Vaccination declines by 60% as States say they have no doses

Immunisation centres in several regions shut down after stocks run out

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
 NEW DELHI

The weekly pace of vaccination has declined to nearly 60% of what was seen in the week after June 21, when the Centre entirely took over vaccine procurement from the States. The slackening has resulted in several States complaining of a shortage and an inability to cater to demand.

On June 21, the first day of the new policy, nearly 91 lakh doses were administered and until June 27, about 4 crore were administered. While the subsequent week didn't match up, the period from July 5-11 has seen only 2.3 crore doses being dispensed. So far, about 38 crore vaccines have been administered since the drive commenced in January.

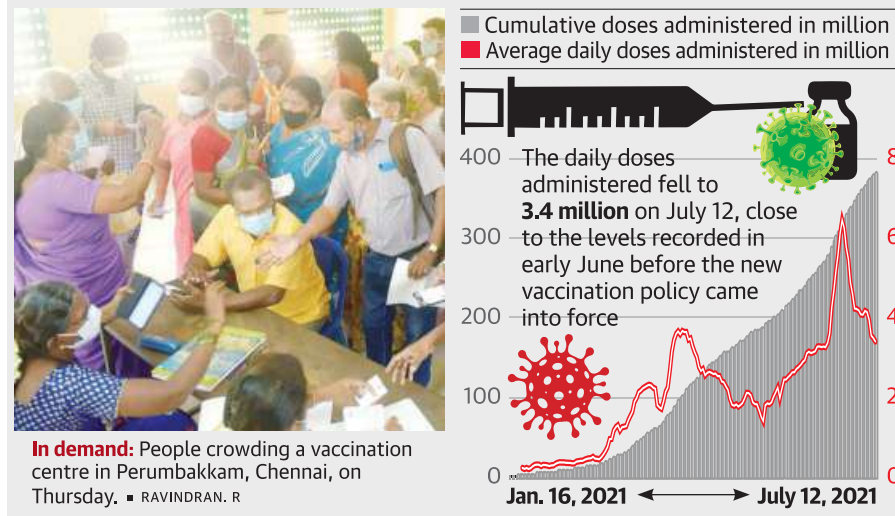

Behind target

In the week since June 21, 60 lakh vaccines a day were the norm. However, the last time India crossed that daily figure was July 3. In order to meet the Centre's commitment to fully vaccinate all adults by the year-end, at least 80 lakh doses have to be administered every day.

Several States have reported having to shut down vaccination centres due to the unavailability of stocks.

"We have 3,96,750 doses left in hand. This is definitely not enough... We need nearly 11.5 crore doses but have received only 1.67 crore doses. We require 10 crore more doses. The government is continuing its efforts to get more vaccines," said Ma. Subramanian, Tamil Nadu Minister for Medical and Family Welfare.

On Tuesday, Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M.K. Stalin, in a letter to the Prime Minister, pointed out the imbalance in the allocation for Tamil Nadu and sought special allocation of one crore doses.

Vaccination centres remaining closed or people queuing up for vaccines for long hours have become a common sight in many places. Tamil Nadu has so far received 1.67 crore doses of the two vaccines, while 1.66 crore have been administered.

Maharashtra's demands

Maharashtra has administered 3.7 crore doses thus far. The State government has claimed it has the capacity to administer 15 lakh doses a day. Health Minister Rajesh Tope said 70 lakh doses had arrived last week but they were exhausted in just three days. The State Assembly had recently passed a resolution demanding 3 crore doses per month from the Centre for the next three months.

Till date, around 47% of Mumbai's populace above 18 years has been administered the first dose while more than 25% has been given both doses. A total 60 lakh people (both first and second doses) have taken the vaccine.

Monsoon arrives in Delhi, late by 2 weeks

The last time the rains arrived this late was in 2002 when it reached the Capital on July 19

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The southwest monsoon finally advanced over the Capital on Tuesday after missing its normal onset date of June 27. The last time the monsoon arrived this late in the Capital was 19 years ago in 2002 when it reached the Capital on July 19.

With its advancement over Delhi, the monsoon has now covered the entire country, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) said. The normal date for the monsoon to cover the entire country is July 8.

Rain lashed several parts of the city early in the morning and continued in spurts throughout the day with the official weather reading recorded at the Safdarjung station showing that the Capital received 28.1 mm of rainfall between 8.30 a.m. and 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday.

The rain brought relief from the heat with the maximum temperature settling at 30.9 degrees Celsius, five notches below normal. The minimum settled at 23.5 degrees Celsius, which was four degrees below normal.

The delay in the monsoon had led to a string of heatwaves in the Capital in the first week of July with the maximum temperature settling at 43.1 degrees Celsius on July 1 and at 42.6 degrees Celsius on July 7.

The IMD said the delay in advancement of the monsoon over the Capital was mainly due to no formation of low-pressure area over the Bay of Bengal, no presence of monsoon trough at mean sea level near Delhi and 5-6 western disturbances that moved west to east across north India, which dominated the monsoon easterlies.

The Met department got the prediction for the monsoon's onset over Delhi wrong this time as it had first said the monsoon would arrive early - by June 15.

It then changed its forecast on June 14 saying the monsoon would be delayed

Further and that it would advance into remaining parts of western Uttar Pradesh, some more parts of Punjab, Haryana and Rajasthan and Delhi around July 10. While the neighbouring areas received rain, the monsoon continued to elude the city till Tuesday morning.

“Such type of failure by numerical models in prediction of monsoon advance over Delhi is rare and uncommon. It is needless to mention that IMD has predicted with high accuracy about the advance of monsoon over Delhi in recent years and also the advance of monsoon over different parts of the country during the monsoon-2021 accurately about four to five days ahead,” the IMD said.

More rain

The forecast for July 14 reads generally cloudy sky with moderate rain/thundershowers. The maximum and minimum temperatures are likely to settle between 33 and 24 degrees respectively.

PWD gets 70 waterlogging complaints in 10 hours

Vehicular movement affected in various parts of the city

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Public Works Department (PWD), which has jurisdiction over the entire network of arterial road stretches in Delhi, received around seven waterlogging complaints every hour following the sudden downpour on Tuesday.

According to a PWD official, the department's control room received 70 calls about waterlogging during a ten-hour period starting around 9 a.m.

“There was some duplication in the complaints but, broadly, most of them pertained to around half a dozen locations and alleged waterlogging within an hour after the shower. The first call was logged around 8.50 a.m.,” the PWD official said.

the Azadpur metro station, Majlis Park, Pul Prahladpur underpass, Mathura Road, Dhaula Kuan, Badarpur metro station and MB Road near the DM office.

Delhi traffic police said vehicular movement was affected and heavy traffic was observed at Dhaula Kuan and Azadpur in addition to Delhi Cantonment and Kalindi Kunj flyovers among other locations.

Meanwhile, Leader of the Opposition in Delhi Assembly, Ramvir Singh Bidhuri accused the Delhi government of indulging in a “sewer scam” by claiming that all PWD-owned sewers had been cleaned in the Capital. The season's first rainfall, he alleged, had clearly exposed the “fraud” perpetuated by the AAP Delhi government on citizens in this regard.

Teenager attacked by stalker succumbs during treatment, accused in custody

Alleged perpetrator a DU graduate, he hit her with an axe

STAFF REPORTER
NEW DELHI

The 16-year-old girl who was attacked by her alleged stalker with an axe in south-west Delhi's Moti Bagh died during treatment at Safdarjung Hospital on Tuesday morning, the police said.

The accused, Pradeep alias Praveen, a resident of a jhuggi in Shastri Park, South Campus, has been arrested, said DCP (South) Ingit Pratap Singh. Pradeep completed his graduation from Delhi University this year.

Mr. Singh said the accused, who had been stalking the girl for some months, attacked her to get revenge after her father had slapped him. The accused was arrested from his sister's house in Palwal in Haryana when he was about to flee to Mumbai.

He had bought the axe from R.K. Puram last month and attacked her with it on Monday. She sustained serious injuries near her eyebrow. A case lodged under Section 307 (attempt to murder) has been changed to 302 (Murder) of the IPC following her death.

“We will add further IPC sections of stalking and sections of Protection of Children Against Sexual Offences Act against the accused. The axe has been recovered and the incident has been captured on a CCTV camera,” said an officer.

‘He threatened to kill her before her birthday and did it’

Teenager's father had slapped him for stalking her, says eyewitness

SAURABH TRIVEDI
NEW DELHI

Nearly a fortnight ago, Pradeep had allegedly threatened the teenager that she won't survive to celebrate her seventeenth birthday.

As it turned out, he kept his word and attacked her on Monday - a day before her birthday. A few hours later, she succumbed to injuries.

According to an eyewitness, the girl had complained to her father about being stalked by the accused for the past few months. Next, her father confronted Pradeep in a nearby vegetable market and slapped him. The accused had then, in full public view, challenged to kill her before her birthday.

“No complaints lodged” “He did what he had threatened to do. We all thought he was making empty threats. Being a concerned neighbour, we all had asked the girl's father to file a police complaint. But he did not want his daughter to get involved in all this and thought that things had settled down,” said the eyewitness.

On the day of the incident, the eyewitness said, Pradeep was waiting for her outside the society gate. When he saw her walking towards her house, he attacked her with the axe and ran away. The girl was bleeding profusely and screamed for help. Residents then informed the police about the incident. But by the time, the police arrived, she had fainted.

“I am concerned over the security of the victim's two younger sisters. The victim was a brilliant student of Class XI and recently her father had brought her a mobile phone for online classes. Her father is numb while her mother is inconsolable,” said a distant relative.

BJP demands Gahlot's resignation

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT NEW DELHI

While reiterating that Lieutenant-Governor Anil Bajjal allow a probe by the Anti-Corruption Branch into the alleged DTC bus scam, the BJP on Tuesday demanded that Transport Minister Kailash Gahlot and his department officials responsible be removed.

