Govt. will revert to centralised procurement of vaccines: Modi

PM also says the Centre will provide vaccines for free to all adults from June 21

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday announced that India would revert to a system of centralised procurement of vaccines against COVID-19, with free vaccines to be provided for the 18-44 age group as well and with 25% of procurement kept open for the private sector. This system will be operationalised by June 21.

Announcing the decision during a televised broadcast to the nation, Mr. Modi said many Chief Ministers had "come forward with a demand for reconsideration of the vaccination strategy and for bringing back the system in place before May 1".

He announced a cap of ₹150 on the amount private hospitals can charge over the cost of purchase of the vaccine from the manufac-

18 feared killed in Pune factory fire

SHOUMOJIT BANERJEE

At least 18 people, of whom 15 are believed to be women, are feared killed in a blaze following explosions in a private chemical plant in Pune's Mulshi taluk on Monday.

There were conflicting reports of the exact number of workers trapped at the time of the blaze, with some officials giving the figure as 38 and others stating that the roll call showed

Fire department personnel, who reached the scene at 4 p.m., said they recovered 11 bodies and that at least two persons were feared missing.

The death toll could rise further, officials said.

According to Pune rural authorities, a massive fire was reported around 2.30 p.m. at the SVS Aqua Technologies, a company in Urawade village near the Pirangut MIDC area in Mulshi. It is believed that two powerful explosions led to the ensuing inferno.

"We have information that over 35 workers were inside the factory of which 20 were rescued. So far, 11 bodies have been recovered. Most of them are charred beyond recognition. The process of identification is on," said a Fire department official.

Complete internal assessments by June 28, says CBSE

It should be done online, schools told

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Schools which have pending internal and practical assessments for Class 12 must complete them through online mode only and submit the marks by June 28, the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) said in a notification on Monday.

This comes as a CBSE pa nel is deliberating on how to determine Class 12 results in lieu of the cancelled board examinations.

"Some schools have not been able to complete the school-based assessments in various subjects due to the pandemic. Schools with pending practicals/internal assessments are permitted to conduct the same in only online mode and upload marks on the provided link latest by 28.06.2021," said the notification issued by CBSE Controller of Examinations Sanyam Bhardwaj.

Practical exams

For practical examinations of project evaluations, the CBSE had appointed an external examiner who would decide on a date and conduct online viva voces. For internal assessment, the subject teacher concerned would test students based on the instructions provided by the CBSE. The policy for conducting such assessments for private candidates would be issued soon, said Dr. Bhardwaj.

Examiners were warned to "keep in mind that the marks allotted should not bunch towards the maximum marks which is highly unlikely in view of diverse levels of students".

Dr. Bhardwaj is a part of the 12-member panel set up by the CBSE last week to decide on objective criteria to determine Class 12 results after the exams were cancelled. One of the options being considered is using the marks from students' internal assessments, unit tests, project and practical work done through the year.

⁺ Markets, malls reopen to lukewarm response

Social distancing markers in place; shopkeepers hope for footfall to pick up soon

SHINJINI GHOSH

Shopping malls and markets reopened in the Capital on Monday on an odd-even basis after nearly two months of lockdown.

Sanitiser dispensers and markers for social distancing were in place as shopkeepers raised shutters with a hope to make their first sale after a long spell of no income. While most markets and malls bore a deserted look, few shoppers started trickling in from noon. At the Select City Walk mall in Saket, most shops reopened but some, including a few food joints, continued to have their shutters down.

Sumit Agarwal, a shopper at the mall, said, "The last two months had been very long and stressful. Staying at home and constantly receiving terrible news had become too much to bear. Now that the malls have reopened, we can still think of stepping out in a restricted manner. I thought of visiting the mall today for some respite before it starts getting crowded." An employee at an outlet selling cosmetics said, "We be opening on alternate days. The circles have been marked outside the shop to ensure people maintain social distancing. Only two people will be permitted inside our shop at any given point."

Odd-even confusion

Brijesh Goyal, chairman of Chamber of Trade and Industry, said there were some doubts about the odd-even rule in old Delhi markets such as Chandni Chowk, Kashmere Gate, Chawri Bazar and Sadar Bazar because there are many shops with the same number. "We told the shopkeepers to mark the shops at their level and allot numbers," he said.

Covaxin only for people who got it as first dose: Delhi govt.

HC commends steps taken by authorities to address vaccine shortage

STAFF REPORTER

The Delhi government on Monday informed the High Court that it has directed all government centres, private hospitals and nursing homes that Covaxin will only be administered to those in the 18-44 age group who had received it as first dose. It further informed that an additional 40,000 vials of Covaxin had been received on June 6. The court was hearing three pleas filed by persons who were finding it difficult to get the second dose of Covaxin after getting the first jab.

18-44 age group

Justice Rekha Palli commended the proactive steps taken by the Centre and Delhi government to address Covaxin shortage, especially for people who had taken the first dose and were struggling to get a second dose before the six-week window expires.

The HC was informed that

the Delhi Chief Secretary issued an order on June 6 stating that the Delhi Disaster Management Authority (DDMA) has directed all private hospitals and nursing homes functioning as COVID vaccination centres for Covaxin to inoculate only those in the 18-44 age group and eligible for a second dose during June.

On June 3, the Health Department of the Delhi government had issued similar directions for government vaccination centres.

One of the petitions, filed by advocate Kushal Kumar, sought direction to authorities to urgently provide a second dose of Covaxin to them as their allotted time period for the second dose is about to end. The plea said the allotted time period for the second dose of vaccine is between May 31 to June 14. Unable to book slot

Another petition was moved by lawyer Ashish Virmani, who received the first dose of Covaxin on May 3 and since May 29 has been unable to book a slot for receiving the second jab, which has to be taken within six weeks of the first dose. Subsequently, he had to travel to Meerut in Uttar Pradesh to receive the second dose, advocate Pallav Mongia, representing Mr. Virmani, had told the court.

A third petition, filed by Rajeev Parashar, stated he was administered the first dose of Covaxin on March 4 and the second dose has to be administered between Iune 1-15.

Mr. Parashar, 35, said the Delhi government's decision to put the vaccination drive for 18-44 age group on hold till June 10 puts him at significant risk of not getting the second dose in time.

During the hearing, the petitioners stated there are many citizens whose sixweek period will end on June 14. If they do not get the second jab in time then the whole exercise will be rendered futile, they added.

The government counsel sought time to take instructions on this aspect and the HC posted the matter for further hearing on June 11. The HC also asked the counsel to examine whether slots for second dose could be increased.

The Centre said the Co-Win system sends automatic SMS to beneficiaries every third day - starting three days before the second dose due date - till the beneficiary books an appointment.

Metro services resume with 50% seating capacity

Over 4.5 lakh passengers travelled across network till 8 p.m.

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

The Delhi Metro resumed services on Monday after nearly a month-long hiatus due to the lockdown in the Capital. Till 8 p.m., over 4.5 lakh passengers travelled across the network, according to the Delhi Metro Rail Corporation (DMRC).

Operations resumed with 50% seating capacity and commuters were not permitted to stand inside the coaches. Only 25 people were allowed inside each coach at any given time.

"The passenger journeys performed on Monday was in view of drastically reduced capacity owing to adherence to guidelines issued by the government," DMRC spokesperson Anuj Dayal.

Stations closed briefly

On the first day of operations, around 15 stations were closed briefly during morning and evening peak hours, in a bid to ensure CO-VID-appropriate behaviour.

"At least 84 passengers were asked to deboard for standing while travelling and 73 were penalised for not wearing masks. Around 106 passengers were counselled to follow social distancing and wear masks properly," Mr. Dayal said.

All norms and protocols imposed earlier will continue to be followed, officials said, while adding that entry to stations will continue to be restricted and gates will be shut temporarily if stations get crowded. Services on the Delhi Metro network were completely suspended from May 10 while prior to that, from April 19 to May 9 only people engaged in essential services were permitted to travel on the network, on production of valid identity cards.

The Delhi Metro had announced that services would resume in a staggered manner. The network is expected to operate at full strength by Wednesday, DMRC officials said..

FIR lodged over 'illegal' vaccine camp in Gr. Noida

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Weeks after a vaccination drive was organised at a resident's home in a Greater Noida residential society, the Gautam Buddha Nagar police on Monday said they had lodged an FIR against the organisers for holding the "illegal" camp.

The police said the FIR was lodged based on a complaint of Additional Chief Medical Officer Neeraj Tyagi. Chief Medical Officer Deepak Ohri said the camp, organised on May 21 and 27 at the home of one Shubh Gautam, was "without permission". He said 187 people had been administered vaccine which they were told was Covaxin.

Some of those who were vaccinated were reportedly given certificates saying they received their jabs at the Naurangabad urban primary health centre in Aligarh, according to officials. The Hindu reviewed a certificate that confirmed this. Others received no confirmation, leaving them uncertain about the second dose.

Shikhar Gaur, a 21-yearold college student, said he, along with his mother, received the jabs on May 27. But the CoWin portal did not show their status as being vaccinated with the first dose. He said the camp was held at the residence of Mr. Gautam and the participants were asked not to click any pictures.

Govt. receives 40K doses of Covaxin

STAFF REPORTER

NEW DELHI Delhi reported 231 fresh CO-VID-19 cases in 24 hours the lowest in more than three months -taking the total cases to 14,29,475, according to a health bulletin released by the Delhi government on Monday.

The lowest number of cases before this was reported on March 2 - 217 cases. Also, the test positivity rate (TPR) fell to 0.36%. The last time the TPR was less than this was 0.31% on March 7.

A TPR of 0.36% means that less than one person out of 100 people taking CO-VID-19 tests is now positive for the virus. Also, 36 deaths were reported, and the total number of deaths stood at 24,627.

A total of 63,610 tests were done in a day, the bulletin said.

Of the total cases, 13,99,640 people have recovered and there are 5,208

"We are happy to tell you that 40,000 doses of Covaxin have been sent to us for the age bracket of 18-44 years. With this, we are only going to vaccinate those who had received the first dose of Covaxin in May," she said.

The total number of vaccines administered in Delhi has reached 56,67,221, of which 12.85 lakh people have been vaccinated with both doses.

Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia on Monday thanked the Supreme Court for its "intervention" on vaccination drives in the country.

This comes after Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced that States will be provided free COVID vaccines from June 21.

Mr. Sisodia said it was

"We express our gratitude to the Hon'ble Supreme Court that after the court's intervention, free vaccine will be available to people of all age groups across the country. If the Central government wanted, it could have done this long ago, but due to the policies of the center, neither the States were able to buy the vaccine nor the Central government was giving it," Mr. Sisodia said in a tweet in Hindi.

On June 2, the Supreme Court questioned the Centre's policy of paid vaccination for 18-44 age group, saying it is "prima facie, arbitrary and irrational".

The High Court also issued notice to the Action Committee of Unaided Recognised Private Schools, which represents over 450 schools here, on the appeals of city government, students and NGO 'Justice for All' challenging the High Court's May 31 order. The court will hear the case again on July 12.

On May 31, the HC had quashed orders issued by the Department of Education, Delhi government on April 18, 2020, and August 28, 2020, restraining the private school unaided schools from collecting annual charges and development fees beyond the lockdown period and deferring it till physical opening of the schools.

The Delhi government contended the May 31 order failed to appreciate the powers of the Department of

The Delhi government has contended that its orders of April and August last year were issued in larger public interest as due to the COVID-19 lockdown people were in financial crisis.

