court had asked the Centre to explain "how food will reach migrant labourers without ration cards". The Centre has placed on record details of its schemes to feed migrants, the poor and the badly affected in the public health crisis.

Besides the purchase of grains by the States and the UTs under the Open Market Sales Scheme (OMSS) in 2021-22, the Centre said, NGOs and charitable organisations had purchased 421 tonnes of food commodities. "NGOs run kitchens for supply of cooked food to non-card migrants," the Centre, represented by Additional Solicitor-General

The SC had asked for details on "how food will reach migrants without cards".

Aishwarya Bhati, said in written submissions in the court. However, the responsibility to distribute foodgrains lies with the States, it noted. "Union of India is committed to making sufficient foodgrains available to the States at highly subsidised prices under the above schemes, to tide over the difficulty of food security during the current crisis. However, the responsibility of identification and distribution to the beneficiaries lies with the States/UTs," it submitted.

The Centre also said it had written twice to the States/UTs – on May 20 and May 25 – advising them to "avail their requirements of foodgrains under the schemes and to provide foodgrains to those not covered under the National Food Security Act".

'ONORC is tailor-made for migrants'

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The 'One Nation One Ration Card' (ONORC) scheme makes food security "portable" and is "tailor-made" for migrant labourers, the Centre told the Supreme Court on Monday.

"One Nation One Ration Card plan aims to empower all National Food Security Act migrant beneficiaries to access foodgrains from any Fair Price Shop [FPS] of their choice anywhere in the country by using their same/existing ration card with biometric authentication," the Centre told the court, which had asked it to detail the schemes to provide food to migrant workers hit by COVID-19.

The government, represented by Additional Solicitor-General Aishwarya Bhati, said, "A total of 32 States/UTs covering around 69 crore NFSA beneficiaries, i.e., 86% NFSA population in the country, were swiftly brought under the ONORC plan by December 2020".

The effort was to ensure that migrant workers and their families got assured access to nutrition via national portability of ration cards under the Food Security Act, the Centre stated.

Choksi's legal team releases videos

Individuals, including Indian-origin men, were involved in operation, it claims

KALLOL BHATTACHARJEE
NEW DELHI

A U.K.-based law firm looking after the case of fugitive diamond trader Mehul Choksi on Monday released images and videos purportedly showing individuals, including Indian-origin men, involved in an elaborate operation to take Mr. Choksi from Antigua to Dominica on May 23.

Justice Abroad, the law firm, has claimed that Mr. Choksi was kidnapped with the help of a woman acquaintance and men who gagged and tied him to a wheelchair and used at least one unmarked boat to transport him from Antigua to

Mehul Choksi

Dominica. Michael Polak of Justice Abroad said the intention behind the entire episode was to "whisk away" Mr. Choksi to India by shortening the legal process. "The evidence in this case shows that Mr. Choksi was kidnapped from Antigua, where he had outstanding cases before the Courts, and unlawfully renditioned to Dominica. We believe that the aim was for him to be whisked away to India, bypassing the proper legal processes in Antigua and Dominica," said Mr. Polak in a statement.

In documents and photographs seen by The Hindu, the legal team fighting the case in Dominica shows a few men who appeared to be of Indian origin on the deck of a boat that was allegedly used to transport Mr. Choksi from Antigua.

Two videos shared by the legal team show an unnamed boat allegedly carrying Mr. Choksi. The boat was not carrying a flag at the time of its movement from Antigua's Jolly Harbour North Finger to a rendezvous with another boat, which eventually took the fugitive diamond trader to Dominica. Mr. Choksi's legal team claimed that he came to the beachfront villa in Antigua of his recent acquaintance Barbara Jarabik on May 23 and was soon overpowered by a group of men who "rushed out and beat him". He was "gagged and tied to a wheelchair" at knifepoint and placed on the unmarked boat. This boat placed him on the Calliope of Arne, which took him to Dominica.

NCPCR warns portals on illegal adoption

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The National Commission of Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) has written to WhatsApp, Facebook, Twitter and Telegram over the issue of illegal social media posts offering children orphaned due to COVID-19 for adoption, and warned them that failure to report such posts would invite "strict action".

"It is requested that in cases where such posts are posted on your online social media platforms, information about the same must be reported to the law enforcement authorities and/or National Commission or State Commission of the State/Union Territories [UTs] concerned and provide the details of the IP address, origin of the post and other such relevant details," NCPCR chairperson Priyank Kanoongo wrote in a letter on June 13. The Commission also demanded an action taken report "within 10 days" from each of the four entities.

Last week, the Supreme Court ordered the States and UTs to take stringent action against private individuals and NGOs who invited people to adopt children orphaned by the pandemic.

NEW DELHI

The Mamata Banerjee government on Monday named BJP members, while maintaining in the Supreme Court that "concocted stories" on social media spread the narrative of State complicity in the "post poll violence".

"It is untenable to categorise each and every act of violence following the declaration of elections results as 'post poll violence' while say reports disseminated on social media by miscreants. The State said the apex court was misled about the law and order situation. The petitions "reek of political motivation". The petitions have asked the court to form a Special Investigation Team (SIT) and to order immediate relief to internally displaced persons affected by the violence.

"No person can be forced to stay away from his/her house, as it is their inherent right to live in their houses peacefully," the State said.

It said the petitions in the Supreme Court conveyed a "misleading narrative" while a five-judge Bench of the Calcutta High Court was already hearing a gamut of issues arising from the "alleged post poll violence". The High Court had been passing effective orders in the case, the State noted. Three counter-affidavits were filed in the High Courts on the FIRs registered and arrests made.