Delhi BJP president Adesh Gupta said even the panel set up to examine the alleged scam had termed the purchase as well as maintenance tender "irregular" and asked that a fresh tender be issued.

Cong. approaches CVC

Meanwhile, a Delhi Congress delegation, headed by chief Ch. Anil Kumar submitted a letter to Chief Vigilance Commissioner Suresh N. Patel demanding a probe into the purchase and maintenance contracts of the 1,000 low-floor buses. Mr. Kumar said that Mr. Patel assured them that the CVC will hold a thorough probe into the complaint.

500 centres shut after jab shortage

Health Minister says entire vaccine stock likely to be depleted by today afternoon

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

Health Minister Satyendar Jain on Tuesday said 500 COVID inoculation centres in the city had to be shut due to shortage of vaccines.

"There is a shortage of vaccines in Delhi. We received a small stock of 1.5 lakh Covishield vaccines on Monday night, which will not last beyond Tuesday. This in effect will again cause the centres to shut after the stock gets depleted. We have around 1.68 lakh vaccines which will not last beyond Tuesday or half of Wednesday," Mr. Jain said.

He said that Delhi has the capacity to administer 3-4 lakh doses of vaccine a day but have to shut vaccination centres as we are not being supplied enough stock

Several vaccination centres in the city have been closed for many days due to shortage, according to workers at the centres. People are also facing difficulties as centres are closed.

At a government-run vaccination centre in Navyug School near Pandara Park, vaccination was not happening on Tuesday afternoon. "From Saturday, the centre has been closed due to vaccine shortage. About 50-100 people come every day to enquire whether vaccination is happening and we send them back," said an employee at the centre.

Kartik Gill, 20, who came to the centre to get his parents vaccinated said they were finding it difficult to get a second shot of the vaccine. "My parents got the first shot in Hauz Khas. We went there on Tuesday for the second dose, but the centre did not have any vaccine stock. Then we went to a dispensary that we heard was giving vaccine shots. When we got there, however, the employee there said inoculation had not been happening for the last four days as they do not have stock," Mr. Gill said.

Vaccination was not happening at a government-run vaccination centre in Mukherjee Park either. "We don't have vaccine stock since Friday. We expect to get some vaccine doses soon, but there is no assurance as of now," said a volunteer at the centre.

It had sought FIR against city hospital

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI

A court here on Tuesday pulled up Delhi Police for filing in a "casual manner" the reply to a plea seeking registration of an FIR against Jaipur Golden Hospital management for alleged deaths of COVID-19 patients due to oxygen shortage.

Oxygen shortage
As many as 21 critically ill patients had died at the hospital on the intervening night of April 23-24 as it allegedly awaited the oxygen supply to be replenished, following which six family members of the deceased approached the court.

Not satisfied with the status report filed by the police, Metropolitan Magistrate Vivek Beniwal said, "The status report has been filed in a casual manner. The IO has not disclosed what steps were taken after he was directed to file the status report."

Furthermore, the judge called it a "highly sensitive matter" and gave the Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) the last opportunity to file the status report, failing which the court would take action as per the law.

Change of land use from recreational to public and semi-public facilities for the construction of a transit camp for the CRPF was also approved.

Haryana has released Delhi's legitimate share of water: DJB

'16,000 cusecs of water to reach treatment plants soon'

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

Delhi Jal Board (DJB) vice-chairman Raghav Chadha on Tuesday said the water shortage in the city will be over soon as the Haryana government has released 16,000 cusecs of water.

"The Haryana government released 16,000 cusecs of water soon after the Kejriwal government filed a petition in the Supreme Court. Delhi's legitimate water share has been released by the Haryana government at Hathni Kund and 16,000 cu-secs of water will reach Delhi's water treatment plants in the next three days. The water problem in Delhi will end very soon and clean drinking water will reach Delhiites," Mr. Chadha said.

For the past one week, the DJB has been claiming that the Haryana government was not releasing Delhi's share of Yamuna water and due to this the water supply in Delhi was being affected.

Raw water from the Yamuna and other sources is treated by the DJB at different water treatment plants (WTPs) before supplying it to people.

On Monday, Mr. Chadha had said that the water level at Wazirabad barrage, a point along of river Yamuna in Delhi, was the lowest since 1965 and warned of a water crisis.

Illegal call centre busted with arrest of 26 employees

STAFF REPORTER NEW DELHI

A sham call centre was busted with the arrest of 26 employees for allegedly duping U.S. citizens of at least ₹4 crore by impersonating Amazon customer service providers, the police said on Tuesday.

DCP (South) Atul Kumar Thakur said they received a tip-off that an illegal call centre was being operated from south Delhi's Sultanpur. On reaching the spot, the police caught the employees red-handed.

Preliminary enquiry revealed that the fake call centre had been running for the past seven months and on average, at least six U.S. citizens were cheated daily. Over 1,250 people have been found to be cheated so far.

During probe, it was revealed that the accused would send fake messages to phone numbers of the victims, telling them that their Amazon ID has been hacked and charges have been imposed on them. When the customer would call back to know more about it, they would show them fake repair of their Amazon ID through AnyDesk, a remote desktop access application.

Three held in Assam for kidney racket

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT GUWAHATI

The police in Morigaon district of Assam arrested three people for allegedly preying on villagers to run a kidney trade racket. Morigaon SP Aparna Natarajan said the police have found 10 people in Dakshin Dharamtul village who have been victims of the racket. Most victims were either grappling with poverty or were desperate to repay microfinance loans.

Aadhaar uncertainty for 27 lakh as NRC in limbo in Assam

They include 19.06 lakh left out of citizens' list, Assembly told

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT GUWAHATI

The Aadhaar enrolment of more than 27 lakh people in Assam has been shrouded in uncertainty because of the delay in completing the process of the National Register of Citizens (NRC). The biometrics of 27,43,396 people were collected during the claims and objections phase of the NRC exercise prior to the publishing of the complete draft on August 31, 2019. They include the 19,06,657 people left out of the complete draft.

The applications of 3.3 crore people were processed during the exercise to update the NRC of 1951.

Replying to a question by All India United Democratic Front MLA Ashraf Hussain in the Assembly on Tuesday, Assam's Minister for General Administration Ranjeet Kumar Dass said the onus was on the Centre to decide whether or not these 27.43 lakh people would be issued Aadhaar cards. The biometrics of these people were frozen after the publication of the NRC. The Centre had earlier been asked to unfreeze the biometrics.

Govt. should hold talks with farmers: BJP leader

Sampat Singh urges party to withdraw cases against farmers

ASHOK KUMAR GURUGRAM

Former Haryana Home Minister and BJP leader Prof. Sampat Singh has again come out in support of the farmers' movement demanding that the government open the avenues of dialogue. He added that farmers alone could sustain an agitation for so long and not any political party.

Prof. Sampat Singh

Prof. Singh had this past month refused nomination as a member of the Haryana State Executive Committee of the Bharatiya Janata Party in support of the farmers' agitation. In a letter to State BJP chief O.P. Dhanraj, Prof. Singh had said "he was unable to accept this responsibility because of the ongoing farmers' agitation in support of their demands, which I also supported from Day One".

Prof. Singh said no political party has the capacity to run a movement for so long and the farmers alone could do so, demanding that the government open the avenues of dialogue with them. In an obvious reference to the cases registered against the farmers in Sirsa two days ago, Prof. Singh, with a folded hands emoji, said Mr. Gangwa and Sirsa MP Sunita Duggal show big heart and withdraw the cases.

'Losing patience'

On Tuesday, Prof. Singh, in a tweet from his handle, said the agitating farmers were losing patience time and again and that could happen during such a long movement. His tweet came in context of the farmers' clash with State Assembly Deputy Speaker Ranbir Gangwa in Sirsa on Sunday.

Speaking to The Hindu over phone, Prof. Singh, said the government should show "large heart" to initiate dialogue with farmers without any "pre-conditions" and patiently listen to their grievances.

Recalling his own experience regarding the farmers' agitation in Jind's Kandela village during Om Prakash Chautala's rule, Prof. Singh said the government, like parents, must listen to the public. The six-time MLA said he had led and been a witness to many agitations over the past four decades, but no movement had lasted so long.

'Listen to farmers'

He said the Opposition in Haryana was "weak" and a "divided house" and did not have the potential to run a movement for long against the BJP. Prof. Singh said the BJP came to power with the farmers' support and now must listen to them.

"So far the farmers have managed to keep the outsiders away from the movement, but they might sneak into it if it prolongs. The politics has degraded and people are just looking for small political gains. No one has the guts to tell truth to the people at the top of the political hierarchy," he lamented.

Prof. Singh said the movement could lead to violence. "We must listen to the farmers' grievances. It is not just about politics, it is about the society as a whole. Even wars can end with dialogues, these farmers are after all our own people," he said.

Sit-in protest at ex-Minister's house in Rohtak

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT GURUGRAM

The ongoing controversy over alleged obscene gestures towards women protesters outside Guru Jambheshwar University this past week led to a sit-in agitation near former Minister Manish Grover's residence in Rohtak on Tuesday.

A large number of farmers, including women, sat on a sit-in near Mr. Grover's residence in the evening seeking an apology from him. A man had allegedly made obscene gestures towards protesting women farmers at the GJU, Hisar, Gate Number 3, from a car occupied by Hansi MLA Vinod Bhayana and Mr. Grover on July 10.

The State-level leaders of the Samyukt Kisan Morcha led the protest march towards the local residence of Mr. Grover, but were stopped by the police at the barricades. "An action committee was formed which decided to put up an indefinite dharna," said Inderjit Singh, vice-president, All-India Kisan Sabha, Haryana.

Jagmati Sangwan, national vice-president, AIKWA, said Chief Minister Manohar Lal pretended to show concern for women but today his own party people were insulting the women and he was silent.