The private schools, represented by senior advocate Shyam Divan, opposed the stay application on the ground that the Delhi government had no power to interdict private contracts between schools and students' parents.

The private schools said the order had noted there was no allegation of schools indulging in profiteering in this case and in the absence of such allegation, there could be no interference by the Delhi government.

Advocates Khagesh Jha, representing NGO Justice for All and various parents, argued the private schools were asking for paying charges for something which is not being provided to the students and the schools have started harassing the parents by asking to deposit money.

The operation of the BDS was on when this report was being filed. Earlier in the day, security agencies were tipped off about the presence of explosives in Saimoh area of Tral in South Kashmir's Pulwama district.

No State asked for paid vaccination, says Gehlot

'Modi made an unsuccessful attempt to blame State govts.'

MOHAMMED IQBAL

Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Monday said Prime Minister Narendra Modi had made an "unsuccessful attempt" to blame the State governments while announcing centralised procurement of vaccines against COVID-19 and their free supply to States. "No State had suggested making payment from its budget for vaccinating the people of 18 to 44 years of age," he said.

'Wrong decision'

While affirming that Mr. Modi was forced to withdraw his "wrong decision" because of the strong public sentiments as well as the Congress' campaign for free universal vaccination, Mr. Gehlot said the Prime Minister should tell the nation as to which States had asked for paid vaccination.

Rajasthan CM Ashok Gehlot

"I don't know of any State government which raised such a demand. It seems the Prime Minister's advisers have fed him wrong information," Mr. Gehlot tweeted.

He said he had himself raised the issue at a videoconference meeting with Mr. Modi on April 23 and requested him to ensure free vaccination for all, including those of 18 to 44 years, by the

"Der Aaye Durust Aaaye

(better late than never)," Mr. Gehlot said, and added that several State governments, including Rajasthan, had to approach the Supreme Court for seeking directions to the Centre to float global tenders for procuring vaccines and supply them to the States.

The Congress leadership and the entire Opposition had raised the voice against the Centre's wrong vaccination policies, he said.

Higher rates

The vaccination exercise in Rajasthan was halted several times in the absence of sufficient number of doses. The global expression of interest issued by the State government for urgent procurement of vaccines last month did not yield the desired results, as the interested companies quoted much higher rates than the market prices.

VIKAS VASUDEVA

Amid controversy over the sale of COVID-19 vaccine by the Punjab government to private hospitals, the Opposition parties are making the most to corner the Congress government ahead of the Assembly polls due early next

While the principal Opposition, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), held a sit-in protest outside the residence of State Health Minister Balbir Singh Sidhu in Mohali on Sunday, the members of the Shiromani Akali Dal on Monday staged a protest outside Mr. Sidhu's house, demanding his dismissal over 'vaccine scam'.

The Health Minister, however, hit back accusing both the SAD and AAP of involving in theatrics and asking the parties to stage their protests (dharnas) outside the residence of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. "But I know you cannot do that as

Policemen lathi-charge Youth Akali Dal activists in Chandigarh on Monday. • PTI

Sukhbir and other Akalis are too scared of Modi, and AAP and Kejriwal are the 'B' team of the BJP," he said.

'Dismiss Minister'

Former Deputy Chief Minister and SAD president, Sukhbir Singh Badal, who led the protest, demanded dismissal of Mr. Sidhu over the alleged 'vaccine scam'. "If by June 15, the Health Minister is not dismissed, the SAD would gherao the residence of Chief Minister Amarinder Singh," he said.

"We will continue to strive to ensure justice to the people of Punjab in the vaccine scam....This amounts to playing with lives and is reprehensible. If the Health Minister is not dismissed, we will approach the Governor as well as the courts for justice," said Mr. Badal.

'File a case'

AAP members had also demanded that Mr. Sidhu be sacked from the Cabinet and a criminal case registered against him.

Facing criticism from several quarters, the State government had last week decided to withdraw its decision of providing onetime limited COVID-19 vaccine doses to 18-44 age group people through private hospitals. The Opposition parties, however, are in no mood to relent.

Mr. Sidhu said the SAD and AAP were fighting a battle for survival and competing to outdo each other. "Both the parties have lost their relevance in the State," he said. On the issue of supplying vaccines to private hospitals, Mr. Sidhu said, it was a government decision taken in good faith.

Meanwhile, Capt. Amarinder directed the Director General of Police to register cases under the Disaster Management Act against the Opposition leaders and workers who have been staging 'dharnas'. He termed these acts 'irresponsible and utter violation of the curbs in place in the State in view of the pandemic spread'.

Ms. Guriar and two of the suspended councillors were elected on the BJP ticket in the local body poll held in November last year. A Division Bench comprising Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj issued the direction on a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) petition filed by K.A. Paul, a Bengaluru resident.

Former Minister Mumtaz Ali Khan passes away BENGALURU

Former Minister Mumtaz Ali Khan, 94, passed away here at his residence on Monday. He held the portfolio of Haj, Wakf and Minority Welfare in the B.S. Yediyurappa Ministry in 2008. As there was no legislator in the BJP from the minority communities, Mr. Khan was brought into the Cabinet. As he was not a member of the legislature, he was made an MLC. He had gone with Mr. Yediyurappa when the latter launched the Karnataka Janata Party.

BJP brought in unaccounted funds: CM

Cong. for truthful probe into the Kodakara case

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Monday told the Assembly that the BJP had moved unaccounted-for money into the State during the 2021 Assembly election campaign

The Chief Minister was replying to a notice for leave of the Assembly to discuss an adjournment motion by Congress legislator Shafi Parambil, who demanded that the House discuss the case to ensure a "truthful" police investigation into the alleged movement and subsequent highway robbery of the "BIP's unaccounted election funds" at Kodakara in Thrissur on April 3, merely three election on April 6. Mr. Vijayan said the BJP had laid down a smokescreen of lies against the previous Left Democratic Front (LDF) government to cloak its illegal influence-creation operation fuelled by unaccounted money. The Congress had amplified the BJP's false messaging, parroting the lies spread by "unprofessional" Central investigators, he said, without specifying the UAE gold smuggling controversy that dogged the previous LDF government at the fag end of its term.

Court gives nod for case against Surendran

The Kasaragod First Class Judicial Magistrate Court on Monday granted permission to file a case against BJP State president K. Surendran. The order came in connection with a petition filed by CPI(M) leader V.V. Rameshan demanding the arrest of BJP leaders who allegedly paid money to a candidate to withdraw his nomination from Manjeshwar.

and derailed statutory and truthful accounting of election expenditure. "The Kodakara case was a grave crime against the polity in that sense."

The State police have arrested 20 persons and recovered ₹1.12 crore out of the estimated ₹3.5 crore stolen during the highway robbery. They have also seized 347 grams of gold bought using the loot and recorded the statement of 96 witnesses.

The Enforcement Directorate had sought the details of the case. The State police complied on June 1.

Satheesan's caution

Leader of the Opposition, V.D. Satheesan, cautioned the ruling front against using the Kodakara case to strike a detente with the BJP. He said the Central investigation into the gold case centred on the previous LDF government had sputtered and stopped after the hawala heist "involving" BJP leaders had surfaced. The Kodakara probe faced the risk of becoming a circus clown's slapstick, Mr. Satheesan said.

The Speaker denied the Opposition's motion after he found the Chief Minister's reply satisfactory.

HC nod for Anandaiah 'K' preparation

STAFF REPORTER VIJAYAWADA

The Andhra Pradesh High Court has cleared the way for the distribution of B. Anandaiah's 'K' type herpreparation Monday.

It directed the State government to submit a report on the efficacy of the eye drops, which claimed to boost oxygen levels, by June 21. It posted the matter for further hearing on the same day.

The court had already given permission to 'P', 'L' and 'F' preparations on the basis of a Central Council for Research in Ayurvedic Sciences (CCRAS) report.

The CCRAS said though the medicines were harmless, there was no evidence that it could cure COVID-19.

Protect LGBTQIA+ community: HC

Rope in NGOs that can provide assistance till a law is enacted, it directs Centre

MOHAMED IMRANULLAH S.

Empathising with the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, asexual and such others' (LGBTQIA+) community, the Madras High Court on Monday directed the Union Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment to enlist non-governmental organisations (NGOs) that could provide counselling, monetary support, legal assistance and protection to them until a law could be enacted to protect them.

Justice N. Anand Venkatesh ordered that the Ministry upload the details of the NGOs, along with their address, contact details and the services provided by them, on its website within eight weeks and revise the information periodically.

Any person who faced an issue because he/she/they belonged to the LGBTQIA+ community could approach any of the enlisted NGOs for safeguarding their rights, the judge said.

It was also ordered that the NGOs, in consultation with the Ministry, should maintain confidential records of such persons who approached them and the aggregate data be submitted need-based relief, the court said the NGOs should also coordinate with the police with respect to offences committed against them. The court further ordered that appropriate changes be made to the existing government short stay homes, anganwadi shelters, Garima Greh (shelter home for transgender persons) for providing accommodation, food, medical care and recreational facilities to those from the community in need of such assistance. The Ministry was directed to create the infrastructural requirements within 12 weeks.

Sensitisation programmes could also be conducted for stakeholders, including police and prison authorities, judges, physical and mental health professionals, educational institutions, health workers, public and private workplaces, the judge said and directed Additional-Solicitor General R. Sankaranaravanan and Advocate-General R. Shunmugasundaram to file their compliance reports by August 31.

The interim orders were passed on a writ petition filed by two young women who had fled from Madurai to Chennai because their parents were opposed to their relationship. After directing the Madurai police to keep their hands off the issue, Justice Venkatesh decided to pen down an elaborate judgment on the subject at the request of the petitioners' counsel, S. Manuraj.

RSS may sideline Modi if his popularity plunges further, says Congress leader

Anant Gadgil holds Centre accountable for the tardiness of vaccination drive

SHOUMOJIT BANERJEE

Holding the Centre accountable for the tardiness of the vaccination drive in the country, senior Congress leader and the party's national panel spokesperson Anant Gadgil on Monday predicted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi was in real danger of being sidelined by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh if his popularity continued to plummet further.

Mr. Gadgil, who is from Pune, drew an analogy with the 'fate' of BJP stalwart L.K. Advani, who at the height of his popularity, had been allegedly cold shouldered by the Sangh. The former MLC said the country was paying a heavy price for the Centre's delusions and subsequent complacency of having thwarted the first wave of the COVID-19 pandemic and not preparing for a second.

"The Sangh's 'Motibagh' office in Pune is at a short distance from my residence, so I can claim to have closely studied the organisation. Let me say this, that the RSS is not an outfit to allow any single person to soar to the heights of popularity... it will make sure to clip his wings ... given the lakhs of livelihoods ruined owing to the Prime Minister and the Centre's gross mismanagement of the pandemic situation, there is every possibility of Mr. Modi's popularity continuing to plunge thus. And in this event, the RSS is most likely to sideline him," said Mr. Gadgil, the son of former Union Minister and veteran Congressman Vitthal Gadgil.

Censuring Mr. Modi's authoritarian style of functioning, Mr. Gadgil said it was unfortunate that the central leadership wilfully disregarded expert warnings and decided to permit unrestrained public gatherings earlier this year. "The sheer 'immaturity' in permitting the Kumbh Mela to take place and the Prime Minister's campaigning for five State elections without regard for human life borders on the criminal.