Speciality of Ramayana

Of the two Itihasas, namely the Ramayana and the Mahabharata, the former is special, said M.A. Venkatakrisnan, in a discourse. While the Mahabharata contains the Bhagavad Gita and the Vishnu Sahasranama, yet, the Gita and the Sahasranama are a small part of the Mahabharata. The latter is mostly about the fight between the Kauravas and the Pandavas. Of the more than one lakh verses, the Gita and the Vishnu Sahasranama take up only a few hundred verses. That is why Vyasa wrote a follow up, called Hari Vamsa, where he speaks about the greatness of Hari. Although the Mahabharata and Hari Vamsa are considered to be separate works, Hari Vamsa is actually like an addendum to the Mahabharata. In the case of the Ramayana, the entire work talks about Rama. It is called Adi kavya, for it was the earliest of all kavyas in Sanskrit. Dandin wrote the rules for writing kavyas. But it was the Ramayana which provided material for all those rules. So the work of how to write kavyas was based on the pattern provided by the Ramayana.

Before the Ramayana, we did have the Vedas, but the Samhita portion of the Vedas was entirely about how to perform yagas. The Upanishads were about Brahman. There was no story told. So, Valmiki's Ramayana was a pioneering work. Valmiki saw a hunter kill a krauncha bird, and saw the distress of its pair. He cursed the hunter. But what was surprising was that the curse came out in a metre! This was not due to a conscious attempt by Valmiki. It just happened that way. His curse had come out as a verse, with four padas, with each pada having eight syllables. While the Vedas also have chandas, the difference is that they are Vaideeka chandas, and Valmiki's is laukeeka chandas. Vedic chandas have tonal variations, which chandas in kavyas do not have.

A year on, unanswered questions on Galwan clash

China's accounts reveal few details that appear aimed at conveying a carefully crafted message to the domestic audience

ANANTH KRISHNAN

A year after the June 15, 2020 clash in the Galwan Valley, China's official accounts of what led to the worst violence on the India-China border since 1967 still leave many questions unanswered, revealing few and selective details that appear aimed at conveying a carefully crafted message to the domestic audience.

While Chinese officials have said repeatedly in recent months "the rights and wrongs are clear" of what led to the LAC tensions, Indian officials say Beijing is, in fact, yet to provide any clarity or credible explanation of its actions last year, starting with mobilising a large number of troops in April following annual military exercises and deploying them close to the LAC, not just in Galwan Valley.

That mobilisation in April, coming at a time when India had to delay its own summer exercises because of the COVID-19 outbreak, is one of several key missing details in China's official accounts so far.

A reading of all of China's public statements issued in the year since the Galwan clash underlines a two-fold approach in Beijing's messaging: a focus only on the Galwan Valley with little to no mention of the other troubled spots on the LAC, where PLA transgressions led to multiple stand-offs, and since February this year, a more proactive propaganda effort aimed at emphasising the bravery of China's troops in Galwan and portraying Beijing not as the aggressor, but as defending its sovereignty.

Since this year, China has also firmly clamped down on any questioning of the official narrative. Earlier this month, Chinese authorities sentenced Qiu Ziming, one of at least half a dozen people who have been detained over comments on Galwan, to eight months in prison "for defaming martyrs". Mr. Qiu had questioned why India had promptly recognised the loss of 20 Indian soldiers in Galwan Valley but China was yet to fully reveal casualties, with the first announcement of honours coming on ly eight months later.

Sparse details

In the past year, China has issued two detailed statements on the LAC, a "step-by-step account" from the Foreign Ministry on June 19, 2020 and accounts in February 2021 published in the official PLA Daily after the Chinese government revealed it had suffered casualties as it announced military honours for five soldiers, four of them recognised posthumously.

The first Chinese account of tensions came in the Communist Party-run Global Times on May 18, which said Chinese troops had "bolstered border control measures and made necessary moves in response to India's recent, illegal construction of defence facilities across the border into Chinese territory in the Galwan Valley region". The June 19 statement from the Chinese government said "since April, the Indian border troops have unilaterally and continuously built roads, bridges and other facilities at the LAC in the Galwan Valley." It referred to the early morning of May 6 as the start of more serious tensions, alleging the Indian troops had "crossed the LAC by night".

Indian officials said the reverse had happened: that Indian troops had since April been prevented from reaching Patrolling Point 14, which they go up to every summer, and that construction of facilities had taken place on India's side of PP14. Satellite images later released suggested the June 15 clash had happened near PP14. Most Indian patrolling points lie short of the LAC on India's side.

Video release

In February, the announcement of military honours for five soldiers was accompanied by the release of a video on Chinese state media from Galwan Valley.

The video clips, which triggered an outpouring of anger in China, showed Indian soldiers crossing the river and Chinese troops holding their ground. The message was to show India as the aggressor, which is the widely prevailing view in China. Left unsaid was the context of the video, in which Indian troops were trying to push back Chinese troops who had come up to PP14.

On June 11, in the lead up to the one-year anniversary of the clash, which also comes just two weeks before China is planning a major military parade to mark the centenary of the Communist Party on July 1, state broadcaster CCTV interviewed Qi Fabao, the regimental commander who was among the five honoured in February. Mr. Qi spoke at a military meeting, appearing with "the scar on his head clearly seen", the Global Times reported. Chen Hongjun, one of the four soldiers who was named as being killed in the clash, will be among 29 people honoured with a medal on the July 1 anniversary.

The continued focus on Galwan, while the still unresolved tensions in Depsang, Demchok, Gogra and Hot Springs, remain almost entirely ignored in the coverage, is one key element of the broader messaging effort, as acknowledging multiple stand-offs, as well as the fact that it is India and not China that is demanding a return to status quo in the slow-moving negotiations, would undermine the Chinese military's central claim of not being the aggressor.