FIR in car attack case

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA CHANDIGARH

The Sirsa police have registered a case against over 100 protesters on various charges in connection with the incident on Sunday in which Haryana Deputy Speaker Ranbir Gangwa's car came under attack during a farmers' protest targeting the events of the BJP leaders. "We have registered an FIR against 100-150 protesters under various provisions of the IPC," Civil Lines SHO said over the phone on Tuesday.

BHEL bags order for Nuclear Steam Generators from NPCIL

Against stiff competitive bidding, Bharat Heavy Electricals Limited (BHEL) has won a major order for the supply of 12 Steam Generators from Nuclear Power Corporation of India Limited (NPCIL). Valued at Rs.1,405 Crore, the order has been won under NPCIL's Fleet Model procurement programme and mandates supply of 12 Steam Generators for India's highest rated indigenously-developed 700 MWe Pressurized Heavy Water Reactors (PHWR) to be set up at four different locations in the country. The Steam Generators will be manufactured at the Tiruchirappalli plant of BHEL. Significantly, this is the second major supply order secured by BHEL through competitive bidding for the Fleet Model implementation programme of 10x700 MWe Nuclear projects by NPCIL. The first equipment order secured by BHEL under this programme, for the supply of 32 Reactor Header Assemblies, is currently under execution. BHEL holds the distinction of being the sole Indian company to be associated with all the three stages of the Indigenous Nuclear Power Programme of the country and has emerged as the leading partner for NPCIL over four decades now. Notably, nearly 75% of PHWR based Nuclear Power Plants in India are equipped with BHEL-supplied Turbine and Generator sets (the balance being imported sets).

'Probe into illegal land purchase in Amaravati should continue'

Andhra Pradesh tells SC it wants investigation monitored by a retired HC judge

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Andhra Pradesh government on Tuesday told the Supreme Court that investigation into the alleged "illegal purchase" of land in Amaravati should go on and be monitored by a retired High Court judge.

The government said the case could even be investigated by the CBI. The government urged a Bench of Justices Vineet Saran and Dinesh Maheshwari to refer the case back to the High Court.

The apex court was hearing an appeal filed by the government against a High Court stay on investigation into the FIR involving former Advocate General Dammalapati Srinivas among others.

The FIR shows offences under the Prevention of Corruption Act, criminal breach of trust and cheating under the Indian Penal Code. The allegations include abuse of official positions in the State, sharing of privileged information and causing loss to the public exchequer during the previous Telegu Desam Party (TDP) regime.

A file photo of the CRDA marking stones at an undeveloped plot meant for farmers who gave land for Amaravati capital.

'Regime revenge'
The State, represented by senior advocate Rajeev Dhavan, maintained in the Supreme Court that the Amaravati land case was not a product of "regime revenge".

But senior advocate Harish Salve, for Mr. Srinivas, countered that the case was indeed a case of "regime revenge". Mr. Salve initially voiced an opinion to have the case heard in the top court itself. "It cannot go up and down like this," he said in a virtual hearing. He said either the State's appeal in the apex court should be dismissed and the case be heard in the High Court or let the case continue to be heard in the top court itself. The State cannot fight in two forums at the same time.

"We have already agreed that no coercive action would be taken [against the persons named in the FIR]. I am not in a position to say that it could be heard here [Supreme Court]. On instructions, I am saying that the case has to be heard in the High Court, and in detail," Mr. Dhavan submitted.

The Bench deferred the hearing to July 22. The High Court had stayed the investigation and barred the State from taking any coercive action against the persons named in the FIR.

SC declines to revoke bail for 12 in gold smuggling case

LEGAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday declined to revoke the bail granted to 12 accused in the high-profile Kerala gold smuggling case and agreed to examine whether the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) can be invoked in smuggling cases.

The question is whether the offence of gold smuggling is covered entirely under the Customs Act or would it fall within the definition of terrorist act under Section 15 (1) (a) (iia) of the UAPA.

A Bench led by Chief Justice of India N.V. Ramana issued notice to the 12 accused who were granted bail by the Kerala High Court on this limited question of law concerning the UAPA.

The Centre and the National Investigation Agency, which had moved the apex court against the High Court's categorical finding that the UAPA would not stand in smuggling cases, argued in the top court that the High Court's view was divergent with its Rajasthan counterpart, and the law needed to be finally clarified by the Supreme Court.

The Kerala High Court had maintained that the UAPA cannot be invoked in smuggling cases unless the crime was done with the intent to threaten the economic security of the country. The NIA had approached the High Court, invoking the UAPA, after the NIA court in Kochi gave the accused bail.

The case concerns the seizure of 30 kg of 24 carat gold worth ₹14.82 crore at the Thiruvananthapuram airport last year.

Pinarayi meets PM, demands GST dues

'Ideally, the States should be given financial aid'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The Central government owed Kerala ₹4,524 crore of GST dues, Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan informed Prime Minister Narendra Modi in his first meeting with the latter after winning a second term in his State.

Mr. Vijayan said the COVID-19 pandemic had put a strain on the State's finances. "Ideally, the States should be given financial assistance. But the Centre, in fact, owes the State ₹4,524 crore of GST compensation for 2020-21. This should be disbursed at the earliest," Mr. Vijayan said at a press conference.

The meeting with Mr. Modi lasted nearly half an hour and Mr. Vijayan described it as cordial. Long-standing problems and demands of Kerala were discussed, he stated.

The need of the hour was to ensure that majority of the people were vaccinated. "Which is why Kerala too needs more vaccines and we informed this to the Prime Minister. We need 60 lakh doses for this month," he said.

To administer the second dose alone, the State needed 25 lakh doses this month. Kerala so far had managed to give the first dose to 44% of people above the age of 18.

Mr. Vijayan also met Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and Urban Development Minister Hardeep Puri, who also handles the Petroleum portfolio.

When asked if he discussed the rising fuel prices with him, Mr. Vijayan said this issue did not impact Kerala alone. "This is something that impacts the entire country and our party will be raising it emphatically during the Parliament session," he asserted.

Fuel under GST

Mr. Vijayan said his government had not yet formed an opinion on whether or not fuel should be brought within the GST ambit.

In his three meetings on Tuesday, Mr. Vijayan flagged the delays in many infrastructure projects in the State, including the Sabari-Angamaly rail line, an airport for quick access to pilgrimage site Sabarimala and an AIIMS for the State.

An unproductive idea

Socio-economic empowerment is more effective than coercion in cutting fertility rates. Incentives and penalties form an integral component of the measures to control population growth, announced by Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Sunday. These steps are aimed at reducing U.P.'s total fertility rate (TFR), recorded as 2.7 by the National Family Health Survey-4 in 2016, a figure only lower than that of neighbouring Bihar (3.1 as of 2020 in NFHS-5). Aims in this direction – increasing the rate of modern contraceptive prevalence, male contraception, decreasing maternal mortality and infant mortality rates significantly by 2026 – are, on the face of it, in line with what was stressed at the Cairo International Conference on Population and Development in 1994. The Cairo Consensus called for a promotion of reproductive rights, empowering women, universal education, maternal and infant health to untangle the knotty issue of poverty and high fertility. But rather than taking steps in this direction, the Government seems to have taken the beaten path of a mixture of incentives and penalties to tackle what is a socio-economic issue as a demographic one. In a draft Uttar Pradesh Population (Control, Stabilisation and Welfare) Bill, 2021, the Government aims to incentivise one-child families and reward those with two children with perks in government schemes, rebates in taxes and loans, and cash awards if family planning is done among other sops. Disincentives for those with more than two children include denial of subsidies and welfare benefits, a bar on applying for government jobs and taking part in local elections. Assam, also led by the BJP, is mulling a similar policy.

The incentives/disincentives approach has been denounced in the past by the National Human Rights Commission after such measures were introduced by several States in the 1990s and 2000s, i.e., Haryana, undivided Andhra Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh and Odisha. The Supreme Court, in 2003, upheld a Haryana government law barring persons with more than two children from contesting local body polls, but the legal grounding of the moves impinging upon the informed choice of the individual remained questionable. Empirical studies of coercive measures have shown their discrimination against marginalised people in particular and with no discernible effect on population control, while more substantive poverty reduction schemes and economic reforms have raised labour productivity and employment opportunities, allowed families to empower women, and reduced fertility rates as rational choices. India's TFRs have been reducing substantially across most States, even in U.P. and Bihar with the highest TFRs. To hasten the drop to replacement levels of fertility, States should tackle the socio-economic issues confronting India's largely youthful demography rather than seeking neo-Malthusian approaches on population control.

Redemption road

Despite the violence of English fans, Euro 2020 will be remembered for good football. Sport is replete with redemption stories. Teams wrestling with their pasts before swimming towards the light make for compelling plotlines. But for giant footballing countries, success following failure is more of a sequence and less of a narrative. This millennium, Germany and France have plumbed the depths before rising to become world champions. But Italy's redemption story at Wembley on Sunday, a penalty shoot-out victory over England to secure only its second-ever European Championship, should not be seen through such a reductionist lens. The triumph represents the transformation of a proud, but dogmatic, footballing nation into a modern, forward-looking side, with the singular aim of coming out of one of its darkest chapters – of not qualifying for a World Cup (2018) for the first time since 1958. In the process, Roberto Mancini's outfit also cleared the fog that had settled over international football. Built around the midfield abilities of Jorginho, Marco Verratti and Lorenzo Insigne, and the pace and drive of Federico Chiesa and Leonardo Spinazzola, Italy played with verve. Veteran defenders Giorgio Chiellini and Leonardo Bonucci ensured it also displayed old-school nous. Together with the goal-keeping brilliance of Gianluigi Donnarumma – player of the tournament – the Azzurri beat No.1 ranked Belgium, No.6 Spain and No.4 England back-to-back to claim their first major trophy since the 2006 World Cup.