How can you not have a contingency plan or assume that the Indian public had some natural immunity to the virus?" said Mr. Gadgil. He said the massive confusion over the vaccination drives was a result of a fundamentally flawed planning of the vaccination process. "The rejection of foreign pharmaceutical companies into the Indian market early on has slowed down the pace of vaccination. This reliance on only two Indian vaccine companies has resulted today in not even 20% of our countrymen getting vaccinated," the Congress leader said.

Meanwhile, the Maharashtra Congress under party president Nana Patole staged a State-wide protest against skyrocketing fuel

IMD forecasts heavy rain in Konkan from June 9; CM takes stock

The India Meteorological Department on Monday warned of heavy rain in all the districts of Konkan region including Mumbai from June 9 to 12. Strong winds with a speed of 40-50 km per hour gusting to 60 km per hour have also been predicted.

Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray reviewed the disaster management preparations and directed the district administrations to evacuate people from dangerous areas to safer places while ensuring that patient care should not be disrupted.

He further said that NDRF and SDRF units should be deployed wherever necessary.

"Some natural things are expected to happen in the rainy season and some things happen unexpectedly. We are preparing for the expected things, but the administrations should also prepare for unforeseen things," the CM said.

Heavy to very heavy rain has been predicted in Raigad district while isolated areas of Palghar, Thane and Mumbai may receive heavy rain. Fisherfolk have been warned against venturing into the sea.

Cabinet ministers have raised differences with other alliance partners cussed in the Cabinet meeting.

ALOK DESHPANDE

Even as the tripartite Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) government is putting up a united face to the opposition allegations, the internal tussle seems to be growing in the coalition, with the Congress's bid to shine brighter than the allies.

Three instances in last one month have seen the Congress take a stand contrary to the government or its allies. Party leaders, however, downplayed the differences saying the context for each is different and the Congress is committed to the government.

In the first instance, the party's Dalit leader and State Power Minister Nitin Raut strongly objected to the State government's decision to deny reservation in promotion, saying the government resolution was contrary to what was disFollowing this, three other Congress ministers - Tribal Development Minister K.C. It's wellthought of strategy to address core voter and keep party's different identity intact," said Abhay Deshpande, political commentator and senior journalist. He said the party needed to address the perception of Uddhav Thackeray and Sharad Pawar running the government. "Nobody can predict what will happen in next polls. It is important for the Congress to not play second fiddle and keep its base as well as identity intact," he said.

School ranks

High-performing States with good schools can nudge others if they have the political will

The Union Education Ministry has been attempting to get States into a competitive mode in upgrading their school education system by recognising progress with a Performance Grading Index (PGI) that assigns them a score. It can be argued that countries and State governments use school education as a transformative tool most effectively where the political imperative is strong. The Centre's effort with the PGI scoring system has been to try and nudge all States using a hall of fame approach. In the latest set of scores and grades for the pre-COVID-19 year, 2019-20, the Andaman and Nicobar islands, Chandigarh, Kerala, Punjab and Tamil Nadu have performed the best, although they still fall short of the 951-1,000 points slab, the highest possible. It should be heartening to 33 States and Union Territories that their PGI scores have improved over the previous year, and in the case of Andaman and Nicobar, Punjab and Arunachal Pradesh, by a noteworthy 20%. Several middling States continue to make marginal progress, some have improved merely by tweaking their data, while Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh actually regressed, although the PGI scheme is now three years old. The score is derived using databases on 70 parameters such as access, equity, governance processes, infrastructure and facilities, and learning outcomes that are mostly self-reported by the States but vetted by the Centre, with National Achievement Survey data also being incorporated. On some parameters, such as uneven learning outcomes between students from deprived communities and others, bridging the gap earns a better score.

The Centre, with its transparent scores and data for each parameter and sub-topic made available in the public domain, seeks to create a resource-sharing system that low-performing States can tap into. This initiative is laudable, but it can work only if governments and Opposition parties see value in strong and open school education, and work to strengthen access, equity and infrastructure by budgeting fees and funds for universalisation. It is such commitment that led Southeast Asia to carry out a renaissance in school education in the later decades of the last century, on the lines of Meiji-era Japan. India's school system has to contend with not just patchy access and infrastructure, but major equity issues that have come to the fore during the pandemic. Clearly, the shadow of COVID-19 will persist over the education system for the foreseeable future, and further progress on all parameters will depend on bridging the gaps, particularly on digital tools, infrastructure and subsidies for access. The PGI scores show that the southern and western States are on firm ground to achieve this, while those in central India and parts of the east and Northeast are less resourced. What is evident from the Education Ministry analysis is that governance processes are the weakest link in some States. A new deal for schools can transform them as the Right to Education law envisages.

A good monsoon will aid agriculture, now one of the few bright spots in the economy

Tf everything aligns, India could see a third consecutive year of surplus rainfall. The IMD has said that monsoon rains will likely be 101% of the Long Period Average (LPA) of 88 cm. In 2020, it was 109% of the LPA and in 2019, 110%. While the forecast 101% LPA is short of the rainfall received in these years and still within the range of what the IMD considers 'normal' rainfall, it is positive news because the current forecast is 'above normal' rainfall in the core agricultural zone. This zone includes States where agriculture is significantly rainfed including Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, Odisha and West Bengal. The IMD's estimate of the distribution of this rainfall also suggests that except for the Northeast, where rainfall is expected to be 'below normal', other regions are expected to get above normal rainfall. A general pattern of the monsoon is that weakened rains over Northeastern India – which has a higher base rainfall than other parts of India – translate into stronger rainfall in Central India. Propitious rain this year is premised on forecasts from Indian and global climate models, veering towards no excess sea-surface temperatures at the Equatorial Pacific conditions. There are also 'negative' IOD (Indian Ocean Dipole) conditions over the Indian Ocean during the monsoon season, meaning warmer water and greater precipitation in the eastern Indian Ocean. Put together, they mean that these larger climate factors are, as of now, unlikely to have a significant influence over the prevailing monsoon.

A good monsoon could aid agriculture which has been among the few bright spots in the Indian economy. Two good years of rains have boosted storage in the key reservoirs. However, the flip side of a forecast for a bounteous monsoon is the possibility of flash floods, landslides and disease outbreaks. In the last year and before it, the IMD had not, in June, warned about the exceptionally high rains. While three consecutive years of above normal rain are exceedingly rare, the IMD itself assigns a 22% probability of it occurring, which is just below the 40% probability of 'normal' rainfall. India is now moving to a system where medium range forecasts, or expected changes in monsoon or larger weather patterns over two weeks, are better captured by the monsoon models deployed. These inputs must be used by the Government to better prepare infrastructure in the eventuality that excessive rains can wipe out the potential gains for agriculture. It may also be worthwhile to encourage farmers to sow higher-value crops than only rice via the MSP route. The favourable tidings should not be an excuse to abandon caution.

Connecting the dots to mitigate a third wave

The acronym 'DOTS' is a framework to understand the dynamics of the second wave, thereby helping mitigate the next fter a long and painful month-and-a-half, firmed cases of COVID-19 in India have been declining steadily for more than a month. Deaths have started to decrease as well. However, it is a long way down from an unprecedented peak of more than 400,000 daily cases, and the suffering will continue for weeks and months to come. It does, however, appear that the second wave of the novel coronavirus is abating.

'R' and determinants

A simple epidemiologic concept can be used to better understand the second wave and help plan for a potential third wave. The reproduction number - often referred as R – is the average number of new infections arising from one infected individual, R fluctuates over time during an epidemic. When R is greater than 1, infected individuals infect more than one person on average and we observe increasing cases. When it is less than 1, cases are declining. It is not a perfect statistic, especially when cases are low, but it does provide helpful insights into how an epidemic is changing.

What led R to increase earlier this year resulting in a second wave? R depends on four factors, summarised by the acronym DOTS: the Duration a person is infectious; Opportunities infected individuals have to spread infection to others; the probability Transmission occurs given an opportunity, and the average Susceptibility of a population or subpopulation. Because each factor is required for increasing cases, reducing any of them to 0 would extinguish an epidemic. This is not practical right now anywhere in the world. However, we should work toward decreasing these factors such that R remains as low as possible. It is also critical to consider the effect new variants have had on each of these four factors.

Let us start with S - the proportion of the population susceptible to infection. Susceptible individuals lack immunity derived through prior infection or immunisation. Results from a national seroprevalence survey done in December 2020 and January 2021 indicate that roughly 25% of the popantibodies had (https://bit.ly/3vOWSWY) to the virus that causes COVID-19. Estimates were slightly different depending on geography. And some surveys showed substantially higher exposure to the virus. Nevertheless, there was still a substantial susceptible population in most parts of the country at the beginning of 2021. Susceptibility can be reduced through immunisation. By the end-March, however, less than 1% of the total population had received two doses of the vaccine. Taken together, the right conditions were set for a potential second wave at the beginning of

Susceptibility, opportunities

The next factor is the number of opportunities for transmission or O in the DOTS. By January, there was a sense that India had made it through the worst of CO-VID-19. Many people were eager to get back to life and work, especially after a very challenging 2020.

markets filled again with people. One salient characteristic of CO-VID-19 is that the disease is driven largely by superspreading, where many individuals are infected by a small number of individuals. Colleagues and I showed in research from Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh (https://bit.ly/2T7Dpa9) that only 5% of infected individuals accounted for roughly 80% of all secondary infections. With this in mind, increased social mixing and large gatherings that took place in early 2021 also might have helped facilitate a second wave.

This brings us to T, or the probability of transmission. Not taking proper precautions can lead to increased transmission. There are no good national statistics on the proportion of people adhering to preventative measures. However, during my travels throughout India for work in early 2021, it was clear that few people were wearing masks while in public. In addition, new variants that are more transmissible have emerged. One new variant called B.1.617.2, or more recently known as the delta variant, is known to be much more transmissible - potentially twice as much (https://bit.ly/3pxqD00) - than those circulating in 2020. This is demonstrated by the fact that it is the dominant variant in minant variant in the United Kingdom according to data from there.

Finally, the last factor in the DOTS equation is the duration of infectiousness or D. Emerging evidence (https://bit.ly/3fZufpa) suggests that the duration of infectiousness could be slightly longer with some new variants. More research is needed to confirm this. However, this could help explain why some variants are outcompeting others and could have contributed to the increase in R in India earlier this year.

A third wave?

What does this mean for a potential third wave? First, we need well-designed seroprevalence surveys to understand how much of the population remains susceptible and where they reside. The Government has planned a seroprevalence study in June in the same 70 districts where the first three rounds were conducted. There also remain questions about waning immunity and the potential for reinfections, which would affect how we calculate the proportion of the population that is susceptible. The new variants also complicate this equation, as they are able to partially evade immunity developed through infection or immu-

Despite the need for more data, based on the existing evidence and out of an abundance of caution, we should anticipate that there could be a potential third

Luckily, DOTS provides us with a framework for preventing or mitigating a third wave. We need to drive down the factors that contribute to R wherever possible. And we need to work even harder to do this, because the new variants have skewed the equation such that R can more easily be pushed to be greater than 1. Some regions have implemented lockdowns, which substantially reduce opportunities for transmission. These are temporary solutions and should be used to focus on slowing transmission and scaling up other interventions. Mass gatherings have also largely stopped, which should help reduce opportunities for transmission. This is welcome news and should continue after the second wave. We can reduce the susceptible population by substantially increasing immunisation coverage. Currently only 3% of the population has received both doses. The Government is working hard to procure additional doses that are desperately needed.