At NATO meet, Biden vows to defend Europe

He calls it a 'sacred obligation' of U.S.

REUTERS
BRUSSELS

U.S. President Joe Biden told fellow NATO leaders on Monday the defence of Europe, Turkey and Canada was a "sacred obligation" for the United States, a marked shift from his predecessor Donald Trump's threats to withdraw from the military alliance.

Arriving in Brussels from the weekend's G7 summit in England, Mr. Biden again sought to rally Western allies to support a U.S. strategy to contain China's military rise as well as showing unity in the face of Russian aggression.

"Article Five is a sacred obligation," Mr. Biden said, referring to the transatlantic alliance's collective defence pledge. "I want all Europe to know that the U.S. is there," he said after arriving in his black presidential limousine.

"NATO is critically important to us," said Mr. Biden, who is seeking to mend ties after Mr. Trump's denigration of the nuclear-armed alliance over the past four years and what Mr. Trump said were its "delinquent" members.

Allies are expected to brand China a security risk to the Western alliance for the first time, a day after the Group of Seven rich nations issued a statement on human rights in China and Taiwan that Beijing said slandered its reputation.

Mr. Biden said both Russia and China were not acting "in a way that is consistent with what we had hoped", referring to Western efforts since the mid-1990s to bring both countries into the fold of liberal democracies.

The reign of 'Bibi' is over, for now

The ousted leader has vowed to topple the 'dangerous' new govt. of PM Bennett

STANLEY JOHNY

Supporters call him 'King Bibi of Israel'. Detractors deride his right-wing politics, polarising leadership and bellicose foreign policy. But Benjamin Netanyahu has been a domineering presence in Israel's politics for more than three decades. On Sunday, his illustrious political career suffered a major setback when a coalition formed by his former protégés proved majority in the Knesset, the Israeli Parliament, bringing an end to Mr. Netanyahu's 12 years of consecutive rule.

Arguably, no politician has managed to influence Israel's domestic and foreign policies as much as Mr. Netanyahu has done in the new century. He ruled from the right, made alliances with a host of Jewish orthodox parties, took a harder line towards the Palestinians, expanded the Jewish settlements in the Palestinian territories, repeatedly bombed Gaza, clashed with the Obama administration over the Iran deal, took Israel's covert and overt operations to Iran and Syria, made peace with four Arab countries and clung on to power despite repeated failures to form a stable government since 2019.

Even after the 'change' coalition was formed under the leadership of centrist politician Yair Lapid and right-wing leader Naftali Bennett, Mr. Netanyahu tried till the last moment to subvert government formation. And after it became certain that Mr. Bennett would be elected Prime Minister on Sunday, in the Knesset, he threatened to "topple the dangerous left-wing government". The message is clear — Mr. Netanyahu is already plotting a comeback.

Opposition to Oslo talks

Born in Israel and brought up partly in the U.S., Mr. Netanyahu, like most Israelis, served in the military in the 1970s, along with his brother Yonatan Netanyahu. Yonatan was killed in 1976, at age 30, during an operation to rescue hostages held at Uganda's Entebbe Airport. Mr. Netanyahu rose to fame in the 1980s when he was posted as Israel's Ambassador to the UN. A fluent speaker in English with an East Coast accent, he was a regular presence in American TV shows during that time. After returning to Israel, he plunged into politics, in 1988, in the midst of the First Intifada by the Palestinians. Mr. Netanyahu built a political career by opposing the Oslo peace process in the early 1990s.

In 1993, when he was 43, Mr. Netanyahu became the leader of Likud. He lambasted the Oslo Accords, attended right-wing rallies held to oppose the peace policies of Labor Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and continued to call Yasser Arafat a terrorist. When Rabin was assassinated in November 1995 by a Jewish extremist, many critics said Mr. Netanyahu's hyperbole speeches at rallies where crowds chanted "death to Rabin" fuelled extremism and incitement.

But it did not deter Mr. Netanyahu. In 1996, he became Israel's youngest Prime Minister. Under his watch, the Oslo process slowed down. After losing power in 1999, he was in the wilderness briefly when Labour leader Ehud Barak revived the peace process. But the 2000 Camp David summit failed. Palestinian territories erupted into the Second Intifada.

When Liku came back to power, Mr. Netanyahu played second fiddle to Ariel Sharon. But the party came into his hands when Sharon left Likud in 2005 to form Kadima. As Likud chief, he sat in the Opposition. It was during this period that Mr. Bennett joined the Netanyahu team. A U.S.-based entrepreneur, Mr. Bennett became Mr. Netanyahu's Chief of Staff. Mr. Netanyahu came to power again in 2009. Twelve years later, the same Bennett would dislodge his former boss from power and take his job.

In the past, Mr. Netanyahu had mastered the art of survival. But his repeated failure to form a stable government after four elections since 2019 appeared to have weakened the brand of Netanyahu. He is also facing corruption charges. Even the Gaza bombing, which many predicted would help him politically, appears to have backfired as his right-wing allies criticised the ceasefire with Hamas, calling it "a surrender".

Fragile coalition

When his grip on Israeli politics finally started loosening up, his political rivals found an opportunity. Mr. Lapid stitched together a coalition of eight parties, from the right-wing Yamina of Mr. Bennett to the Arab Ra'am. This is the first time an Arab party is joining a ruling coalition in the history of Israel.