Italy, no doubt, had a generation of players schooled in progressive methods since their youth, but Mancini's tactical acumen stood out. The 56-year-old's handling of the loss of key personnel was smart, as was his role in shaping Italy's response after England went a goal ahead and threatened to end its own trophy drought of 55 years. In contrast, Germany suffered under outgoing coach Joachim Low's defunct ideas, while a complacent France blew a 3-1 lead against Switzerland and crashed out. Luis Enrique's Spain, though, impressed, despite falling to Italy over penalties in the last four. Barcelona's Pedri proved a gem and the 18-year-old midfielder was duly named the young player of the tournament. Cristiano Ronaldo won the Golden Boot (5 goals, 1 assist) but was far from the driving force he usually is for Portugal, the 2016 winner. Denmark, by reaching the semifinal despite the traumatic exit of Christian Eriksen, showcased its collective spirit. The only discordant notes in an otherwise excellent competition were English fans' violent behaviour on the final day and the racist attacks on players who erred in the penalty shoot-out. But in the long run, Euro 2020 will be remembered for restoring Italian football, reinvigorating international football and proving mildly therapeutic to fans worldwide amidst an unending, exhausting pandemic.

The upcoming crisis in Indian federalism

The national compact has to be reimagined so that post 2026, the most successful States are not punished politically

RAHUL NARAYAN & GAUTAM BHATIA

The Indian Constitution may face an unprecedented crisis in 2026 when there will be a dramatic change in the composition of the Lok Sabha. Since 1976, seats in the Lok Sabha have reflected the 1971 census and have not taken into account changes in the population. The primary reason for this has been unequal population growth among States. India's most highly developed and prosperous States have been successful at family planning, while the poorer States continue to expand. The freeze was thus a chance to ensure that India's most successful States are not punished politically for their success. Post 2026, when this compact ends, there will be a seismic shift in national power towards India's poorest and most populated States, which is sure to generate much resentment among the States that will lose political and economic power and influence. This calls for a realignment in the balance between the democratic principle and the federal principle in the Indian Constitution.

The essence of the Union

As Article 1 of the Indian Constitution says, India is a Union of States. The choice of words is deliberate: it is the several States that, together, make up the Indian Union. Admittedly, unlike in other federations, there is no separate State citizenship or State Constitutions. However, one need only study the history that led up to the linguistic reorganisation of States in 1956, and to subsequent movements for Statehood afterwards, to understand that States are distinct associative communities, within the federal structure of the Indian Union. Indeed, in a polity as plural as ours – linguistically, culturally, and ethnically – it could not be any other way.

Big versus small States

Having established, thus, that States are important, self-contained units within the Indian constitutional scheme, we must turn to an inherent contradiction between the principles of democracy and federalism, when federal units are unequal in size, population and economics. This is easy to comprehend. In a democratic set up, all citizens are equal and are thus entitled to equal representation in governance. But this would imply that bigger States are likely to dominate the national conversation over smaller States. Small States fear that they would get a smaller share of the pie economically, a much reduced say in national issues, and be irrelevant in the political governance of the country.

In order to assuage this legitimate fear, federal democracies have incorporated into their governing structures various kinds of compromises to ensure a balance between democratic principles and federal ones.

For example, when the Americans adopted their Constitution, they protected smaller States in four ways. First, national powers over the States were limited. Second, each State regardless of size had two seats in the Senate, giving smaller States an outsized role in national governance. Third, Presidents are elected by electoral votes, which means they must win States rather than the total national population. Fourth, and deplorably, the slave-owning States which did not confer citizenship on slaves were allowed to count the slaves for purposes of representation, with each slave being counted as three-fifths of a person.

This essential structure remains the bedrock of the American Constitution today, though the Americans have rid themselves of slavery (fortunately) and have dramatically increased the scope of federal intervention. This federal structure has led to the severing of causal links between the national vote and presidential elections. Presidents George W. Bush and Donald Trump won without winning the popular vote.

The current movement to remove the power of a minority to filibuster legislation is based on democratic principles seeking to mitigate the pathology of excessive federalism: indeed, the American structures of government go so far in the other direction, that they have been accused of essentially facilitating and entrenching minority rule through the Senate, which favours rural, sparsely populated States that are also predominantly white.

The Indian structure

Other federations (Switzerland and Belgium come to mind) have adopted other – less extreme – forms of reconciliation. However, India's quasi-federal structure has always been sui generis. Our founders knew that India's diversity made federalism inevitable, but, fearing fissiparous tendencies among States that had never been a single political unit, they also created a strong centre. While history has been chequered, the fears for Indian national unity simply on the basis of giving States greater powers have proven to be unfounded – and if at all, it has been the other way. The 1956 reorganisation of States on linguistic lines was a popular recognition of federal principles and yet did not result in separatist tendencies. Since then, new States within the Union have been created in response to the demands of people for greater autonomy.

In India, any clash between federal principles and democracy will inevitably also have linguistic, religious and cultural implications and may result in new forms of sub-regional chauvinism. Thus, there is an urgent need to reimagine our national compact – another freeze will only kick this thorny issue down the road and will continue to perpetuate an increasingly undemocratic set up.

Fine-tune these elements

We have the components of such a new balance that need to be fine-tuned to Indian realities. First, the powers of States vis-à-vis the Centre contained in the Lists and in the provisions dealing with altering boundaries of States must be increased to assuage the fear of smaller States that they will be dominated by bigger ones. There is no reason to believe that empowering our States would cause national disintegration. On the contrary, more localised decision-making is bound to increase national prosperity. Indeed, this was the entire goal of the creation of Panchayat governance through the 73rd and 74th Amendments to the Constitution, whose promise remains – unfortunately – unrealised.

Second, the role and composition of the Rajya Sabha, our House of States, must be expanded. This would allow smaller States a kind of brake over national majoritarian politics that adversely impact them.

Third, constitutional change and the change in financial redistribution between the States must require the consent of all or nearly all States (the fate of the Goods and Services Tax, or GST, serves as a salutary warning in this regard). Constitutional provisions dealing with language and religion must also be inviolate. If India is a joint venture between majority and minority shareholders, the minority must be protected by a comprehensive list of "consensus items" that require unanimity – or at least, a super-majority – and not simple majority.

Fourth, serious thought must be given to breaking up the biggest States into smaller units that will not by themselves dominate the national conversation.

Competing claims

The unity of India is, of course, the fundamental premise underlying this discussion; but this unity does not depend on an overbearing Centre for its survival. National bonds of affection and patriotism will not be severed by devolution of powers though they will be at least severely strained when one part of the country is empowered over another. Lampedusa's Il Gattopardo contains the memorable quote, "Everything must change for everything to remain the same." This includes the question of how we are to balance the competing claims of democracy and federalism, in the years to come.

Framing the legislation, forgetting the transparency

India, it appears, is charting a regulatory framework without discussion and openness, and with government overreach

ANURADHA RAMAM

It was the June of 2002 and the Information and Broadcasting Ministry office on the fifth and the sixth floors of Shastri Bhavan, New Delhi, was buzzing with activity. Cable operators referred to as "unsavoury characters" had taken over the conference room which was overflowing with pizza and soft drinks. Reporters could come and go and talk to officials; usually the Secretary and the Additional Secretary would come out to brief the reporters. There was a reason for this flurry of activity. The Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Amendment Bill, which had the potential of regulating the business of lakhs of cable operators, multi-system operators and broadcasters, was going to be debated in Parliament and it was the draft of the proposed Bill that was being discussed threadbare with stakeholders.

Then and now

The discussions spilled over months as reporters munched through the pizzas. The Ministry was careful to keep the stakeholders away from each other. Such was the unease between the stakeholders. It was evident to all of us that while Ministry officials were comfortable discussing the provision of the proposed Bill with broadcasters, cable operators were a different kettle of fish. So, while the broadcasters were invited at dusk, the cable operators held sway during the day. The Atal Bihari Vajpayee government, much like the present Government, was clueless about the number of cable operators; many had sizeable stakes in the real estate business in the country and carried the channels for a price which was at the centre of animosity between the broadcasters and the cable operators.

Eventually passed by Parliament in 2002, the Cable Television Networks Regulation (Amendment) Act was not a perfect Act, and would undergo many more amendments, but the changes were the outcome of intense discussions with all stakeholders. In the days to come, the Act would be criticised but the doors of the Ministry were always open for discussions. This is a marked departure from the manner in which the new Information Technology (Intermediary Guidelines and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules, 2021, which has sought to put the brakes on free speech, is being pushed through.

OTT in focus

Of course, the Government can always turn back and say, 'they gave you 100 days'. But here is the rub. The Government never put up for public discussion what it was seeking to amend and control. The November 2020 Executive order bringing Over-The-Top (OTT) platforms or video streaming service providers such as Netflix, Amazon Prime and others under the ambit of the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, exposed the real intentions of the Government. But when the now former Ministry of Information and Broadcasting Minister Prakash Javadekar commented that the Ministry officials had no fix on the number of OTT platforms and users in the country, his concern was legitimate. After all, this is a business and along with the entertainment industry, had reached ₹1.82 trillion in 2019 and has been projected to cross ₹2.4 trillion by 2022 (FICCI report on media and entertainment; <https://bit.ly/36xadTJ>). In fact, digital media overtook filmed entertainment in 2019. And to throw in some more figures, there are around 550 million television and smartphone consumers in the country. The figures are expected to double by 2025.

GETTY IMAGES/STOCKPHOTO

There are over 200 million OTT subscribers. The major draw of OTT is this: the content being served to you when you want it. You are free to watch what you wish to at a time chosen by you on a platform you are comfortable with. Your smartphone doubles up as the screen as you navigate your ride on the metro.

This is in danger now with the IT rules having come into effect on February 25 (<https://bit.ly/3riYdZn> and <https://bit.ly/3B1q1E1>). The Digital News Publishers Association – a 13-member collective of some of the leading news media companies, the Press Trust of India and now the News Broadcasters Association, have moved courts petitioning them to intervene and stop the code which not only restricts free speech but also far exceeds the mandate of the IT Act in empowering the executive from controlling online content.