Mask use, ventilation

Transmission can be reduced through increased use of face masks and improved ventilation. Research from neighbouring Bangladesh (https://bit.ly/3vVDBrr) indicates that providing free masks together with community monitors can help improve adoption. Last, if the duration of infectiousness is indeed longer, isolation and quarantining guidelines should be revisited to minimise potential exposure to others.

The emergence of new variants means we need to take these interventions even more seriously. Connecting the DOTS, though, can help mitigate a third wave and the tremendous pain and suffering that have become all too common in recent weeks.

Cease the conflict and build the peace

With a section of the young generation rejecting violence, Israel and Palestine must explore peaceful negotiations

RAMIN JAHANBEGLOO

The recent clashes between young Palestinians and Israelis in Jerusalem and in the occupied West Bank are a reminder of why it is so important to understand that the challenge of peace in that region of the world is actually the challenge for all of us who have been witnessing for the past 70 years a murderous and horrific conflict between Arabs

A common humanity

The refusal to kill or to legitimate murder is the starting point where Palestinian-Israeli reconciliation can begin. The question is can Israelis or Palestinians imagine each other's death and their shared responsibility for it? Can they perceive themselves as perpetrators of violence as well as its victims? Can an Israeli father or mother imagine that a Palestinian child is as precious as his/her own? Can a Palestinian feel the same sense of horror, disgust and sorrow when he or she sees the image of Israeli children blown up by rockets or suicide bombers?

Forming an answer to these questions begins with Palestinians and Israelis recognising their common humanity and shared values beyond a continuous reinvention of their victimhood, and beyond a persistent tendency to blame the other. The moral courage to accept one's wrongdoings can help stop the perpetuation and a deepening of a war between the two nations. Fearful men and women who cannot visualise a goal or goods beyond a mere instinct to survive cannot help the process of peace. A fearful person cannot love, have desire, or have hope. It is perhaps too much to hope that a community, a state or for that matter, even an isolated individual, can admit being wrong. But to hope is already a step forward and to do one's best for such hope is a giant leap forward.

There is no doubt in anybody's mina that the clash between Israe[.] lis and Palestinians is a clash between two versions of the same lived experience. There are no good guys and bad guys in this conflict, as most people living outside this region tend to perceive it. We are talking about two nations that have been living with their shattered dreams and broken hopes. In a way, dying together, more than living together, has brought Israelis and Palestinians to share the same fate. They are burning in the same fire. So either each nation can run for its own life and let the other fade or both nations can try to fight the flames together. This is because neither Israeli Jews, nor Palestinian Arabs can find a national homeland anywhere else. This is why the Israeli-Palestinian conflict is neither a clash of cultures nor a clash of religious traditions, but a clash of intolerances and prejudices among two nations who share the same boat.

For too many years an iron wall of hatred, violence and fanaticism has separated the world of Israelis from that of Palestinians. As a result, we have a traumatised and untrusting peoples on both sides. For much too long, the Palestinians and the rest of the Arab world have treated Israel as an infection that will simply go away. for their part, many israelis nave treated the entire Palestinian issue as no more than a vicious invention of a pan-Arab propaganda machine, aimed at undermining Israel's legitimacy in order to destroy it. In terms of violence committed in the region, the major human rights violations are generally perpetuated by the Israeli military and various Palestinian militant groups that claim responsibility for killing civilians. However, the peoples of both countries are in broad agreement that it is never justified for an individual person or militaries to tar-

Grounded in reality

Many young Israelis and Palestinians reject violence in the long run and favour non-violent forms of negotiation as the best approach to achieving self-determination and security. Is this an idealistic dream? Maybe. But perhaps idealism is the most realistic approach at this time, because non-violence is the solution most grounded in reality. As we have seen in the past 70 years, violence has not worked and submission to domination has been intolerable. Non-violence, it would seem, is the only alternative. This is the only strategy that can assure Israelis their security and Palestinians their state. The key requirement for any peace settlement is that violence must end. This does not mean that we have to be silent in an undignified way in face of the deaths of innocent civilians on both sides. It means that we need to launch a global movement of non-violent resistance to the violent policies of those who are against a coherent and proactive negotiating position.

Wheel of victimisation

The path to a workable peace one with a Palestinian state alongside Israel, and both with internationally recognised borders - has been well known for long. But a succession of Israeli and Palestinian leaders have been reluctant to pick up the challenge. If each side has refused to understand the other, it is because each side has seen itself only as a victim. A sense of victimisation has accompanied both sides, with a justification and legitimisation of violence. There is doubt on whether there can be a partner to deliver peace. But how can we get out of this cycle of violence and how can the two sides reverse direction and start looking towards the future? No realist would believe that today there is a brilliant formula or shining piece of paper that will end the Palestinian-Israeli tragedy in our time. This is true, but the years and decades to come will be very challenging for both Israelis and Palestinians.

Roughly speaking, Israel is caught in a dilemma. If it does not end the occupation and retreat, it will lose both its integrity as a Jewish democratic state and its international legitimacy. But if Israel does end the occupation and withdraw without a peace accord, it will be perceived by its neighbours as an act of weakness. To solve this dilemma, Israel must get its act together. It must reform its political system; it must come up with a government of wisdom and common sense. But it must do more than that. It must create a new, relevant narrative, which is a narrative of tolerance and dialogue.

As for the Palestinians, they have no way of regaining their rights without the active participa tion of Israelis in their democratic effort. If there is a permanent agreement with the Palestinians on this issue, Israel will no longer be able to view its Arab citizens as permanently suspect and unofficial enemy agents. In the coming decades, Israelis will be confronted with a fundamental question whether to ensure the peaceful transition towards an egalitarian society in which Palestinians are given the same rights as Jews. However, this does not mean that they have to artificially engineer solutions. On the contrary, it means that for one people to realise their dreams, another should not lose everything. It is time for Israel and Palestine to underline the renunciation of violence and murder as a moral imperative and an alternative course of action. But for that, they both need to understand that they are victims of the same fear, prejudice and intolerance. Undoubtedly, light and hope can only come from a nonviolent dialogue between young Palestinians and Israeli youth.

Minister on IT rules

The argument that the new IT rules are meant to serve the interests of the people using social media is clearly specious (Inside pages, Interview with IT Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, June 7) The government does not inspire confidence owing to its recent actions of selective targeting of activists and dissenters for their social media comments. Its aggressive weakening of legal powers of the citizens like the right to information contradicts its "concern" for transparency. It would be better to leave it to the courts to ask for any such tracing of the 'original' post in the context of a legal complaint, rather than adding to the increasingly unaccountable powers of a partisan executive. The Union Minister's reading of privacy as covering one's 'relationships, medical records' etc. is just an attempt to sanitise social media communication and turn socially engaged citizens into apolitical zombies. Of course, there should be legal mechanisms to protect people's privacy and trace and prosecute offenders, but the claim of drawing a connection between a message and subsequent situation is itself prejudicial and likely to be abused to further criminalise protest and harass those not in the good books of the government. FIROZ AHMAD, online classes, cook and clean for more hours, and compelled to attend online meetings outside working hours including Sundays. The assumption is that online teaching is easy. It is not so. The older generation of teachers has had to re-learn their teaching methodology and online friendly. Online meetings tend to run on for hours, eating into precious time meant for recharging, preparation for classes and quality time with family members. Additionally, teacher-parents with young children have to sit with them for the children's

This is also a gender issue that is not being addressed at all because in a majority of the cases, the scheduling is being done by men or corporate entities. TEENA ANTONY, Kochi, Kerala

Towards a stronger mental health strategy

More needs to be done in India in the context of COVID-19, which has exacerbated mental illnesses

SURJITH KARTHIKEYAN

Mental health issues are a major health challenge in the world today. According to the World Health Organization (WHO), there is a 10-25year life expectancy reduction in patients with severe mental disorders. About 72% of member states had a standalone policy or plan for mental health in 2017. India introduced the National Mental Health Policy (NMHP) in 2014, and a rights-based Mental Healthcare Act in 2017, which replaced the Mental Healthcare Act of 1987. The NMHP, National Health Mission, National Adolescent Health Programme, and Ayushman Bharat have the necessary components to address the mental health issues of all sections of the population. But more needs to be done in the context of COVID-19, which has exacerbated mental illnesses everywhere.

Mental health indicators

Studies in The Lancet Public Health (2019) revealed that median mental health spending across the world was around 2% of the total government health expenditure in 2015. In the case of low-income countries, it was around 0.5% of their health budget; for lower-middle-income countries, it was 1.9%; for upper-middleincome countries, 2.4%; and for high-income countries, 5.1%. There was higher allocation in developed countries than in developing countries. Government expenditure on hospitals dealing with mental health issues as a percentage of total government expenditure on mental health is 1.3% in India; in developed countries, it ranges from 3% to 15%.

In India, the share of mental hospitals per 1,00,000 population is as low as 0.01 in line with developing countries, according to the WHO. This may possibly be due to the lack of focussed attention given to mental health compared to other major diseases in India.

In the distribution of mental health units in general hospitals (per 1,00,000 population) globally, in 2016, India was ranked 114 with just 0.03 units per 1,00,000 population. India was at the 99th position in the distribution of mental health outpatient facilities (per 1,00,000 population), with 0.18 units per 1,00,000 population. India was also at the 64th position in the distribution of mental health day treatment facilities (per 1,00,000 population).

Residential mental health services, particularly community ones, are an important component for good quality mental health care. In most industrialised economies, there has been a growth of community healthcare facilities in line with the increase in patients with mental health issues. Research also shows that long-term patients with mental health issues are usually admitted to residential facilities. The distribution of community residential facilities globally for the median year 2016 showed India at the 58th position, with 0.017 units per 1,00,000 population among the WHO member

The people working in the mental health sector help us understand mental health issues better. Here, India was ranked 107 with 0.292 per 1,00,000 population. Nurses, social workers and psychologists working in the mental health sector (per 1,00,000 population) in India are 0.796, 0.065, and 0.069, respectively. The leading countries in each of these three areas have 150.3, 145.4,

Mental illnesses

79 and 104, respectively.

Mental illnesses include anxiety disorders, psychotic disorders, mood disorders, substance use disorders, personality disorders and eating disorders. The majority of suicides in the world are related to psychiatric problems or to the illnesses listed above. Death by suicide is a complex phenomenon and not fully reported. Globally, the suicide rate was 10.6 per 1,00,000 population whereas in India, it was 16.3 per 1,00,000 in 2016. The suicide rate was higher among males compared to females.

and 222.6 per 1,00,000 population.

India's ranking in this context among the WHO member countries was 97,

Mental health may not be the primary concern in developing economies like India as there may be other communicable and non-communicable diseases which may be more prevalent. There are also challenges regarding funding, delivery of mental health packages, lack of trained staff, etc. However, these challenges need to be considered more seriously in the wake of CO-VID-19 as mental health issues are widely prevalent among the Indian population due to lockdowns and related issues.