In the Knesset, Mr. Netanyahu has made it clear that he will not give up. He has called the coming together of the diverse parties an "election fraud". On the other side, the Lapid-Bennett coalition is visibly weak. When Mr. Lapid announced the coalition earlier this month, he had the support of 61 Members of the Knesset (MKs) out of 120. During the vote on June 13, the government got the backing of 60 MKs as against the Opposition's 59 — one MK from Ra'am abstained. It would be an uphill task for Mr. Bennett to keep his bloc together, especially when sensitive issues such as Jerusalem and Jewish settlements come up.

But to begin with, they did what seemed impossible till a few months ago — ousting Mr. Netanyahu from power. For Messrs. Lapid and Bennett, that itself is an achievement.

Novavax announces efficacy of about 90% for its vaccine

In India, it is slated to be produced in partnership with SII

SRIRAM LAKSHMAN
WASHINGTON

U.S. vaccine manufacturer Novavax said its COVID-19 vaccine had shown an overall efficacy of 90.4% in trials in the U.S. and Mexico, potentially adding — in a few months — another vaccine to the world's arsenal against the disease, which has killed close to 4 million people. Trials have already occurred in the U.K. and South Africa.

The Maryland-based company, which tested its two dose 'NVX-CoV2373' vaccine on a population of just under 30,000 adults in the U.S. and Mexico, said the jabs provided 100% protection against moderate to severe disease and an overall efficacy of 90.4%. Of the 77 individuals out of 29,960 in the trial who contracted COVID-19, 14 received the actual vaccine, doses of which were spaced three weeks apart, while 63 had received placebos.

Ten moderate to severe cases of the disease were observed, but all were confined to the placebo group, the company said. All 14 infections in the vaccinated group were mild. Preliminary data suggest that the vaccine is safe, according to a press release from Novavax.

Novavax detected strains of the virus found first in the U.K., U.S., Brazil, South Africa and India, according to data released by the company during a Monday morning conference call.

Vaccine efficacy was 91% in "high-risk" populations (above 65 years of age, or under 65 years with comorbidities or frequent COVID-19 exposure) the company said.

Novavax said it plans to apply for authorisations in the third quarter (July-September) and is on track to manufacture 100 million doses a month by the end of September, and 150 million doses a month by the end of 2021. The U.S. has more doses than it will need to vaccinate its entire population and as a result, much of the Novavax vaccine may be used in developing countries. That it can be stored at 2-8 degrees Celsius makes it easier to use in developing countries, where maintaining unbroken cold chains can be challenging. The vaccine works by eliciting an immune response to a prefusion spike protein built from Novavax's recombinant nanoparticle technology and an adjuvant (a substance that increases immune response).

The vaccine is likely to be authorised first in a country other than the U.S., its CEO Stanley Erck said, according to the New York Times. "Many of our first doses will go to... low- and middle-income countries, and that was the goal to begin with," Mr. Erck told The Associated Press. Novavax has signed an agreement with international vaccine access coalition Gavi, to supply 1.1 billion to low- and middle-income countries.

In India, the vaccine is slated to be produced in partnership with the Serum Institute of India (SII), under the name Covavax. Earlier in June, the Drugs Controller General of India had given permission to SII to go ahead with Phase 2/3 trials.

China accuses G7 of 'political manipulation'

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE
BEIJING

China on Monday accused the G7 of "political manipulation" after it criticised Beijing over its human rights record in Xinjiang and Hong Kong.

In a communique after a three-day summit in England, G7 leaders slammed China over abuses against minorities in the Xinjiang region and pro-democracy activists in Hong Kong, while U.S. President Joe Biden called for Beijing to "start acting more responsibly in terms of international norms on human rights".

The Chinese Embassy in the U.S. responded angrily on Monday. "The Group of Seven (G7) takes advantage of Xinjiang-related issues to engage in political manipulation and interfere in China's internal affairs, which we firmly oppose," an Embassy spokesman said in a statement.

The statement accused the G7 of "lies, rumours and baseless accusations".

Activists say China has rounded up an estimated one million Uighurs and other minorities in Xinjiang into internment camps, which Beijing says is to eradicate extremism.

EU resolution puts spotlight on Sri Lanka's rights situation

It does not take cognisance of multi-faceted progress: govt.

MEERA SRINIVASAN
COLOMBO

A recent resolution adopted by the European Parliament, urging the EU Commission to consider temporary withdrawal of the GSP+ status given to Sri Lanka, has put the spotlight back on Sri Lanka's human rights situation, prompting Colombo to defend its "multifaceted progress" in its response.

Sri Lanka regained the GSP+, or the EU's 'Generalised Scheme of Preferences' in 2017, on Colombo's commitment to implement 27 international conventions on human rights, labour conditions, protection of the environment and good governance. The status effectively removes import duties on goods from Sri Lanka entering the EU.

The June 10 resolution, expressing "deep concern over Sri Lanka's alarming path towards the recurrence of grave human rights violations", makes specific reference to the use of the Prevention of Terrorism Act, pointing to arrests of lawyer Hejaaz Hizbullah and poet Ahnaf Jazeem, among others, who are in "arbitrary" detention for over a year.

The resolution notes the "continuing discrimination" against and violence towards religious and ethnic minorities, while voicing "serious concern" about the 20th Amendment passed in 2020, and the "resulting decline in judiciary independence, the reduction of parliamentary control, and the excessive accumulation of power with the presidency".

Responding, Sri Lanka's Foreign Ministry on Friday said it regrets the adoption of the resolution that, it observed, "contains factual inaccuracies, and does not take cognisance of the multi-faceted progress made by Sri Lanka in reconciliation and development." Rejecting claims that the PTA is used for arbitrary detentions, the Ministry said it was "revisiting provisions" of the Act to propose "necessary amendments", drawing upon international best practices.