Incidentally, while amending the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867, to bring within its ambit digital news platforms two years ago, for good measure, the Ministry had put out the draft on its website (draft "Registration of Press and Periodicals Bill, 2019" inviting discussions (<https://bit.ly/3AWRuZl>). So, it is all the more surprising why the Ministry did not follow the same process while attempting to regulate OTT and digital news platforms. It could have got a fix on both.

Rules elsewhere

Since the best of rules and guidelines are often enriched by best practices around the world, here is a brief list of some of these. The EU Audiovisual Media Services Directive, updated three years ago, encourages self-regulation and co-regulation among players, with specific focus on child safety and violence and hate speech. In the United Kingdom, programming on video-on-demand services, including TV and online film services, is regulated by Ofcom which not only provides editorial rules but also has specific provisions for protecting those under 18 and the prohibition of content inciting hatred. The United States, perhaps the most liberal of countries, expects Pay TV players to follow Federal Communications Commission (FCC) guidelines – OTT content remains unregulated. So, from a light touch to content governing children, most countries have set up an enabling architecture for OTT platforms to grow. India, it appears, has not followed in their footsteps, instead, charting a regulatory framework which has been characterised by excessive government overreach.

Unease over free speech

More importantly, does the government of the day have the mandate to control and regulate digital news? And here the Government, many of whose Ministers had burnished their reputation as champions of free speech during the Emergency, has floundered. Much like the Constitution makers who had decided to retain some of the most draconian provisions of laws controlling freedom of expression, the present government too appears to have followed the same path and has expressed its uneasiness over free speech on numerous occasions. The plate of newly minted Information and Broadcasting Minister Anurag Thakur is overflowing. For one, he can pose a question to himself: should the Government formulate a self-regulating code for digital media? Does that even make sense?

At the heart of content, both news and entertainment, is the freedom of expression – the life-giving force behind content. Finally, discussions and transparency indicate trust in the people by an elected government. There is little evidence of that in the framing of the IT guidelines. Now, we even have the Government's draft on the proposed amendments to the Cinematograph Act of 1952, seeking to control the Central Board of Film Certification's power of certification!

Help Cuba

If U.S. President Joe Biden really means that he stands with the Cuban people and their clarion call for freedom and relief from the pandemic and economic suffering, he should help the Cuban government in the supply of vaccines, food and other essentials. But the reality is that for several decades, the U.S. has imposed a crippling embargo and tried to do everything possible to see that Cuba's suffering is intensified. We have seen the U.S.'s role in Afghanistan, and its role in Cuba would be no different. It is a clear case of imperialist aggression. It should end this naked and notorious aggression which the world only knows too well. When the entire world went through the worst form of epidemic and many countries with poor management of the crisis and severe economic depression did not see any protests, then what is peculiar to Cuba needs no explanation.

Taliban's betrayal

The Taliban's fighting in Afghanistan has become a matter of grave concern not only for that country but for other neighbouring countries too. The speed with which the Taliban took control of a major portion of Afghanistan, just after America's pulling out of its troops, shows that they were waiting all along for this to happen. As in the agreement between the U.S. and the Taliban, the only item, and being implemented, is the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Afghanistan; all other points have been ignored, which is blatant betrayal by the Taliban. Unity is the only viable solution to develop Afghanistan into a peaceful country.

No to politics

Cine stars conveniently forget that they are immensely popular and are demi-gods. But there are some of them who work hard to climb the ladder from the film world to politics. However, politics is not everyone's cup of tea and this applies to actor Rajinikanth and his series of flip-flops (Tamil Nadu, "No intention to enter politics: Rajini", July 13). Everyone is aware of the dismal end to the parties founded by Shivaji Ganesan and Bhagyaraj. The MNM party founded by Kamal Haasan too has fared badly.

Growth matters but income levels matter more

India needs a sharp revival of demand for which higher per capita incomes are necessary

M. SURESH BABU

The provisional estimates of annual national income (2020-21), released on May 31 by the National Statistical Office, did not have any surprises, but for one, that is, there is nothing encouraging in the numbers.

The agriculture sector continued its impressive growth performance, reiterating that it still remains as the vital sector of the economy, especially at times of crisis. The manufacturing sector continued its subdued growth performance, failing to emerge as the growth driver, with production interruptions due to localised lockdowns to be blamed. The contraction in trade (-18.2%), construction (-8.6%), mining (-8.5%) and manufacturing (-7.2%) is a matter of concern as these sectors account for the bulk of low-skilled jobs. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) at Constant (2011-12) Prices in Q4 of 2020-21 is showing a growth of 1.6%, slightly better than expected, but for a period when the restrictions on mobility and economic activity witnessed reduction, this performance looks below par. Further, this growth, which is an improvement over the 0.5% rate of growth in the previous quarter, is a statistical artefact as it is not devoid of the base effect and seasonality which plagues quarterly estimates. The magnitude of contraction in the economy and the policy responses towards it raises an important issue, that is, the question of growth prospects for the next year.

Rising unemployment rate

Contextualising the current growth rates in terms of some other macro-economic data would provide us a better perspective on growth recovery. First, the unemployment data released by the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy (CMIE) which says, "In May 2021, India's labour participation rate at 40 per cent was the same as it was in April 2021. But, the unemployment rate shot up to 11.9 per cent from 8 per cent in April. A stable labour participation rate combined with a higher unemployment rate implies a loss of jobs and a fall in the employment rate. The employment rate fell to 35.3 per cent in May 2021 from 36.8 per cent in April 2021. This is a very sharp fall for a single month... May 2021 was therefore a particularly stressful month on the jobs front". According to CMIE, over 15 million jobs were lost in May 2021, higher than the 12.3 million in November 2016, the month of demonetisation. May 2021 was also the fourth consecutive month of a fall in employment. The more worrying fact is that the cumulative fall in employment since January 2021 is 25.3 million of which 22.7 million were in the first quarter of FY 2021-2022, that is, during April and May. This shows that the second wave of the pandemic has already dented economic activities, postponing recovery further. The job losses also bring out the high informality and vulnerability of labour in India as of the total jobs lost during April-May, 17.2 million were of daily wage earners.

Elementary textbook economics tells us that employment and aggregate demand in an economy are related via the channel of disposable incomes of workers. We also know that aggregate demand and output growth have a positive correlation. Hence, the prospects of growth revival in the next year look bleak at the moment and from this perspective, it is worrying that in just April and May 2021, India lost 25 million non-farm jobs.

Low business confidence

This gets reflected in the business confidence of Indian companies, which is the second important data point that needs to be examined. Business confidence index (BCI), from the survey by the industry body FICCI, plummeted to 51.5 from 74.2 in the previous round. The survey also highlights the weak demand conditions in the economy. It says, "With household income being severely impacted and past savings being already drawn on during the first wave of infections, demand conditions can be expected to remain weak for longer." Compounding this is the uncertainty arising out of the imposition of localised curbs due to the second wave of infections and a muddled vaccine policy in the country.

Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) also throws some light on the shape of things to come. PMI has slipped to a 10-month low indicating that the manufacturing sector is showing signs of strain with growth projections being revised lower. Both BCI and PMI slipping down indicates that the overall optimism towards 2021-22 is low, which could impact investments and cause further job losses.

Demand recovery

Growth recovery depends on demand recovery. External demand looks robust as India's exports touched $32 billion in May 2021, 67% higher than in May 2020 and 8% more than in May 2019. The combined increase in exports of April and May 2021 is over 12% indicating that global demand rebound is much faster than the domestic demand. Stimulus programmes and a sharp decline in COVID-19 infections seem to be aiding these economies. What needs to be addressed immediately is the crisis of low domestic demand.

Since last year, the policy responses have been to rely on credit easing, focusing more on supply side measures, with more and more guarantees by the government to improve flow of credit to important sectors. There has been less direct action by the government to support the vulnerable to alleviate their hardships. There were some sector-specific measures to alleviate distress in certain sectors, which were timely. However, this policy stance is unlikely to prop up growth for three reasons. First, the bulk of the policy measures, including the most recent, are supply side measures and not on the demand side. In times of financial anxiety, what is needed is direct state spending for a quick demand boost.

Second, large parts of all the stimulus packages announced till now would work only in the medium term. These include policies related to the external sector, infrastructure and manufacturing sector. In fact, some of the policies towards agriculture, such as productivity enhancement through the introduction of new varieties, will only work over years. Third, the use of credit backstops as the main plank of policy has limits compared to any direct measure on the demand side as this could result in poor growth performance if private investments do not pick up. Further, the credit easing approach would take a longer time to multiply incomes as lending involves a lender's discretion and borrower's obligation. Interestingly, a tight-fisted fiscal policy approach comes at a time when conventional fiscal stimulus packages might not be enough as supply side issues arising out of episodic lockdowns need to be addressed simultaneously.

What is required now is a sharp revival in overall demand. Focusing on short-term magnified growth rates resting on low bases might be erroneous, as income levels matter more than growth rates at this juncture. Focusing on growth rates has its merits in the long term as achieving higher income levels require sustained growth for longer periods. Bangladesh seems to be doing this without much fanfare, but the quest for sustained higher growth has been elusive for India for the last five years.

Upholding trust in vaccination

Instead of regressing into 'target mode', involving the community and spreading positive messages could help

SOHAM D. BHADURI

Not very long ago, family planning dominated health system allocations and priorities in India and resulted in much harassment for grassroots health workers and the rural folk. It turned into a target-chasing, at times compulsive, exercise. The corollary was the undermining of trust in the public health system, which would often lead to people avoiding contact with health facilities for routine health services.