Recent reports published in Lan*cet* revealed that one in seven people in India had a mental disorder ranging from mild to severe in 2017. Also, the proportional contribution of mental disorders to the total disease burden had doubled between 1990 and 2017. Mental disorders include depressive and anxiety disorders, schizophrenia and bipolar disorder. This situation was generally worse in the southern States compared to the northern States due to the nature of development, modernisation, urbanisation and other factors not understood yet. Depressive disorders were more prevalent among females than males which could be due to sexual abuse, gender discrimination, stress due to antenatal and postnatal issues and other reasons.

Additional measures

In order to further address mental health issues, India could reduce the treatment gap for mental disorders, increase the number of personnel in the mental health sector, work towards reducing discriminatory attitudes, and devise an integrated approach for detecting, treating, and managing patient needs. More counselling facilities, especially in rural areas, with special support for women through the provision of women doctors are needed. More telemedicine, telephone-based helpline numbers, and mental health apps could help. Communities and families have an important role in this regard and so do community-based programmes. School-based programmes on mental health can improve the mental health of children. More fund allocation for treatment of mental health, especially to those States in need of funds, could do wonders. The pandemic may be the best time to explore various policy options including creating online mental health awareness.

There needs to be a road map for mental health awareness. This should include the traditional media, government programmes, the education system, industry, and social media. Media awareness and government involvement is already happening in India but both can improve. It is high time that industry and private sector companies set up counselling facilities. The application of big data and crowd sourcing ideas may help us in informed decision-making.

Belligerence and pushback

As the Quad gains momentum, states in the Indo-Pacific and South Asia are more likely to resist Chinese largesse

In May, in another brazen display of its 'wolf warrior' diplomacy, China issued a strange warning to Bangladesh, a nation that it has tried to cultivate assiduously over several years. While suggesting that China considers the Quad to be a minor anti-China initiative, the Chinese Ambassador to Bangladesh, Li Jiming, warned Dhaka that there will be "substantial damage" in bilateral ties between China and Bangladesh if the latter joins the Quad. It was an extraordinary statement by a diplomat in a host nation but it had all the chutzpah that Chinese diplomats think they deserve to embed in their seemingly non-diplomatic outpourings.

As was expected, Bangladesh Foreign Minister A.K. Abdul Momen promptly and publicly challenged the Chinese envoy's statement, underlining categorically that Dhaka pursues an independent foreign policy. "It's very regrettable... We are an independent and sovereign state. We decide our foreign policy," he said. "They [the Chinese] can say what they want...We will listen to what they say. But we will decide what is good for us.' There was some attempt at damage control with Mr. Li reportedly trying to explain his remarks to Bangladesh Foreign Secretary Masud Bin Momen later in a meeting where he apparently said that he "did not mean to harm the ties between the two countries" and that his remarks were taken "out of context." But the Chinese Foreign Ministry continued to target Quad "as a small clique against China" and said that "remarks expressing opposition to this mechanism are not about interference but about expressing opposition to small cliques and bloc politics. They also reflect the aspiration for maintaining regional peace and stability." That China's remarks would reverberate far beyond South Asia was expected and perhaps intended by Beijing itself. The spokesperson of U.S. State Department remarked, "What we would say is that we respect Bangladesh's sovereignty and we respect Bangladesh's right to make foreign policy decisions for itself."

This episode captures the emerging fault lines in South Asia and the wider Indo-Pacific in ways that are both revealing and challenging. As the tectonic plates in the Indo-Pacific shift, major players are making their moves and testing the waters. For all its attempts to play down the relevance of the Quad, Beijing realises that the grouping, with all its weaknesses, is emerging as a reality and there is little it can do to prevent that. It tried but failed. And so, it is agitated about Quad's future role and its potential success in offering the regional states an alternative to its own strong-arm tactics.

The Quad member states are busy in figuring out a cohesive agenda amongst themselves and there are no plans for an expansion. There is a desire to work with like-minded nations but that can only happen if the four members of the Quad can build a credible platform first. No one is sending out invitations to join Quad and no one has shown an interest. But Beijing wants to ensure that after failing in its initial attempt to prevent the Quad from gaining any traction, its message is well understood by other states who may harbour any desire of working closely with the Quad members to uphold a rules-based order in the Indo-Pacific. With its message to Dhaka, Beijing was laying down a marker that nations should desist from engaging with the Quad.

Growing momentum of Quad

Of course, this aggressive diplomacy is likely to have the opposite effect, but that is for the future. For the moment, it is enough for Beijing to showcase its public disapproval of a platform that has gained rapid traction. Beijing has failed to prevent nations from the West to the East from coming out with their Indo-Pacific strategies, it has failed to prevent the operationalisation of the Quad, and now it might be worried about other nations in the region thinking of engaging with the Quad more proactively. Even Bangladesh is planning to come out with its own Indo-Pacific strategy and Beijing has now warned Dhaka that a close cooperation with the Quad should not be part of the policy mix.

This is just the beginning. As the Quad gains more momentum and the churn in the waters of the Indo-Pacific leads to new countervailing coalitions against China, Beijing's belligerence can only be expected to grow. For many regional states in South Asia and the Indo-Pacific, it has been a smooth ride so far with China being the only game in town. For all the criticism China has heaped on the Quad's members for trying to create an exclusive clique, it will be Beijing that is likely to demand clear-cut foreign policy choices from its regional interlocutors. And states are more likely to push back than become subservient to Chinese largesse.

Students' safety, first

While debating the CBSE Class 12 exam, the criteria considered were career, safety, and empathy

A real leader examines every issue in a holistic manner to ensure that at the end of the debate, we emerge stronger and more united than ever before. The decision to cancel the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) Class 12 exam is among the many decisions taken by the Prime Minister in the sphere of education in these times of unprecedented crises and challenges.

Three criteria

Every decision in public policy should pass certain objective criteria because there are always competing alternatives. If a decision is based on the criterion of empathy, it an excellent decision. If empathy is clubbed with rationality, the decision will pay rich dividends for all the citizens. The three criteria that were considered in the debate on cancelling the CBSE Class 12 exam were students' career, their safety, and empathy.

Regarding the first criterion, there is no denying that the CBSE Class 12 exam has a significant role in every student's career graph and road map

Regarding the second criterion, the health and safety of our students is of the greatest importance and there should not be any compromise on this aspect. Though the numbers of COVID-19 cases are decreasing, some States are still under some form of lockdown. The Prime Minster has said that every single life is precious and the safety of our children is our biggest priority.

Regarding the third criterion, I feel that all stakeholders must show sensitivity and empathy for our students. The Prime Minster has proved that leadership is all about empathy and the ability to connect with the people. He has always been there in Pariksha Pe Charcha with our students to inspire them with empathy.

Democracy since the days of the 'Janapada system' of ancient India is all about consultative decision-making. When we met for the first time on the CBSE issue, the Prime Minister made it clear that a decision should be taken only after wide discussion. He used to repeatedly ask, was this issue widely discussed and debated by all the stakeholders in the country? Keeping in mind the spirit of wide consultation, a high-powered committee was formed under the chairmanship of Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, with Information and Broadcasting Minister Prakash Javadekar and Women and Child Development Minister Smriti Irani as its core members. This was a pan-India consultation involving all the State Education Ministers, Education Secretaries and Chairpersons of State Education Boards. We discussed the road map and possible avenues for conduct of the Class 12 exam.

The valuable inputs and suggestions received during the consultations were analysed using the three aforementioned criteria, by the Prime Minster and other Cabinet Ministers and senior officers of the country. Looking at the various criteria, dimensions, possibilities and scenarios, a decision was taken.

A timely decision

The decision to cancel the exam will help lakhs of students explore career opportunities in colleges and universities in the coming academic session. It will also help our students get aligned with the coming session and prevent loss of valuable time as well as academic losses. Some students who wish to take the exam will get adequate opportunities to do so in an improved scenario. We are completely committed to providing ample opportunities to merit-seeking students who wish to write the board exam.

As Union Minister of Education, I would like to assure you that the Class 12 results will be formulated according to a well-defined and objective criterion in a time-bound manner ensuring merit and inclusivity. There will be comprehensive planning by the CBSE and the Ministry officials to formulate the mechanism that will accommodate all possible options of evaluation and quantification. The mental freedom and strength achieved through this decision will go a long way in contributing to the general well-being of students, families, society, and our country.

'The Bible has lost its hold'

The fact that the Bible has long lost its hold over the peoples of the West is frankly acknowledged by Mr. H.G. Wells. Writing in the Sunday Times on the salvaging of civilisation he says: "It has been the book that has held together the fabric of Western civilisation. It has been the handbook of life to countless millions of men and women. The civilisation we possess could not have come into existence and could not have been sustained without it. It has explained the world to the mass of our people and it has given them moral standards and a form into which their consciences could work. But does it do that to-day? Frankly, I do not think it does. I think that during the last century the Bible has lost much of its former hold. It no longer grips the community." And according to him it has its lost hold because of those sundering eighteen centuries, because of profound changes in the methods and mechanisms of life, and because of the vast extension of our ideas by the development of science in the last century. In the opinion of Mr. Wells the Bible is not all that the West needs at the present day.

Vaccine procurement to be centralised: PM

"We provided logistical support, funds and other encouragement to our scientists and manufactures, with the result that by the end of the year we had two "made in India" vaccines. A situation different from before, when it would be decades before vaccines developed abroad could become available in India," he added.

"We launched the vaccination drive against CO-VID-19 on January 16 and kept to guidelines provided by WHO and best practices of other countries. We prioritised our healthcare and frontline workers, elderly and those with comorbidities. It doesn't bear thinking what would have happened in the second wave if our frontline workers had not been vaccinated," Mr. Modi said.

"As COVID-19 cases started declining, questions arose about the lack of choice for States and some people questioned why the Central government was deciding everything. Flexibility in lockdown and onesize-does-not-fit-all type arforwarded," he said.

As the vaccination progressed from January 16 to April end, India's vaccination programme was running under the Central government and people were "showing discipline in getting vaccinated when their turn came" he said.

"Amidst this demands for decentralisation of vaccination were raised, decision about priority to certain age groups was raised. Many types of pressures were exerted and certain sections of the media houses ran a campaign to this effect as well," he said. "So, we announced that from May 1, 25% of all procurement for the vaccination programme would be done by State governments. Many tried and came up against many challenges that the Centre had managed to overcome, dealing with manufacturers, pricing etc. Then a few days back was better," he said. "We will be reverting to the old system where the Centre can procure upto 75% of the doses of vaccines and it will provide them free to State governments, even for the age group 18-44," he said. "Those who want to go to private facilities, that too will be allowed, as private institutions can procure 25% of vaccines from manufacturers, but there will be a cap of ₹150 per dose as service charge over the cost of the vaccine," he said.

many States said that a re-

He expressed optimism that more vaccine candidates will be available in the country in the future, including an under-development nasal vaccine. He added that trials for vaccines for children were also going and urged people to spike rumours over vaccines and encourage as many as possible to get inoculated.

'Remove illegal constructions in Aravali land'

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT

The Supreme Court on Monday ordered the Haryana government and the Faridabad Municipal Corporation to take "all essential measures" to remove encroachments, including about 10,000 residential constructions, in the ecologically fragile Aravali forest land near Lakarpur Khori village.

A Bench led by Justice A.M. Khanwilkar dismissed the argument by the residents that they should be rehabilitated first, saying "land-grabbers cannot take the refuge of the rule of law" and demand fairness. "We expect the Corporation will take all essential measures to remove encroachments on the subject forest land without any exception, not later than six weeks from today and submit a compliance report in that behalf," the court directed.