'Download speeds stay resilient'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

MUMBAI
Mobile phone-usage experience in India remained resilient during the second wave of COVID-19 lockdowns despite increased demand for mobile data than the first wave, said mobile analytics firm Opensignal.

In the last three weeks of April, average data consumption had soared between 20% and 23%.

"Unlike the first lockdown, our users did not observe a substantial change in their overall download experience during the second wave.

"This highlights that the mobile experience has been remarkably resilient during the second wave despite increased demand for mobile data," it added.

Consumer inflation quickens to 6.3%

Rural areas see sharper spurt; WPI inflation races to record 12.94% spurred by rise in fuel, edible oils

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Retail inflation hit a six-month high of 6.3% in May, thanks to a persistent rise in fuel and edible oil prices, which also played a part in pushing wholesale prices to a record 12.94% inflation in the month, as per data released on Monday.

Consumers experienced an inflation of 11.58% for the 'fuel and light' category in May, with urban India bearing a bigger hit of 14.24% on the same account. Food inflation reheated to 5.1% from just 1.96% in April.

Overall retail prices, however, saw a sharper spurt in rural areas from 3.75% in April to 6.5% in May, while it was less pronounced in urban India at a little more than 6% from 4.7% in April, as per the National Statistical

Runaway prices: Food inflation accelerated significantly to 5.1% from a mere 1.96% in April. ■ RAMAKRISHNA G

Office. At the wholesale level, fuel and power inflation nearly quadrupled to 37.6% from the 9.75% recorded in March this year, and is significantly higher than the 20.94% mark attained in April. Manufactured products' inflation rose to 10.83% from 9% in April.

The 'high rate of inflation is primarily due to low base effect and rise in prices of crude petroleum, mineral oils, and manufactured products', an official statement on the Wholesale Price Index (WPI) said.

WPI had contracted 3.37% in May 2020.

'RBI will find it tricky'

Economists said the hardening inflation numbers would make it trickier for the Reserve Bank of India to balance the need to spur growth while keeping a lid on price rise, but they don't expect a change from its 'accommodative' stance any time soon.

The RBI had recently revised its inflation estimate for 2021-22 to 5.4%, while moderating growth hopes for 2021 to 9.5%.

"Although it is still too early to believe that retail inflation will remain in excess of 6% on a sustained basis, given the high base of last year, we believe the rising wholesale inflation which is gradually finding a reflection in the retail inflation as well, is going to make things difficult for RBI," said Sunil Kumar Sinha, principal economist at India Ratings.

Ratings agency ICRA said core retail inflation had hit an 83-month high of 6.6% and is expected to remain higher than 5% through the year.

"The phased unlocking of the States may temper the CPI inflation to around 6% in June. We have raised our forecast for the FY2022 average CPI inflation to at least 5.4%," said its chief economist Aditi Nayar.

She, however, expects the RBI's monetary policy committee to maintain 'a high tolerance' even if average retail inflation hovers between 5.5 and 6%, given the uncertainties regarding the growth outlook.

'Raters must give longer rope to developing world'

India can make vaccines for all: Goyal

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI

Union Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said there was a need for global rating agencies and bodies such as the IMF to be 'compassionate' towards developing countries and give them 'a longer rope' for economic revival.

Mr. Goyal also asserted that India can not only vaccinate its 1.35 billion people but also produce enough for the rest of the world if supply restrictions are resolved.

"All the 7 billion people in the world need to be vaccinated, as nobody's safe till everybody's safe," he said.

The Minister was speaking at the UN Trade Forum attended by the World Trade Organization Director General Ngozi Okonjo-Iweala who called for slashing export curbs and expediting Intellectual Property waivers to boost universal vaccination. "First, we can't recover without vaccines. Trade policy is vaccine policy and vaccine policy is trade policy," she said.

"I do hope that credit rating agencies and agencies like the IMF do not land up being unfairly harsh on the developing and less-developed countries," said Mr. Goyal. "A little longer rope needs to be given, even with regard to earlier agreements or commitments, so that these countries have space to bring their economies back on track," he said.

Cement offtake drops 25% in April-June: ICRA

'Pent-up demand to drive sales in Q2'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

NEW DELHI

The second wave of COVID-19 has adversely impacted the domestic cement sales in the April-June quarter, reducing 25% on a quarter-on-quarter basis but pent-up demand is expected to push up volumes starting in the July-September quarter, as per a report.

In April, when the second wave was on the rise, domestic production was down 35% month-on-month in April and 4% lower in comparison with the pre-pandemic April 2019, said ratings agency ICRA.

Unlike last year, rural areas have also been impacted in the second wave.

ral regions is expected to be gradual," it said. However, it added that pent-up demand is likely to drive offtake once lockdowns are relaxed.

ICRA AVP and sector head Anupama Reddy said cement firms have raised prices by an average of 5% in April from a year earlier, spurred by the rise in input costs, primarily power & fuel and freight expenses.

I-T Dept. allows manual filing as new portal stalls

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

NEW DELHI

The Income Tax department on Monday allowed manual filing of certain forms after the new tax filing portal continued to face tech glitches even a week after its introduction.

The I-T department issued a circular allowing manual filing of Form 15CA/15CB (required for foreign remittances) with banks till June 30, so that business transactions may go on. The new portal was unveiled on June 7.

taxpayers in electronic filing of Income Tax Forms 15CA/15CB on the portal, it has been decided that taxpayers can submit the aforesaid forms in manual format to the authorised dealers till June 30."