Meeting targets

Such trust is indispensable for large public health programmes to function optimally, particularly in cases like COVID-19 vaccination. But the primeval tendencies of the Indian public health system often antagonise such trust. These tendencies entail that a public health problem is seen merely as a function of input deficiencies, which can be overcome by pouring in more resources, manpower, and policies. The rich processes involved in translating these inputs into outcomes, which are deeply entwined with local contexts, are largely dismissed. They also result in benevolent objectives turning into ruthless targets which are to be met at all costs and reduce subtle activities like community sensitisation into simplistic information-education-communication exercises.

There is every reason to expect these primeval tendencies to kick in and play foul in the COVID-19 vaccination drive. There are signs of vaccine hesitancy in India. Crucial junctures like a pandemic provide a window for communities to express distrust of otherwise long-established interventions like vaccines. For the government, failing to act with finesse in such situations could produce spillovers into the post-pandemic period and affect normal routine immunisation. More importantly, a desperate and overbearing approach to ensuring vaccination, coupled with deficient trust among communities, can lead to avoidance of public health facilities by many, which could be disastrous.

Further, there are certain factors that make us particularly vulnerable to the peril of vaccine hesitancy during the pandemic. While routine immunisation is well-trenched, COVID-19 vaccines are prone to suspicion as they are new and abrupt entrants. The unprecedented scale and speed of their roll-out, and the media reporting of adverse events that are often spurious, add to the suspicion. One of the biggest neutralis-ers of vaccine distrust are the visible improvements in disease prevention, and the equally visible damages when communities reject vaccines. These are unlikely to work substantially in the immediate term. The emergence of newer variants which predispose to vaccine failure and breakthrough infections can also endanger trust.

Such crises also provide opportunities for traditional and folk medical practitioners to reassert themselves by attempting to discredit modern medical principles. These practitioners constitute influential hubs within many communities that may make or break a public health programme. Further, certain factors could prompt our public health system to regress to an instinctive top-down approach driven by desperation, including an imminent third wave, an anticipated increase in vaccine supplies in the near term, and the pressure to vaccinate as many as possible in the shortest time. Vaccine hesitancy may not necessarily emanate from a distrust of science but from government motives which may be miscommunicated.

Acting prudently

Apart from community involvement, contextualised action, and transparency, eloquence and responsibility in public communication, the government should rein in an instinct of regressing into 'target mode' even at the highest moment of desperation. This is necessary, though not sufficient, to safeguard public trust and prevent community alienation.

There is a need of active thinking on avenues to incentivise vaccination beyond pecuniary subsidies, particularly for the rural sections. This would include removing disincentives that accompany reduced physical access, overenthusiastic drives on certain days that result in subsequent shortages, etc. Given that more than 38 crore vaccine doses have already been administered, there is a case for disseminating success stories through locally appropriate media, while not cutting back on honest, solemn and tactful repertoire on adverse events.

Positive messages and reinforcements for vaccination have to be aired from the several quarters that command respect and trust of the community. In this regard, there is a strong case for engaging with members of traditional and folk systems despite any potential resistance from them. Lastly, there is a strong case for effectively utilising the services of social science professionals. They may have a pivotal role in navigating the many nuances involved in community mobilisation that are often invisible to medical professionals and other technocrats.

Disable unconstitutional sections

Several steps can be taken to ensure that people are not booked under laws held unconstitutional

R.K. VIJ

Recently, while hearing an application filed by the People's Union for Civil Liberties (PUCCL), the Supreme Court expressed shock that despite its declaration of Section 66A of the Information Technology (IT) Act, 2000 as being unconstitutional six years ago (Shreya Singhal vs. Union of India), criminal cases are still being registered by the police under this Section. The PUCCL said that 1,307 cases had been registered since 2015 across States and therefore the Court must issue guidelines against the registering of FIRs by the police under this head.

In 2015, the Supreme Court had declared Section 66A of the IT Act, which made online posting of information considered as "grossly offensive" a crime punishable by jail, as being violative of Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution and not saved under the ambit of reasonable restrictions defined in Article 19(2). It had also said that the expressions used in Section 66A were open-ended, undefined and therefore arbitrary.

In 1983, the Court had struck down Section 303 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), which provided capital punishment for murder by a person serving a life term in another case, as being unconstitutional. In Mithu v. State of Punjab, it held that the punishment was not based on rational principle as no judicial discretion was available to a life convict. In 2018 (Navtej Singh Johar v. Union of India), the Court read down Section 377 of the IPC criminalising "unnatural sex" as being unconstitutional. Similarly, in Joseph Shine v. Union of India (2018), the Court held adultery as defined under Section 497 of the IPC as being manifestly arbitrary, discriminatory and violative of the dignity of a woman and therefore, unconstitutional.

Negligence by the police

Undoubtedly, the registration of FIRs by the police under these sections is illegal and violative of the Court's directions. Though such cases may not always be registered intentionally, negligence by Station House Officers (SHOs) must be nipped in the bud.

The supervisory police officers at the sub-divisional level must ensure that such sections, if invoked due to lack of knowledge at the police station level, are removed at the earliest. The Superintendents of Police must fix responsibility on the erring officer and take corrective action. Everyone responsible for the negligence should not only be answerable to the courts for contempt but also be liable for departmental action. If the SHOs and others don't mend their ways despite reprimands, their annual confidential reports could be dented with adverse entries. Action can also be initiated under the new Section 166A of the IPC which provides punishment for up to two years for disobeying directions under the law.

Avoiding registration

The best way to avoid registration of offences under sections held unconstitutional is to educate police officers of all ranks about such provisions in basic training institutes. Second, as the Attorney General of India, K.K. Venugopal, had suggested, there could be a mention in brackets near the provision that the provision has been struck down, so that FIRs are not registered under those sections. Third, unconstitutional sections of the IPC can be disabled in the Crime and Criminal Tracking Network and Systems (CCTNS). Most States register FIRs in the CCTNS either on a real-time basis or in offline mode and synchronise this data with the State Data Centre as soon as connectivity is restored. In case police stations don't have connectivity, the data (i.e., FIR in electronic format) are taken to the nearest police station that has connectivity and uploaded. The CCTNS came in handy when the Supreme Court directed the States in 2016 to upload FIRs on official websites within 24 to 72 hours of registration. In Chhattisgarh, we have disabled these Sections in the system. Other States could follow suit.

The police must ensure that no FIR is registered under unconstitutional sections and no one is harassed for the negligent actions of SHOs.

Teachers face the digital hurdle

The COVID-19 pandemic forced schools to stop physical classes and shift to online teaching. This move has highlighted two concerns: how well teachers are trained to take classes online; and the pupil-teacher ratio, which determines the quality of education. According to UDISE 2019-20, only one in four teachers in India was trained to use a computer for teaching. The share of such teachers was even lower in government schools. Also, there were wide disparities among States, with Gujarat training 57% of its teachers while M.P. training only 9% of them. While most States had an acceptable pupil-teacher ratio, the ratio was above the recommended value in some States, especially in higher education. While a high pupil-teacher ratio is a concern even during physical classes, its importance has only increased with online teaching. By Sumant Sen, Jasmin Nihalani and Vignesh Radhakrishnan

1. INADEQUATE TRAINING

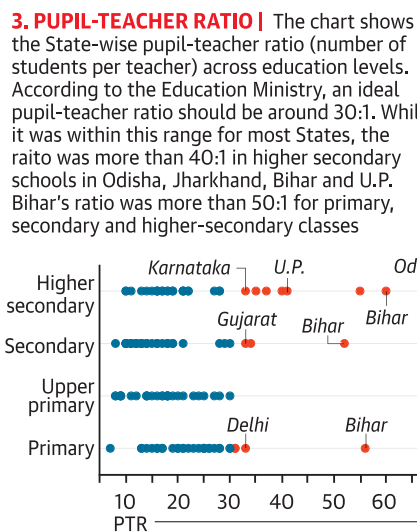

The table lists the % of teachers trained to teach with a computer in India. Only 15% of teachers were trained to teach using a computer in schools managed by the government. Though the share was relatively high among private schools, only one-third of teachers who teach higher grades were trained to teach online. The types of management listed in the table cover 95% of the teachers in the country

2. STATE-WISE COMPARISON

Only 3% of government schoolteachers in Bihar, Madhya Pradesh and Odisha were trained to teach with a computer. In contrast, in States such as Gujarat, Punjab and Maharashtra, more than 50% of teachers were trained to teach online. The share of trained teachers was higher in private schools in general. However, in a few States such as Madhya Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh, and parts of the Northeast, the share of such teachers was lower across managements

Vaccination falls by 60% as States cite shortage

The BMC officials have said while they have the capacity to administer 1,00,000 doses daily, the civic body is unable to fulfil even 50% of that quota due to paucity of vaccines.

In Karnataka the gap between those vaccinated only with the first and those fully vaccinated has widened with the latter around 23%. State Health Commissioner K.V. Trilok Chandra attributed the low percentage of fully vaccinated people to the 12-16 week gap between two doses of Covishield that was introduced in May. As a major chunk of vaccinations happened in the last three months, those who have taken the first dose after that are not yet due for the second, he said. The demand is expected to go up in the coming days, as those falling into the eligible category will go up, he reasoned.

Shortage in Telangana

Several Telangana government COVID Vaccination Centres (GCVC) have run out of Covaxin doses. The shortage is being experienced from the past few days. Sources in the State Health Department told The Hindu that Covaxin doses were not given at GCVCs in Hyderabad, Rangareddy, and Medchal-Malkajgiri districts.

"Until a few weeks ago, we used to mobilise people for COVID vaccination. We are not doing it currently since the stock is not in abundance. And we don't know when we will get huge stock," sources said. Huge supply-demand mismatch continues to be an issue in Kerala, said officials. The State has assigned priority status to specific groups in the population, like NRIs or students who are preparing to go abroad and college students between 18-23 years of age, but there is not enough vaccines to be distributed to all. Health officials say though the supply is regular, the consignments are quite small for a State which has the capacity to deliver 2.5-3 lakh doses per day. This has seriously reduced the pace of vaccination, despite the huge demand for the same.