SC urged to stop illegal adoption

Details of children orphaned by the COVID-19 pandemic leaked on social media, says NCPCR

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT

The Supreme Court on Monday agreed to intervene after the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) sounded the alarm on a spate of complaints about illegal adoption of CO-VID orphans through private individuals and organisations. The NCPCR informed a Bench led by Justices L. Nageswara Rao and Aniruddha Bose that it had received many complaints in May that private individuals and organisations have been actively collecting data on these children while claiming that they want to assist families and children in adoption.

NCPCR statistics shows that 3,621 children were orphaned, 26,176 children lost either parent and 274 children were abandoned between April 1, 2021 to June 5,

Antigua to investigate Choksi's complaint

Diamantaire alleges Indian 'chief agent', 'high-ranking Indian politician' behind abduction

SUHASINI HAIDAR DEVESH K. PANDEY

After repeatedly rejecting fugitive businessman Mehul Choksi's claim that he had been abducted from the Caribbean islands of Antigua and Barbuda, Antiguan Prime Minister Gaston Browne said on Monday that the police would investigate the "very serious" offence that Mr. Choksi might have been kidnapped to Dominica, ahead of a Tuesday hearing for his bail application.

"An abduction is a serious offence and assuming the veracity of that claim, law enforcement and the executive would be very concerned,"

Mr. Browne said in a radio interview, adding that he had earlier dismissed Mr. Choksi's claims because Antigua and Barbuda do not have a "culture of abduction".

In his complaint dated

Mr. Choksi also says Narender Singh asked him over the telephone not to disclose the names of any offshore accounts that he held.

Congress slams rising fuel prices

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

As the retail price of petrol crossed ₹100 in several cities, former Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Monday called it a 'tax collection epidemic' by the Central government.

"The process of unlocking has started in many States. While paying the bill at the petrol pump, you will see the growth in inflation by the Modi government. The waves of tax collection epidemic are coming continuously," Mr. Gandhi tweeted in Hindi.

His colleague and party general secretary Randeep Surjewala also termed the rise in petrol prices as an 'excessive public loot' and blamed the Modi government for it.

"Excessive public loot – in the last 13 months, petrol and diesel have risen by ₹25.72 and ₹23.93 per litre. In some States, petrol has crossed ₹100 per litre. The increase in taxes by the Modi government and not high crude oil price is responsible for this rise in petrol and diesel prices,"

Mr. Surjewala tweeted. The Congress has been regularly criticising the imposition of special excise duty on petroleum products by the Modi government and has argued for bringing petrol and diesel under the ambit of good and services tax regime.

J&K leaders voice concern on troops

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT SRINAGAR

Deployment of paramilitary personnel in Jammu and Kashmir in the past week has fuelled speculations of the Central government pushing new changes in the Union Territory, and several leaders voiced their concern on Monday, demanding a clarification from the government.

Officials said 70 companies were "reinducted and redeployed" in parts of the UT in the past one week.

It is the first time since the Centre revoked J&K's special constitutional position on August 5, 2019, that the UT was witnessing such large-scale movement of paramilitary troops.

Police officials, who requested anonymity, described the movement as "just reinduction of personnel who were dispatched for poll duties in several States in the past one year". They claimed that around 300 companies of paramilitary personnel were moved out of the UT and were "likely to

Farmer leaders' release: SKM claims major victory

All demands of farmers met, it says

The Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM), a coalition of farmer unions, on Monday claimed major victory in its protest at Haryana's Tohana after all the three farmer leaders arrested this past week were released. Led by several SKM leaders, the farmers had been holding a sit-in at the Sadar police station for the past three days in support of their demands. Swaraj India national president, in a tweet, said all the demands of the agitating farmers were met with the release of the three farmers leaders, associates of local MLA Devender Babli withdrawing their complaint and the administration agreeing to withdraw cases against them. Seeing no headway in talks with the local administration after two days, the SKM leaders had on Sunday given a call for State-wide sit-in outside the police stations and made an appeal to the farmers from four neighbouring districts to reach Tohana in large numbers for the protest outside the Sadar police station. The call for the State-wide agitation was withdrawn after two of the leaders, Ravi Azad and Vikas Sisar, arrested in connection with the protests against Mr. Babli, were granted bail on Sunday night and released from jail early on Monday.

But the farmer unions went ahead with their proposed protest outside the Sadar police station during the day demanding the release of the third farmer leader, Makkhan Singh, and withdrawal of cases.

"Thousands of protesters showed up in response to this call. The bringing of livestock into the protest by a farmer in the absence of caretakers at home, along with the pitching up of a tent and setting up of a stage along with langar facilities that provided warm hospitality to the police personnel too, marked this particular battle in the ongoing farmers' movement," said the SKM.

Farmer protests increased fivefold since 2017: CSE report

12 pan-India protests; most others in Odisha, A.P., Telangana

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI

Apart from the three contentious Central farm laws, procurement and agricultural market price-related failures have contributed to a fivefold increase in major farmers' protests since 2017, according to data collated by the Centre for Science and Environment (CSE).

In 2017, there were 34 major protests across 15 States. The number has now shot up to 165 protests across 22 States and Union Territories.

The CSE's State of Environment in Figures 2021 report records that 12 of these are pan-India protests, including 11 agitations against the three farm reform laws introduced last year. Along with protests against State legislation and inadequate Budget allocations for the agricultural sector, such anti-policy agitations account for 96 major protests across the country.

However, large numbers of farmers are also fighting against market failures and

Draft Rules for live-streaming court proceedings out

SC invites suggestions from stakeholders

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL

Draft Rules released by the Supreme Court e-Committee on Monday for live-streaming and recording court proceedings propose a 10-minute delay in transmission and exclusion of communally sensitive cases and matters that involve sexual offences and gender violence against women. The Rules are part of the National Policy and Action Plan for implementation of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in the judiciary. Chief Justice of India N.V. Ramana recently said the process to make live stream a reality was actively under consideration. Now, the apex court has invited inputs and feedback on the 'Draft Model Rules for Live-Streaming and Recording of Court Proceedings'. The Rules would cover livestreaming and recording of proceedings in High Courts, lower courts and tribunals.

Justice D.Y. Chandrachud, who heads the SC e-Committee, had written to the Chief Justices of the High Courts for their feedback on the draft Rules. A sub-committee consisting of judges of the Bombay, Delhi, Madras and Karnataka High Courts was constituted to frame the model draft Rules. In his letter, Justice Chan-drachud said the right of access to justice, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution, "encompasses the right to access live court proceedings". The Rules intend to balance between access to information and concerns of privacy and confidentiality.

Matrimonial matters, cases under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (POCSO) and under the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act would also be exempted from livestream. The Bench can exempt, for reasons recorded in writing, any case it considers antithetical to the administration of justice. "The final decision as to whether or not to allow the live-streaming of the proceedings or any portion thereof will be of the Bench, however, it will be guided by the principle of an open judicial process," the Rules said. Personal information such

SC flayed decentralised procurement, paid jabs

Centre's change in stance comes after 32-page order

KRISHNADAS RAJAGOPAL

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's announcement on Monday to centralise vaccine procurement and provide free inoculation to the 18-44 age group marks a Uturn, which comes just a week after a scathing 32page Supreme Court order.

Grilling the Centre for its flawed vaccination policy, the court had nudged the government to correct its course, advising that admitting one's mistakes was a sign of strength rather than

The Supreme Court order of May 31, which was published on June 2, slammed the Centre on three cardinal issues - decentralised procurement of vaccines, differential pricing and paid vaccination for citizens in the 18-44 age group under its 'Liberalised Vaccine Policy'. The order was by a Bench by Justice D.Y. Chandrachud.

Under the liberalised policy introduced in May, the Centre had reduced its vaccine procurement role to 50%, leaving the States to fend for themselves. The court questioned the rationale of the sudden change in policy and said it needed to test it on the touchstone of Article 14 (right to equal treatment) of Constitution.

Differential pricing

The court trashed the Centre's argument that citizens would not suffer because States were paying for their vaccines. But the court reasoned that the money for States to buy the vaccines came out of the public exchequer. Hence, the citizen was indeed the loser.

On the second aspect of differential pricing, the court questioned the Centre's logic that it could buy the vaccines for ₹150 per dose because its orders were bulky. The States had to pay double.

The court asked the Centre then why it could not buy 100% of the vaccines instead.

On the third aspect of making the age 18-44 group pay for their vaccine, the court order said, "The policy of the Central Government for conducting free vaccination for groups under the first two phases and replacing it with paid vaccination by the State/Union Territory Governments and private hospitals for the persons between 18-44 years is, prima facie, arbitrary and irChief Ministers thank PM for decision on free vaccine for 18-45 age group Took him 4 months but after much pressure, he has FINALLY listened to us & implemented what we've been asking all this while. Mr. Gehlot also contested Mr Modi's claim that States had asked for a 'free-hand' from the Centre with regard to vaccine procurement.

Addressing a virtual press conference, Congress chief spokesperson Randeep Surjewala said the Prime Minister's announcement partialmet the Congress' demand for a free universal vaccination and even now, a person may have spend anywhere between ₹1,900 to ₹2,700 for two doses if he is 'forced' to get vaccinated at a private hospital because of non-availability of vaccines

The missives that pushed for free doses

The Opposition parties, jointly and individually, have repeatedly in the past few weeks demanded free and universal vaccines from the Central government. In May, two joint statements were issued by opposition parties reiterating this demand. Other than these, two opposition Chief Ministers – Kerala's Pinarayi Vijayan and Jharkhand's Hemant Soren sent off missives.

These are not counting the innumerable letters shot off by the parties individually.

On May 2, when the country was facing a huge oxygen shortage the Opposition parties issued a joint statement, urging the Prime Minister to focus all attention to ensure uninterrupted flow of oxygen supplies. They also spoke about changing the vaccination policy.

"We call upon the Central government to immediately launch a free mass vaccination programme across the country. The budgetary allocation of ₹35,000 crore for the vaccine programme must be utilised for this," they said.

Party plans to fight Assembly polls on the basis of a collective leadership rather than with a CM face

NISTULA HEBBAR NEW DELHI

The BJP's uncharacteristic move to change the Chief Minister with less than a year to go for the Assembly election in Uttarakhand surprised many when it happened, but a couple of months down the line, the party is looking at going into the polls next year on the basis of collective leadership rather with a chief ministerial face. Party leaders are calling this collective leadership pattern the "Assam model" with no guarantee that the sitting Chief Minister would be repeated, referring to the replacement of Sarbananda Sonowal with Himanta Biswa Sarma after the polls.

After the Hindustani Awam Morcha (Secular) and the Vikassheel Insaan Party, the BJP, the largest ally in the Bihar ruling coalition, has raised questions over claims of good governance by the NDA government in the State.

BJP State chief Sanjay Jaiswal, in a Facebook post on Sunday, questioned the functioning of the police and raised concern over the recent spurt in attacks on Dalits by minority community members in different parts of the State.

Chief Minister Nitish Kuholds the Home portfolio.

"Instead of taking action against the guilty in incidents of communal clashes between members of minority communities and the Scheduled Castes, the police always send members of both warring communities to jail," Dr. Jaiswal said.

"On June 5, I got information from Dhangarhwa village that some members of the minority community have blocked the pathway of Dalit community by raising a brick wall. I spoke to local officials and they resolved the issue," Dr. Jaiswal said.