Nangia & Co. LLP partner Shailesh Kumar said due to shutdown of old e-filing portal post May 31 and technical snags being faced with the new portal, filing of online Forms 15CA and 15CB has not been possible till now.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

CHENNAI

Public sector lender Indian Overseas Bank (IOB) standalone net profit for the fourth quarter ended March surged more than twofold to ₹350 crore on account of a rise in other income and decline cost of deposits.

Adani stocks tumble on reports of NSDL action

Group says 3 FPI accounts not frozen

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

NEW DELHI

Shares of Adani Group companies witnessed a massive drubbing in morning trade on Monday, tumbling up to 25%, amid reports that the National Securities Depository Ltd. (NSDL) had frozen certain foreign portfolio investor (FPI) accounts that have holding in some of these firms.

Billionaire Gautam Adani's group on Monday said it had written confirmation that accounts of three foreign funds, that were among its top shareholders, had not frozen and reports to the contrary were "blatantly erroneous and misleading".

Following the statement, shares of some group firms witnessed partial recovery from their early losses.

Adani Enterprises closed 6.26% lower at ₹1,501.25 and Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone tumbled 8.36% to ₹768.70 on the BSE.

In morning trade, Adani Enterprises had tanked 24.99% to ₹1,201.10, while Adani Ports dived 18.75% to ₹681.50. Adani Green Energy dipped 4.13% to ₹1,175.95, Adani Total Gas fell 5% to ₹1,544.55, Adani Transmission declined 5% to ₹1,517.25 and Adani Power slumped 4.99% to ₹140.90.

All these stocks hit their respective lower circuit limits during the trade.

'Albula, Cresta, APMS'

According to media reports, the NSDL had frozen the accounts of three foreign funds which together owned shares in four Adani Group firms. The accounts were frozen on or before May 31, the report added.

Adani Enterprises, the conglomerate's flagship company, as well as Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone, Adani Green Energy Ltd., Adani Transmission Ltd., Adani Power and Adani Total Gas Ltd., in identical filings to the stock exchanges, said the reports of NSDL freezing accounts of Albula Investment Fund, Cresta Fund and APMS Investment Fund, holding shares in the group firms, were "blatantly erroneous and done to deliberately mislead the investing community.

"This is causing irreparable loss of economic value to the investors at large and reputation of the group," it said.

"We requested Registrar and Transfer Agent, with respect to the status of the Demat Account(s) of the aforesaid funds and have their written confirmation vide its e-mail dated 14th June, 2021, clarifying that the Demat Account(s), in which the aforesaid funds hold the shares of the company, are not frozen," the firms said.

Ajit Mishra, VP-Research, Religare Broking Ltd., said, "Initially, a news report on the Adani group triggered a weak start, however the benchmark gradually recovered as the day progressed, thanks to noticeable buying in select index majors. The clarification by the company further comforted the market and helped the index to close flat."

The Sensex fell 538.45 points to 51,936.31 but later recovered to close 76.77 points higher at 52,551.53.

Dumfries saves the Netherlands' blushes

Schick's worldie dampens Scotland's return to the big stage; Slovakia pulls the rug from under Poland's feet

REUTERS
AMSTERDAM
Flying full back Denzel Dumfries scored a late winner to earn the Netherlands a 3-2 victory over Ukraine in a thrilling Group C opener at the European Championship on Sunday after the Dutch had thrown away a two-goal lead.

Dumfries rescued all three points for the home team five minutes from time after Ukraine had fought its way back into the match at the Johan Cruyff Arena. The Dutch were 2-0 up with 15 minutes left, only to allow their opponents two quick goals and the chance to share the points before Dumfries headed home a dramatic winner to the delight of the home fans.

Quick one-two
Captain Georginio Wijnaldum and striker Wout Wegh-orst netted within seven minutes early in the second half.

That put the Dutch in command but Ukraine ensured a nervy finish when captain Andriy Yarmolenko pulled one back in the 75th minute with a superb strike and Roman Yaremchuk equalised four minutes later.

Slick finishing

In Glasgow, Scotland's long-awaited return to a major international tournament was ruined by Patrik Schick's slick finishing as the Czech Republic won 2-0 at Hampden on Monday to move top of Group D.

Schick's header just before half-time opened the scoring, but it was his stunning strike from just inside the Scotland half after the break that will live in the memory as one of the all-time great European Championship goals.

Then later Slovakia stunned Poland with a 2-1 result. An early own-goal by Poland goalkeeper Wojciech Szczesny and a red card for Grzegorz Krychowiak left Poland with a mountain to climb, even though it drew level through Karol Linetty. Milan Skrinjar then ensured full points for Slovakia firing in from close range. The results: Group C: The Netherlands 3 (Wijnaldum 52, Wegh-orst 59, Dumfries 85) Ukraine 2 (Yarmolenko 75, Yaremchuk 79). Group D: Scotland 0 lost to Czech Republic (Schick 42, 52). Group E: Poland 1 (Linetty 46) lost to Slovakia 2 (Szczesny-og 18, Skrinjar 69).

By The Numbers

■ 2 - After going 72 consecutive shots without a goal, Ukraine scored with each of its last two shots in the tournament, 246 seconds apart.

■ 5 - First time ever in Euros that five goals were scored in the second half after a nil-nil score at half-time.

■ 15 - Wijnaldum has scored 15 goals in his last 26 appearances for the Netherlands, after scoring just eight in his first 50.

'Will play for Eriksen'

Looking ahead: Danish players Braithwaite and Højbjerg want to give it their all in the next game. •AP

ASSOCIATED PRESS COPENHAGEN

Christian Eriksen had a simple message for his Denmark teammates when he spoke to them from the hospital for the first time following his collapse at the European Championship.