Kerala has administered the first dose to 44% of its population above 18 years and the second to 16%. The State's vaccine requirement for July is 60 lakh doses, with 25 lakhs doses required for delivering second doses to those who are due for it. Delhi's vaccine stock is expected to last for only two more days, as per a bulletin released by the Delhi government on Tuesday.

Due to the lack of sufficient doses of the vaccines, Andhra Pradesh has now prioritised giving the second dose to the beneficiaries due to receive it by limiting the administration of the first dose to eligible beneficiaries aged above 45, mothers of children aged below 5 years and people required to travel abroad. According to officials, the Central government promised 50 lakh doses in July. However, there are over 30 lakh beneficiaries due to receive the second dose in July and so far only about six lakh of them received it, according to the Cowin portal.

Uttarakhand suspends Kanwar Yatra

The announcement came hours after Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath reiterated that the traditional yatra would be held following COVID protocol, suggesting that a negative RT-PCR test report could be made mandatory for out-of-State participants.

A senior official in the Uttarakhand CM's office said the decision to suspend the yatra had been taken after consultations with the Central government, as well as with Chief Ministers of the surrounding States from where the pilgrims or Kanwariyas come towards Uttarakhand. "For all other States, the Kanwar Yatra is simply a movement of people who are passing through, and they are not congregating at a central point in their respective states. But from our point of view, from all four directions, people congregate at a particular city within Uttarakhand and that too within an area of a few square kilometres," said the senior official, noting that up to two crore Kanwariyas pour into Haridwar, whose usual population was only four lakh.

SII to make Russian Sputnik V vaccine

"We have reached a partnership agreement with Serum Institute of India to manufacture Sputnik V," Russian Direct Investment Fund CEO Kirill Dmitriyev said in a media briefing from Moscow. The process of technology transfer to SII was underway for the last three months, and the firm is expected to release the first batch in September. As part of the technical transfer process, SII has already received cell and vector samples from Gamaleya Center, the developer of Sputnik vaccine. "With their import approved by the Drugs Controller General of India, the cultivation process has begun," RDIF said in a statement.

SII CEO Adar Poonawalla said, "We hope to make millions of doses in the coming months with trial batches starting in September. With high efficacy and a good safety profile, it is critical that the Sputnik vaccine is accessible in full measure for people across India and the world."

'Mehul Choksi will return to Dominica when fit'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

Diamantaire Mehul Choksi will "only" return to Dominica to face trial for illegal entry into that country when a doctor "certifies" that he is fit to stand trial, the media there reported citing conditions laid down by the Dominica High Court while granting him bail.

In a major setback to Indian efforts to bring him from the Caribbean country, Dominica High Court Judge Bernie Stephenson allowed the businessman to return to Antigua and Barbuda, where he has been living as a citizen since 2018 after leaving India, to seek medical advice from neurologist Hayden Osborne at the Mount St. John's Medical Centre, Dominica News Online reported.

'Clot in brain'

Mr. Choksi has a clot in the brain besides other health issues such as diabetes and hypertension, his legal team submitted. The court also ordered that Mr. Choksi must intimate it in the case of any change of specialist and his address in Antigua where he was going to stay.

The judge said Mr. Choksi will only return to Dominica when a doctor certifies that he is fit to stand trial, the website reported. Mr. Choksi has sought a judicial review of case of illegal entry into Dominica. The matter has now been deferred till January 26, 2022. His trial for illegal entry before a magistrate has also been stayed.

India to display relics of St. Ketevan

A part of them was gifted to Georgia on July 10; another part remains in Goa

NEW DELHI

Almost 400 years after she was murdered in present day Iran, relics of St. Queen Ketevan that were found in Goa in 2005 are likely to be put on display in India as well as her native Georgia, according to Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) officials.

On July 10, External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar handed over one part of the relics to Georgia as a gift from India. According to senior ASI officials with knowledge of the matter, parts of the bone of the right arm were found at St. Augustine Church in Old Goa in 2005.

Queen Ketevan was killed in 1624 in Shiraz for not converting to Islam and parts of her remains were brought to Goa by Augustinian monks.

Revered as a martyr, her relics remained lost till 2005 as the St. Augustine Church collapsed in 1842, another official said. A DNA analysis by the CSIR-Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology, Hyderabad, confirmed their authenticity in 2013.

The official said the larger part of the relic had been sent to Georgia for an exhibition for six months in 2017.

Shared past

When reached for his comment, Father Lioila Pereira, secretary to the Archbishop of Goa, said: "The relics of the martyred Queen Ketevan were found by the ASI in 2005 in the ruins of the Church of St. Augustine and have ever since been in the possession of the government. We are happy that at least 'part of the relics' were handed over by our government to the people of Georgia. St. Queen Ketevan belonged to Georgia and Georgia is where her relics should be."

In Georgia, Mr. Jaishankar said: "One part of the holy relic still remains in India as a reminder of our shared past."

Crackdown on Bangladeshi immigrants in T.N.

Hundreds settled across the State posing a 'serious threat' to internal security, say officials

S. VIJAY KUMAR
CHENNAI

The presence of a large number of Bangladeshi immigrants in different parts of Tamil Nadu has emerged as a "serious threat" to internal security, forcing the State police to launch an intensive crackdown to weed them out.

According to police sources, thousands of Bangladeshi nationals illegally entered India through the land borders in recent years and many families moved to Tamil Nadu posing as natives of West Bengal. With the help of some agents, they not only got employment in industries but also managed to get Aadhaar cards.

Preliminary enquiries revealed that a large number of immigrants were settled in Tiruppur, Chengalpattu, Erode, Cuddalore and Kancheepuram districts posing as Indians who migrated from West Bengal for the purpose of employment. Even as the industry shut and a majority of the workforce returned to their respective home States during the COVID-19 lockdown, the Bangladeshi immigrants stayed on.

Drug peddling

"It is during this period that many of them indulged in illegal activities such as drug peddling, immoral trafficking etc. Though they do not have any valid documents, the immigrants have Aadhaar cards. It is not clear whether they furnished fake documents or availed the norm that even foreign nationals who continuously reside in India for over 182 days are entitled to get an Aadhaar card," a senior police official told The Hindu.

Using the Aadhaar card, the Bangladeshi immigrants got other documents which certify proof of identity or address which is required for opening a bank account, getting rental accommodation and applying for jobs. "Even if they are intercepted during vehicle checks or surprise raids at vulnerable locations, they produce original documents relating to proof of identity or address and hence leaving no scope for any suspicion," the official who preferred not to be quoted said.

The case was similar to Sri Lankan Tamil refugees who sailed to Tamil Nadu shores in boats years ago and settled in different districts. Their familiarity with the local language, culture and traditions made it easy for them to survive in the guise of local Tamils, the official said.

Foreigners' Act

However, early this month

In one instance while serving as Granting Officer, Passport Seva Kendra, Tirunelveli, in June-September 2019, he demanded ₹45,000 from one travel agent S. Ramesh which was deposited into his bank account in Madurai in three instalments.

PC Act invoked

After obtaining sanction from the Ministry of External Affairs to register a case and investigate against the official, the CBI's Anti-Corruption Branch, Madurai, booked Mr. Veeraputhiran, Mr. Ramesh and unknown others on charges of criminal conspiracy and invoked provisions under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, against them. It is not clear how many such passports were fraudulently issued to foreign nationals and whether the beneficiaries are still living in Tamil Nadu or left the country.

Kishor meets Rahul, Priyanka

Move comes ahead of Uttar Pradesh poll; Punjab not discussed, says Rawat

SANDEEP PHUKAN
NEW DELHI

Election strategist Prashant Kishor on Tuesday called on former Congress president Rahul Gandhi amid speculation that he was involved in finalising a truce deal between Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh and his arch rival, Navjot Singh Sidhu.

Though there was no confirmation from the Congress, reports suggested that Congress president Sonia Gandhi, too, met the poll strategist and the discussions were regarding the 2024 Lok Sabha election.

Sidhu's tweet

Mr. Gandhi's meeting with Mr. Kishor, who is an adviser to the Punjab Chief Minister, came on a day when Mr. Sidhu had left everyone guessing about his next move by saying on Twitter that Aam Admi Party (AAP) in Punjab understands his "vision and Punjab model".

"It is clear they know – who is really fighting for Punjab," Mr. Sidhu had tweeted.

But the presence of the Congress general secretary for Uttar Pradesh, Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, also conveyed a sense that the meeting could be about other poll bound States like Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand that will vote along with Punjab early next year.

On June 16, Ms. Vadra will be making a trip to Lucknow and spend three days for an on-the-ground assessment of the Congress's organisation ahead of the 2022 Assembly election in Uttar Pradesh.

The presence of former Uttarakhand Chief Minister Harish Rawat, who also is the Congress in-charge for Punjab, at Mr. Gandhi's house, along with general secretary (organisation) K.C. Venugopal, added to speculation that the party could be using Mr. Kishor's services in these poll-bound States.

Mr. Kishor has worked with the Congress previously in all these three States. "In the next three-four days, there will be good news for Punjab Congress," Mr. Rawat later told mediapersons outside Mr. Gandhi's house, adding, however, that Mr. Kishor had not discussed Punjab politics nor had Mr. Rawat joined the Gandhi-Kishor meeting.

"Rahulji is a national leader. So many people meet him to discuss important issues," added Mr. Rawat.

Mr. Kishor's meeting with the Gandhi siblings also comes just weeks after he met Nationalist Congress Party chief Sharad Pawar twice regarding the formation of an opposition block to take on the Narendra Modi government.

When reports emerged that regional Opposition parties could be attempting to isolate the Congress before the 2024 election, Mr. Kishor commented that no Opposition front without the Congress could be effective against the Narendra Modi-led BJP government.

temic issues of our decisions," he observed.