There had been spurt in such incidents in last few days in the State, he said.

"In East Champaran district, members of Dalit communities not only got police thrashing but were also sent to jail when they sought police help. Over six such incidents were reported from Dhaka area of the district in recent days. Instead of taking action against those guilty, police sent members of both the warring communities to jail," he said.

RID's poser Mr. Jaiswal's statement

evoked a sharp reaction from the Rashtriya Janata

"The BJP State president has questioned the so-called good governance of CM Nitish Kumar. Will the ruling alliance partner JD(U) leaders chop off Dr. Jaiswal's arms for this," asked RJD leader Mrityunjay Tiwari.

'We will take the BJP head-on in every State'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Two days after he was appointed general secretary of the Trinamool Congress, Abhishek Banerjee said on Monday that his aim was to spread the footprint of the party across the country. Speaking to presspersons

at the Trinamool Congress

Abhishek Banerjee

headquarters, Mr. Banerjee said that the party had got congratulatory messages from every State in the country after it defeated the Bharatiya Janata Party in the West Bengal Assembly polls. "We received around one lakh emails from people across India thanking the TMC for defeating the BJP. We will take the BJP head-on in every State where the TMC builds its foundation," he said. Mr. Banerjee did not name the States, but said if the Trinamool Congress intended to set up a unit in any State, it would not be about winning one or two MLAs. The party would like to come to power in the State.

Dynasty politics The Diamond Harbour MP responded to questions whether his elevation as general secretary indicated the rise of dynasty politics in the State. "Dynasty can be better than being nasty. If the Union government passes a law that no second person from a family will occupy a public post, I will accept it. Can the BJP pass such a resolution?"

said Mr Banerjee.

He referred to Jay Shah, son of Union Home Minister Amit Shah, holding the post of secretary of Board of Control for Cricket in India and said he himself would not occupy any post in government for the next 20 years. He was not the Number 2 in the party, only an ordinary worker who had been the youth president for the past six years and had now assumed the role of the party's general secretary.

No Raj Bhavan appointee from my family: Dhankhar

SHIV SAHAY SINGH

West Bengal Governor Jagdeep Dhankhar on Monday refuted Trinamool Congress MP Mahua Moitra's allegations about appointment of members of his "extended family" at the Raj Bhavan in different capacities. Mr. Dhankhar called it a "distraction strategy to divert attention from the "alarming law and order situation" in the State.

"Assertion @MahuaMoitra in tweet & Media that six coterminous appointee OSDs [officers on special duty] in personal staff are relatives is FACTUALLY WRONG. OSDs are from three states and belong to four different castes. None of them is part of close family. Four of them are not from my caste or State," Mr. Dhankhar tweet-

On Sunday, Ms. Moitra alleged that six appointees at the Raj Bhavan were from the Governor's "extended family". On Monday, she asked the Governor to explain how the appointees got into the Raj Bhavan. She also shared a screen

grab from the Raj Bhavan

website highlighting four names and asking how they were appointed OSDs. The Governor said, "This is unfolding of "distraction strategy" to divert attention from alarming law and order scenario @MamataOfficial. Would continue undeterred and with zeal to serve the people of state and vindicate my oath of office under Article 159 of the Constitution".

Trinamool Congress general secretary Abhishek Banerjee refused to comment on the 'appointments', but said the Governor should be mindful of the high constitutional office he held. When the Governor raised allegations of political violence, he should be specific about the name and place, he said.

300 stranded Indians take Chinese vaccines abroad

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA

More than 300 Indians, who have managed to take Chinese COVID-19 vaccines to comply with China's stipulation for travellers from India to be inoculated with its jabs, have urged Beijing to lift travel restrictions and permit them to return to join their jobs and businesses.

On March 15, China made it mandatory for travellers coming from India and 19 other countries to get Chinese vaccines. The announcement put hundreds of Indians, who are working and doing business in China but stuck in India due to travel restrictions, in a dilemma as Chinese vaccines are not available in the country.

But desperate to return to join their jobs and families in China, more than 300 Indians travelled to neighbouring countries such as Nepal and the Maldives besides Dubai to get the Chinese jabs, incurring huge expenditure. However, their efforts were in vain as the Chinese Embassy has not started issuing visas for their return.

Following this, more than 200 Indians jointly sent written representation to Chinese Ambassador to India Sun Weidong early this month. They have also written to the Indian Embassy in Beijing, seeking its help to facilitate their early return.

"Respected H.E Sun Sir, now that we have been successfully vaccinated by the Chinese vaccine, kindly guide us with a way forward. We request you to start visa issuance to Indian nationals, which has been stopped since early November last year," the Indian community in China wrote to the Chinese Ambassador.

The letter was attached with the names of 202 Indians who had taken Chinese vaccines.

Subsequently, the association members told PTI that the number had gone up to

Ineffable grace of the guru

As a poet, philosopher and preceptor par excellence, Adi Sankara's name is synonymous with the Advaita Siddhanta he has firmly established in the spiritual tradition. Apart from his discerning bashyas to the Prastanatraya texts, he has composed many Prakarana granthas to instil faith and belief in this tradition at a time when people were confused by doubts about the validity of the Vedas and of the Supreme Brahman. He travelled through the length and breadth of the country to debate, discuss and argue for this siddhanta. In his grantha Satasloki, he pays a glowing tribute to the role of the preceptor who alone is capable of transmitting the highest knowledge, atma tatva, to his disciples, said Sri K. Ramasubramaniam in a discourse. Generally many laukika ideas, objects etc, are grasped by means of comparison, description, inference, etc. In sastras too, for instance, the all-pervading atma swaroopa is explained by comparing it to the akasa. In the medical field, analysis, extensive tests, etc, lead to research findings that are based on inference or anumana. But the acharya confesses in the first verse of this grantha that he has checked thoroughly for a suitable analogy to describe the ineffable greatness of the guru's grace. The guru imparts jnana which is very rare and at best, the example of the philosopher's stone may seem to be a fitting analogy. This stone has the power to convert base metals into gold and even so, the acharya converts even a dull sishya into a realised soul. But the analogy falls short because the transformed gold does not possess the power of the philosopher's stone. But in the case of the guru, when an ordinary disciple is initiated to the state of realisation, he too automatically gets the power to convert his disciples also into jnanis.

It seeks closer economic cooperation with Southeast Asian nations while pushing back against Quad

ANANTH KRISHNAN

China is hosting Foreign Ministers from the 10 ASEAN countries on Monday and Tuesday, with Beijing pushing for closer economic cooperation and aligning CO-VID-19 recovery efforts even as it looks to push back against the recent regional outreach of the Quad grouping.

Chinese officials have in recent weeks stepped up criticism of the Quad - the informal India, Australia, Japan and the United States grouping - and of Washington in particular. During recent visits to Sri Lanka and Bangladesh, China's Defence Minister called on both countries to reject "military alliances" - a term that some Beijing are using to describe the Quad, but a label that the said in a statement the China-ASEAN Foreign Ministers meeting, in the city of Chongqing, would mark the 30-year anniversary of relations and also "focus on combating COVID-19, promoting economic recovery, [and] better dovetail[ing] strategic plans." A vaccine passport connecting China and ASEAN countries is also being discussed.

China's Foreign Minister

Wang Yi will hold bilateral meetings with all the visiting Ministers, and also chair a meeting of the Lancang-Mekong Cooperation (LMC) with Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam.

Economic cooperation

Deepening economic cooperation, particularly following the signing of the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) trade deal, would be China's focus, analysts in Beijing said, even as it grapples with disputes over the South China Sea. Recently, China and the Philippines have clashed over the presence of Chinese vessels near a disputed reef, while Malaysia alleged the intrusion of 16 Chinese aircraft into its airspace.

The Communist Party-run Global Times on Monday blamed the U.S. for those tensions rather than China's moves that prompted the protests from the Philippines and Malaysia. Countries "see clearly that quarrels on South China Sea are not the biggest threat to regional stability; it is the U.S., whose warships frequently sail through the sensitive waters and try to force ASEAN countries take sides to confront the newspaper China,"

After the first Ouad leaders' summit held in March and the announcement of a regional vaccine initiative, Chinese analysts framed ASEAN as a key space where Chinese and Quad initiatives may rub up against each other.

China "cannot rule out the possibilities that Quad members will further rope in ASEAN members to counter China as Southeast Asia is of great significance to the U.S.' Indo-Pacific Strategy," wrote Yuan Zheng, senior fellow of the Institute of American Studies at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. "Yet ASEAN will not easily take

The framing of the Quad as "an Asian NATO" by Beijing has been criticised by the group's members. India's External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar in April described the using of words such as "Asian NATO" as "a mind game which people are play-

Fujimori leads in tight Peru presidential poll over Castillo

The country has seen four Presidents in the last three years

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE

Right-wing populist Keiko Fujimori held a narrow lead on Monday in Peru's presidential election, but the crisis-hit nation's race was too close to call as votes were still being tabulated from countryside bastions of support for radical leftist Pedro Castillo.

Ms. Fujimori had 50.2% of ballots to Mr. Castillo's 49.8%, according to partial results from Peru's electoral body, with about 90% of polling stations counted after voting on Sunday in a country battered by years of political turbulence.

Whoever wins will take leadership of a nation in crisis, suffering from recession and with the worst coronavirus fatality rate in the world after recording more than 1,84,000 deaths among its 33 million population.

Peruvians will also look to the winner to end years of political turmoil after four Presidents in the last three years, and with seven of the last 10 of the country's leaders either having been convicted of or investigated for

The head of Peru's top electoral body (ONPE), Piero Corvetto, warned that many polling stations from rural areas – Mr. Castillo's stronghold – had yet to be tallied.

"They haven't counted our votes yet," Mr. Castillo told supporters on Sunday in Tacabamba, in the northern Cajamarca region where he lives.

Mr. Castillo, 51, had earlier urged his supporters to "stav calm."

Ms. Fujimori, 46, also called for caution, saying: "Seeing how small the gap is, it is essential to maintain prudence and I say that for all Peruvians.

Both candidates promised to respect the results as they cast their own ballots on Sunday.

"We're not going to know (the winner) until the last vote" is counted, political scientist Jessica Smith said.

Rescue mission: Soldiers and volunteers at the site of a train collision in Ghotki district in ⁺ FDA conditionally approves

The drug, Aduhelm, has been granted 'accelerated approval'

controversial Alzheimer's drug

The U.S.'s pharma regulator, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), made a much anticipated ruling on Monday, in conditionally approving the use of an Alzheimer's drug, called aducanumab, the first such approval since 2003. The drug, which goes by the brand name Aduhelm, has been granted 'accelerated approval', meaning it will need to verify expected clinical benefits in a new trial.

The drug's approval had become controversial, with growing pressure from those impacted by the debilitating degenerative brain disease on one hand and opposition from many in the scientific community who were not convinced that the drug had demonstrated efficacy in trials, on the other. The FDA's conditional approval on Monday took account of

On Monday, Patrizia Cavazzoni, director of the FDA's Center for Drug Eval-

Aducanumab is based on the amyloid hypothesis of the disease – that plaques made of beta amyloid peptide (a type of protein) form in the patients brain leading to cognitive decline and problems with thinking. The drug supposedly binds to beta amyloid molecules and removes them. The drug, a monoclonal antibody, is given monthly via injection to patients who suffer from early stages of Alzheimer's.