"He told us to look forward, and to look forward to the game on Thursday," Pierre-Emile Højbjerg said Monday. "That meant a lot. ... It gave me a form of energy."

Højbjerg along with goalkeeper Kasper Schmeichel and forward Martin Braithwaite spoke to the media.

"It gives you the feeling that it's OK to move forward," Højbjerg said. "We really want to play on Thursday, to play for Christian."

Braithwaite fought back tears when asked about that moment. "I tried doing the only thing I could to help him at that moment," Braithwaite said.

Schmeichel, who is close friends with Eriksen and his family, said he had been able to visit the midfielder in the hospital as well.

Tsitsipas had to battle grief too

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE PARIS

French Open runner-up Stefanos Tsitsipas revealed on Monday he learned of his grandmother's death just minutes before his epic five-set loss to Novak Djokovic on Sunday.

In an Instagram post, the 22-year-old dedicated his first Grand Slam final to his paternal grandmother.

"Five minutes before entering the court my very beloved grandmother lost her battle with life. A wise woman whose faith in life, and willingness to give and provide can't be compared to any other human being that I have ever met," Tsitsipas wrote.

Also, Tsitsipas has withdrawn from this week's ATP tournament in Halle citing exhaustion.

Smooth start for Federer

REUTERS HALLE

Roger Federer made a winning return to the grass courts with a hard-fought 7-6(4), 7-5 victory over qualifier Ilya Ivashka at the Halle Open on Monday.

The Swiss, who has not played a competitive match on grass since his Wimbledon final defeat by Novak Djokovic almost two years ago, was quickly back in the routine.

Federer withdrew from the French Open last week, stating that he wanted to prepare for Wimbledon.

He is bidding for an 11th title in Halle.

WTC: points per Test win could be equal

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI

The World Test Championship points system is set to undergo a change during the second edition where teams will get "same standardised number of points" for winning a game rather than the 120 allocated per series, ICC interim CEO Geoff Allardice said on Monday.

In the last cycle, the value for each series was 120 points where a two-match India-Bangladesh series had 60 points for a win while a four-match India-Australia Test series had 30 points.

During the last phase, with lot of series cancelled, ICC reverted to the system where ranking was done on the basis points divided by the matches.

Pitch will have pace, bounce and carry: curator

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA SOUTHAMPTON

The head groundsman at Southampton, Simon Lee, is aiming to produce a pacy and bouncy pitch for the World Test Championship final with some assistance for spinners later on in the game.

The final will be played between India and New Zealand from June 18.

"Pitch preparation for this Test is a little simpler as we are a neutral venue, we are guided by the ICC. But what we all want is a good pitch that offers an even contest between the teams," Lee told ESPNcricinfo.

"For me, personally, I just want to get something out that has some pace, bounce and carry in the pitch. It can be a hard thing to do in England as the weather doesn't help us most of the time, but the forecast in the build-up is good with a lot of sun, so we are hopeful," he said.

'Rahane advised us on how to bat in Tests'

Harmanpreet says much is expected from bowling spearhead Jhulan Goswami

P.K. AJITH KUMAR

Much has changed in women's cricket since Harmanpreet Kaur played her last Test, way back in 2014. Her own masterpiece, 171 not out off 115 balls in the World Cup semifinal against Australia in England three years later, would play a big role in transforming the women's game in India.

Over the next few days though, Harmanpreet and her teammates' focus would be on the red ball, as India gets ready to take on England in the one-off Test at Bristol, starting on Wednesday. Her last, and second, Test, against South Africa at Mysuru, was also India's last.

The visitors would go into the Test match without much practice. "But as players we need to adapt," the India vice-captain said at a virtual press conference on Monday.

Harmanpreet and other batters got some very useful tips on how to bat in Tests from Ajinkya Rahane, the man who knows a thing or two about playing long innings.

"We got a chance to speak to Rahane, who has a lot of experience in Tests," she said. "He told us about how to bat and what should be our approach in long-form cricket. He told us how to divide an innings into five-minute periods."

Different conditions

She said the team was trying to make the best out of the short time got for preparing for the Test match. "The wickets here are totally different from those in India,"

Jhulan Goswami. •TWITTER/BCIWOMEN

she said. "The ball swings here and we have been practising for that at the nets."

Harmanpreet said the team was expecting a lot from the bowling spearhead Jhulan Goswami, who had a lot of success in the previous Tests she played in England.

"Jhulan has always been someone who leads (from the front) when we are in the field," she said. "She is special for us and always gives breakthroughs whenever we need...I hope she will be fantastic in this match also."

Though only few of India's women cricketers have had the experience of playing with the red ball, Harmanpreet expressed hopes for the future. "It is a totally different scenario when you play red-ball cricket. As a player it is important to get used to conditions. We don't get any domestic games with the red ball but (I hope) in the upcoming seasons we will get more red-ball cricket, which will be very good for us."

$1.6 million for WTC winner

ANI DUBAI

The winner of the ICC World Test Championship (WTC) final, between India and New Zealand, will take home $1.6 million along with the ICC Test Championship Mace, the International Cricket Council announced on Monday.

The team finishing second in the nine-team competition, which was played over a near two-year cycle, will get $800,000 and the third-placed team $450,000. The team fourth on the table will be awarded $350,000, the fifth $200,000, and the remaining four teams $100,000 each.

In case the final ends in a draw or a tie, the finalists will split the prize money for the first and second places and share possession of the mace during the time they remain champion.

'Chopra model' could have been tried for others

Without competitions, very difficult for athletes to stay motivated: Uwe Hohn

STAN RAYAN KOCHI

As javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra gets ready for his next meet, Sweden's Karlstad GP, back home Shivpal Singh must be really desperate for meets.