'No strong evidence'

The drug, developed by Biogen, a Cambridge (Massachusetts)-based company and Eisai Co., a Japanese company, was pulled out of two trials in 2019 after it was thought not to be working. In October of last year, Biogen said a high dose of the

> A panel of experts - not part of the FDA – had ruled last November that the drug did not show "strong evidence" of working. Their decision was non-binding on the FDA. Other scientists and a think tank had said safety concerns around the drug did not outweigh any possible benefits, the New York Times reported.

"The late-stage development program for Aduhelm consisted of two phase 3 clinical trials. One study met the primary endpoint, showing reduction in clinical decline. The second trial did not meet the primary endpoint. In all studies in which it was evaluated, however, Aduhelm consistently and very convincingly reduced the level of amyloid plaques in the brain in a dose- and time-dependent fashion. It is expected that the reduction in amyloid plaque will result in a reduction in clinical decline," Ms. Cavazzoni wrote

Maldives wins UNGA election, India seeks close cooperation

'Talks are on to bring in Indian diplomat as Chef de Cabinet'

In a first for the Maldives, Foreign Minister Abdulla Shahid was elected the President of the UN General Assembly for 2021-22, winning 143 votes or nearly three-fourths of the 191 countries that voted in the annual election, while his rival, former Afghanistan Foreign Minister Zalmai Rassoul, won 48.

Mr. Shahid's win was welcomed in particular in New Delhi, where Indian diplomats had been active behind the scenes in helping the Maldives canvass for him, after Maldives announced its candidate for the 76th General Assembly Presidency a year ago. Sources confirmed that given the close cooperation between both countries, Maldives is in discussions with the Indian mission for India's deputy Permanent Representative at the UN Nagaraj Naidu to officiate as Mr. Shahid's Chef de Cabinet.

Maldives President Ibrahim Solih called the election

win "resounding" and a "great honour for the Maldives", while former President and Maldives speaker Mohammad Nasheed said it was a "great day" for small island states and for "climate vulnerable countries everywhere".

"This is a testimony as much to [Mr. Shahid's] own stature as to the standing of Maldives. We look forward to working with him to strengthen multilateralism and its much-needed reforms," said External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar. As The Hindu had reported last week, India had made it clear to Afghanistan's government that it would be unable to support Mr. Rassoul as it had declared its support for Maldives publicly in November, long before Afghanistan announced its candidature in January this year. The announcement had caused an awkward tussle within the Asia Pacific group, whose turn it is to take the Presidency of the General Assembly, and especially for India, which has close ties with both countries.

Surprising development Sources said the announcement was a "surprising development", and that it was important for Maldives to take the position that it has, unlike Afghanistan, never held before.

"Both Maldives and Afghanistan have excellent ties with India and both candidates are friends of India. However, since India had already committed its support to Maldives at a time when no other candidate was in the fray, India voted in favour of Maldives," the sources said.

Mexico President poised to hold majority in elections

His party falls short of supermajority

ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Andrés Manuel López Obrador's party and its allies appeared poised to maintain their majority in Mexico's lower chamber of the Congress, but fell short of a supermajority, as some voters boosted the struggling Opposition, according to initial election results.

Electoral authorities released "quick count" results based on voting samples that allow estimates of the voting trends to determine the rough potential makeup of the Chamber of Deputies late Sunday.

Mr. López Obrador's Morena party will have to rely on votes from its allies in the Workers Party and Green Party, but together they were expected to capture between 265 and 292 seats in the 500-seat chamber. Morena alone was expected to win 190 to 203 seats.

Significant decline

That would signal a significant decline for the President's party. In the current Congress, Morena has a simple majority, holding 253 seats on its own. It would also deprive the President of a qualified majority of twothirds required to approve constitutional reforms.

He appeared to acknowledge that new reality on Monday. He praised the election as "free, clean" and said Mexicans had shown a degree of political maturity

The opposition alliance made up of the Institutional Revolutionary Party, National Action Party and Party of the Democratic Revolution were estimated to win between 181 and 213 seats Those would be gains for those parties, which have often appeared rudderless in the face of Mr. López Obrador's popularity.

NCLT approves Piramal's DHFL offer

Tribunal says approval subject to final NCLAT ruling, SC's judgment on Kapil Wadhawan's plea

The National Company Law Tribunal on Monday approved the Piramal Group's bid for bankrupt-DHFL, subject to certain conditions.

The NCLT's Mumbaibench, chaired by H P Chaturvedi and Ravikumar Duraisamy, said the approval is subject to the final ruling from the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal and the Supreme Court's judgment on Kapil Wadhawan in the matter.

moved by the Union Bank of India on behalf of the CoC. On May 19, NCLT had asked the RBI-appointed administrator of DHFL to present the settlement plan offered by Mr. Wadhawan to the CoC.

In January, the CoC voted to accept the Piramal Group's ₹37,250 crore offer under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC).

'Positive trendsettter'

Welcoming the NCLT ruling, the Piramal Group said, "This is one of India's largest IBC proceedings, and the very first in the financial sector. In that regard, it is an important and positive trendsetter for the future. The approval from NCLT is a significant milestone in DHFL's resolution and an affirmation of the sanctity of the IBC process". Last year, Mr. Wadhawan had made his settlement offer. The offer was rejected by the CoC, citing lack of credibility and the valuations attached to the proposed asset sales. Mr. Wadhawan had proposed repaying lenders by selling assets.

In November 2019, RBI had referred DHFL - then the third-largest pure-play mortgage lender - for resolution under the IBC.

DHFL had gone bankrupt with more than ₹90,000 crore in debt to various lenders, including banks, mutual funds and individual investors who kept fixed deposits with the company.

DHFL's shares would be delisted from stock exchanges post acquisition by Piramal Capital and Housing Finance, sources told PTI.

"Similar challenges and the absence of meaningful investor interest resulted in the state ultimately having to sell its majority stake in IDBI Bank to LIC in 2019, which has somewhat been privatisation in letter but not in spirit.

"However, this could change in 2021 if both government and LIC are able to divest a majority stake in the bank to an external investor, as it may be indicative of broader investor appetite in state banks with adequate loan-loss serves," it concluded.

'Second wave may delay resolutions, increase haircuts'

FY22 realisation under IBC rests on 8-9 large accounts: ICRA

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

The second wave of the CO-VID-19 pandemic may again delay resolutions under the Insolvency & Bankruptcy Code (IBC) and increase haircuts for lenders, though realisations for financial creditors is likely to improve under the Code in FY22, ICRA said in a report.

Stating that realisation for financial creditors from the resolution under the IBC fell to ₹26,000 crore in FY21 almost a quarter of the realisations in FY20 - it said financial creditors may realise the expected resolution of a large housing finance firm. This is likely to be DHFL.

"The pandemic has increased operational challenges for the various parties involved in a corporate insolvency resolution process, which resulted in limited plan," ICRA said. "Further, the suspension of new proceedings under the IBC for the entire fiscal resulted in a sharp slowdown in the resolution process," it added.

"The increase in the resolution amount in FY22 would depend on the expected resolution of a large housing finance company which is awaiting the NCLT's approval but is also under litigation in the higher courts," said Abhishek Dafria, VP and group head, Structured Finance, ICRA.

In FY22, realisations would depend on successful resolution of 8-9 big-ticket

Google to change global advertising practices in landmark antitrust deal

French authority fines U.S. tech firm $268 mn; probe followed publishers' plaint

Google said it would make changes to its global advertising business to ensure it did not abuse its dominance, bowing to antitrust pressure for the first time in a landmark settlement French authorities.

The deal with the French competition watchdog could help rebalance the power over advertising in favour of publishers, which held sway over the business in the pre-Internet era but lost control with the rapid rise of Google and Facebook.

The settlement, which was announced on Monday and also saw Google fined €220 million ($268 million), is the first time the U.S. tech giant has agreed to make changes to its huge advertising business, which brings in the bulk of its revenue.

"The decision to sanction Google is of particular significance because it's the first decision in the world focusing on the complex algorithmic auction processes on which the online ad business relies," said France's antitrust chief Isabelle de Silva. The watchdog found that Google's ad management platform for large publishers - Google Ad Manager – favoured the company's own online ad marketplace - Google AdX - where publishers sell space to advertisers in real-time. Ad Manager provided AdX with strategic data such as the winning bidding prices, while AdX also enjoyed privileged access to requests made by advertisers via Google's ad services, the authority said. AdX, in turn, exchanged data more smoothly with Ad Manager than it did with other advertising management platforms, the watchdog added. Such platforms are crucial for publishers to manage and sell advertising space.

Under the terms of the settlement, Google made commitments to improve the way Ad Manager services worked with rival ad servers and ad space sales platforms, the French watchdog said. Some changes would be implemented by the first quarter of 2022, it said, adding that Google would not appeal the decision.

The French authority said the decision opens the way for publishers who felt disadvantaged to seek damages from Google. It launched its investigation in 2019 following a complaint from News Corp., French news publishing group Le Figaroand Belgian press group Rossel.

IPL: BCCI in a dilemma over finalising fixtures

Board hoping to push final to Oct. 14 or 15

AMOL KARHADKAR

More than a week after formally passing a resolution to schedule the remaining half of the suspended Indian Premier League (IPL) in the Arab Emirates (UAE), the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) is in a quandary over finalising fixtures of tournament.

Given the short window available between the conclusion of India's Test series in September and the scheduled beginning of the T20 World Cup in mid-October, the BCCI had targeted September 20 to October 10 as the window for hosting the remaining 31 games.

However, with an overlap of the IPL with other domestic leagues and international games looking inevitable, the BCCI is hoping to be allowed to push the final to October 14 or 15.

It will facilitate the BCCI to let the participants in the Caribbean Premier League take part in a majority of the IPL matches after playing the final on September 19.

A slightly relaxed schedule, with fewer doubleheaders, may also result in big-ticket overseas cricketers being allowed to participate in the IPL by their respective boards. The BCCI had earlier planned playing 10 double-headers, thus resulting in every team having

Such a move will mean the International Cricket Council will either have to push the start of T20 World Cup by almost a week or let the World Cup qualifiers clash with IPL Playoffs.

The latter scenario will not be suitable for the broadcaster as it is set to beam both the events in the Indian subcontinent.

It comes naturally for most of us to find fault with the world. It takes some effort to sport the right attitude, introspect and find a way

Being reduced to the role of a reserve, despite being ranked second best in the country behind Ankita Raina, for the Billie Jean King Cup World Group play-off match against Latvia, the 23year-old Riya Bhatia responded well by working on improving her game in tournaments around the world.

"Probably, I wasn't good enough to be part of the team this time. I am working on improving myself so that I can make my country proud in future," said Riya, who had made the doubles final of a $25,000 event in Portugal with Gabriela Ce of Brazil.

Practising yoga and kriya regularly, Riya is categorical about fitness being, "the most important part in tennis". "Yoga plays an important part in our lives, both physically and mentally. I was lucky to be part of the Art of Living course. It has been a boon for me, especially during all the uncertainties caused by the pandemic," said Riya.

A proud member of the 'Indian Oil family', Riya has been competing in Abu Dhabi, Egypt, South Africa, Dubai, Portugal, Spain apart from Latvia this season, thanks to the support of her parents.

"I have been travelling alone for a long time now, as it is very expensive. My family is definitely cheering me from home, no matter where I am in the world," Riya said. "I am working on all as-