Shivpal, like Chopra, has qualified for the Tokyo Olympics but the Athletics Federation of India's plans to send him and others to Turkey and more recently to Kyrgyzstan and Kazakhstan for competitions have failed. Visa restrictions and 14-day quarantine have often been given out as hurdles for athletes' travel abroad.

That brings us to the big question: Why didn't the AFI try the 'Chopra model' to send Shivpal and others abroad at this crucial stage with the Olympics just 40 days away. Chopra, the country's brightest hope for a medal in Tokyo, flew to Portugal via France on June 6 and won a meet in Lisbon four days later.

"We tried since ages to get a camp or get to Europe for competitions for our top throwers but it's very difficult because of strict restrictions of other countries. But there is also no support from AFI or SAI. And the fact that Neeraj was able to leave is based on contacts of JSW (which is supporting him)," said German Uwe Hohn, the national javelin throw coach, in a chat with The Hindu on Monday.

"Few athletes had one competition in 2020, for others last competition was in 2019 so they need to catch some competition. It's part of training and eight to 10 competitions should be okay."

Some Indian shooters, swimmers, wrestlers and boxers are either training or taking part in events abroad.

So one can imagine the frustration of athletes like Shivpal, Annu Rani (19th and well placed on the Road to Tokyo women's javelin rankings), long jumper M. Sreeshankar (qualified), shotputter Tajinderpal Singh Toor and the 4x400m men's and women's relay runners who are in the danger zone in the rankings. They are all desperate for competitions.

"Athletes realise that there's no support from anyone... so it's also very difficult to stay motivated," said Hohn a former world record holder. "Probably only Neeraj will have the advantage of international competitions (before Tokyo)."

AFI president Adille Sumariwalla and SAI director-general Sandip Pradhan did not respond to calls or messages sent for their version.

Controversy mars Anand's celebrity games

Nikhil Kamath admits resorting to 'unfair practices' en route to his incredible win

P.K. AJITH KUMAR KOZHIKODE

Viswanathan Anand's simultaneous online chess games against celebrities on Sunday night raised more than ₹10 lakh. Less than 24 hours later, the event, conducted by chess.com for COVID-19 relief, was being talked about for all the wrong reasons.

One of the players, it turned out, had resorted to "unfair practices" during his game against the five-time World champion.

Surprise win

Nikhil Kamath, co-founder of stockbroker firm Zerodha, had sprung a surprise; he was the only one among the nine celebrities to defeat Anand.

Actor Aamir Khan, cricketer Yuzvendra Chahal and singer Arijit Singh had all lost.

Kamath is now facing allegations of cheating — that is, using the aid of a computer during his game against Anand. Chess.com has closed his account, for "violating the fair play policy". Kamath has admitted as much on Twitter.

"I had help from the people analyzing the game, computers and the graciousness of Anand sir himself to treat the game as a learning experience. This was for fun and charity. In hindsight, it was quite silly as I didn't realise all the confusion that can get caused due to this. Apologies..."

Anand was understandably upset by the whole episode. He tweeted: "Yesterday was a celebrity simul for people to raise money. It was a fun experience upholding the ethics of the game. I just played the position on the board and expected the same from everyone."

Interestingly, Anand would not have lost if he had not chosen to concede. Kamath had only a few seconds left on the clock, but Anand, the great champion and gentleman that he is, resigned, rather than wait for his opponent to lose on time.

Unethical

Aruna Anand, his wife and manager, said what happened was unethical and against the spirit of the game and the cause.

"Mr. Kamath spoke to Anand over phone this morning," Aruna told The Hindu. "Anand told him 'Whatever you do, you please do in your personal capacity, and don't involve my name'. Anand also texted he cannot deny what an algorithm finds out."

She said Anand's name should not have been dragged into Kamath's tweet and used as an excuse. "I think Mr. Kamath now needs to set the moral compass right," she said.

Star forward Neymar netted a penalty and created a second as hosts Brazil eased to a 3-0 victory over a coronavirus-depleted Venezuela on Sunday in the opening match of the 2021 Copa America.

Centre-back Marquinhos opened the scoring midway through the first half and Gabriel sealed the win a minute from time.

The game went ahead and, predictably, reigning champion Brazil was well on top.

In Cuiaba, a surprising choreographed move gave Colombia a 1-0 win against Ecuador in its first match.

Edwin Cardona scored the winner at the Arena Pantanal in the 42nd minute of a tense game on Sunday.

The decisive moment started when midfielder Cardona took a free kick close to the edge of the Ecuadorian penalty box.

Rindhiya elevated as champion

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The spectre of cheating in online chess events is threatening to take root. Two more examples came to the fore on Monday when the recently-crowned National under-18 rapid online champion G. Kheerthi and runner-up Riya Mishra were suspended for cheating.

The All India Chess Federation secretary Bharat Singh Chauhan also confirmed the elevation of Tamil Nadu's V. Rindhiya to the top spot, followed by Bristy Mukherjee (Bengal) and Dhyanra Patel (Gujarat).

"After we received complaints and the Fair Play report from the broadcast platform, all five members of the Fair Play committee - Grandmasters Tejas Bakre, M.R. Lalith Babu, N. Srinath and International Masters Rakesh Kulkarni and Akshat Khamparia - were unanimous in their decision to suspend the two girls," he said.

Meanwhile, in the National under-16 online rapid championship, M. Pranesh, Aaryan Varshney and Aditya Mittal shared the lead with 6.5 points from seven rounds. In the girls' section, Dhyanra Patel and Aahana Pachchigar were ahead at 6.5 points.