Justice Chandrachud said that some may dub the role of the court as "judicial activism" or "judicial overreach". "The Supreme Court is a counter-majoritarian institution sworn to protect the rights of socio-economic minorities," he highlighted.

"The actions of the government had far-reaching effects on the constitutional rights of people, which involved right to affordable healthcare, including vaccination; rights of labourers, including migrant labourers and factory workers; right to livelihood; and rights of prisoners. Many such cases of constitutional violations found their way to the Supreme Court," he pointed out.

As the "guardian of the Constitution", the Supreme Court had to put a break where executive or legislative actions infringed fundamental human rights, he asserted. He detailed the court's suo motu actions to ensure vaccination, improve COVID-19 management and decongestion of prisons to prevent the spread of the virus.

Crackdown on GST evaders continues

The Centre continues to tighten the noose around GST evaders, though its crackdown on fake invoices slowed down in recent months due to the COVID-19 resurgence, the Finance Ministry said on Tuesday.

Citing the misuse of Input Tax Credit (ITC) provisions as the most common modus of tax evasion under the Goods and Services Tax regime, the Directorate General of GST Intelligence (DGGI) and Central GST (CGST) formations also detected other tax fraud means such as evasion involving "misclassification, undervaluation and clandestine supplies of goods and services".

About 8,000 cases involving fake Input Tax Credit of over ₹35,000 crore were detected during 2020-21, leading to the arrest of 426 persons, which included 14 professionals, such as chartered accountants and lawyers.

"Masterminds, beneficiaries and directors" were also arrested under an ongoing nationwide special drive against fake GST invoices since November 2020.

In 2021-22 so far, the DGGI and CGST Zones under the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) have detected more than 500 cases involving 1,200 entities. Twenty-four persons have been arrested since April this year, with the Ministry stating that the arrests made by the CBIC officers are "one of the highest in recent times".

"CBIC officers are using the latest IT tools, digital evidence and also collecting information from other government departments to catch the fraudsters. Along with legislative and procedural changes in the law, the nationwide drive has contributed to better compliance and revenue collection. During the drive, cases of fake ITC availed against some well-known companies were also booked," said a statement.

"The enforcement drive against the fake invoice fraudsters and other GST evaders is likely to intensify with an objective to catch and book unscrupulous elements engaged in illegal activities to defraud the government exchequer," the Ministry said.

The Anti-Terrorism Squad arrested the two persons on the suspicion that they were planning to carry out attacks in parts of east U.P. and Lucknow ahead of Independence Day. J&K parties barred from paying tributes

July 13 is observed as Martyrs' Day

SRINAGAR

Jammu and Kashmir (J&K) political parties, including the National Conference (NC) and the Peoples Democratic Party (PDP), on Tuesday alleged that they were denied permission to pay tributes at the graveyard in Srinagar's Naqsband Sahib of 22 Kashmiris, who died during an anti-monarchy rebellion on July 13, 1931. Meanwhile, a shutdown affected life in the Valley.

"In view of the government-imposed restrictions, party functionaries, led by its president Dr. Farooq Abdullah, paid glowing tributes and offered 'fateh' [prayers] to the July 13 martyrs at the party office, Naw-e-Subah, this morning," NC spokesman Imran Nabi Dar said.

In a statement, Dr. Abdullah and his son Omar Abdullah described the 1931 episode, which took place during the Dogra regime, as "a landmark in the history of J&K".

The 1931 episode had seen the rise of the NC and its patron Sheikh Muhammad Abdullah on the political horizon of Jammu and Kashmir.

PDP president Mehbooba Mufti said, "Today on the occasion of 'Martyrs' Day', the gates leading to their graveyards have been locked up. Attempts to distort and rewrite Kashmir's history is being done only to create a sense of defeat and helplessness amongst Kashmiris..." Sajad Lone's Peoples Conference and J&K Apni Party also paid tributes to the anti-Dogra protesters.

Assam Bill bans sale of beef around temples

CM says it aims to check smuggling

GUWAHATI

Prior to tabling the Assam Cattle Preservation Bill, 2021, in the 126-member Assembly on July 12, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said its primary objective was to check the smuggling of cows to Bangladesh.

The Bill bans transport of cattle without permits.

It also seeks to restrict the sale of beef in areas dominated by non-beef consuming communities and within a 5-km radius of temples and "satras" (Vaishnav monasteries) formed by the saint-reformer Srimanta Sankaradeva.

The Bill seeks to replace the Assam Cattle Preservation Act, 1950, which allows the slaughter of cattle above 14 years of age or those that have become permanently incapacitated due to work, breeding, accident or deformity after local veterinary officers certify that they are fit for slaughter. The Bill retains this provision while intending to regulate the slaughter, consumption and illegal transportation of cattle across Assam. It says the certified cattle can be slaughtered only in licensed and recognised slaughterhouses. "The State government may exempt certain places of worship, or certain occasions from the slaughter of cattle other than cow, heifer or calf, for religious purposes," it says.

The Bill says no one will be allowed to sell beef in any form except at places permitted by the government. Beef will not be allowed to be sold in areas predominantly inhabited by Hindus, Sikhs, Jains and other non-beef-eating communities or within a radius of 5 km of any temple, 'satra' "or other religious institutions belonging to Hindu religion or any other institution or area as may be prescribed by the competent authority". The Bill seeks to regulate the sale of cattle in the recognised animal markets.

It also bans the transportation of cattle to and from Assam as well as within the State unless competent authorities issue permits for movement of the animal for "bona fide or animal husbandry purposes while following rules laid down by the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960". However, no permission would be required to carry cattle to grazing fields or for agricultural or animal husbandry purposes within a district.

Violation of the provisions of the Bill would entail imprisonment for three to eight years and fines between ₹3 lakh and ₹5 lakh. The Bill is likely to choke supply to Christian-majority States in the Northeast. Nagaland and Mizoram have not reacted to it yet, but Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K. Sangma said he would take up the issue with the Centre if it affected the supply of cattle to the State.

Raw materials for test kits get duty waiver

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The government has granted basic customs duty exemption on import of raw materials used to make COVID-19 test kits till September 30, and on import of certain active pharmaceutical ingredients used to manufacture Amphotericin-B, used to treat mucormycosis, till August 31.

Imports of high-purity cholesterol and egg lecithin, critical ingredients used in the pharmaceutical sector, have also been exempted from basic customs duty till August 31, as per a notification issued by the Customs Department on Monday.

"This is a well-considered exemption being granted by the government to fight the COVID-19 crisis and is a step to make the domestic industry self-reliant in fighting the pandemic," said Abhishek Jain, tax partner at EY India.

Modi alerts northeast States

Step up vaccination, do aggressive testing to rein in COVID-19, he tells eight CMs

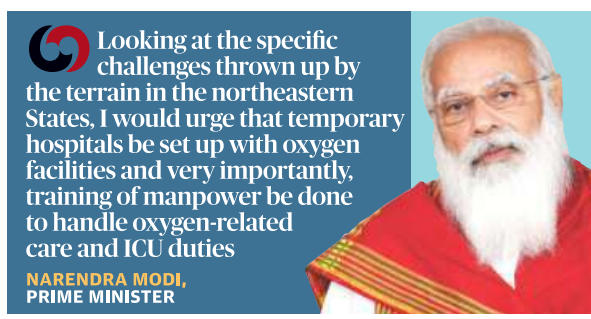

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI/ GUWAHATI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday urged the Chief Ministers of eight northeastern States to ramp up vaccination rates, set up temporary hospitals and form micro containment zones with aggressive cluster testing and tracking to control the COVID-19 situation.

Mr. Modi addressed the Chief Ministers of Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Sikkim, Tripura, Meghalaya, Nagaland, Mizoram and Manipur via videoconferencing, as according to the Union Health Ministry, 80% of cases were from 90 districts, of which 14 were in the northeast. It was also the first such interaction where new Health Minister Mansukhbhai Mandaviya was present.

Crowds at hill stations

Mr. Modi expressed concern over the teeming crowds of holiday-makers at hill stations, saying that while trade and tourism were important, "the main question in everyone's mind should be on how to prevent a third wave of the COVID-19 pandemic".

The Union government's ₹23,000 crore package for COVID-19 infrastructure was for ramping up testing laboratories, setting up oxygen units in hospitals and paediatric intensive care units, he pointed out.

"Looking at the specific challenges thrown up by the terrain in the northeastern States, I would urge that temporary hospitals be set up with oxygen facilities and very importantly, training of manpower be done to handle oxygen related care and ICU duties," he said.

Arunachal Pradesh Chief Minister Pema Khandu said his State was ensuring zero wastage of vaccine but raised the point about poor Internet connectivity. "Our data is being uploaded after four days, resulting in wrong conclusions by the ICMR (Indian Council of Medical Research), whose portal says Arunachal's positivity rate today is 16.2%. But our data show the average of last one week is 8%," he said.

The State had about 1,000 oxygen beds ready and the occupancy rate was only 8% as of now, he said.

Meghalaya situation

Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K. Sangma said the positivity rate in his State had not declined at the expected rate because of the scattered population, and two districts with a positivity rate of more than 10% were the biggest worries.

He admitted that the vaccination drive had been slow because of initial reluctance but the pace had picked up over the last couple of days because of the involvement of MLAs, MDCs (members of district council) and civil society groups.

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma said his State had ensured medical oxygen production, ICU beds, oxygen beds and isolation wards. He requested the Prime Minister to increase the allotment of vaccines to the State.

Be vigilant to prevent a third wave: NITI Aayog member

'Irresponsible behaviour will cause COVID-19 surge again'

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

A third wave of COVID-19 is being witnessed across the world and it is time to be very vigilant, NITI Aayog member (Health) V.K. Paul said on Tuesday.

"India needs to be responsible and not allow the COVID numbers to rise. The world is witnessing the third wave of COVID cases and we have to join hands to ensure that the third wave doesn't hit India. Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday clearly said that we should focus on keeping the third wave at bay instead of discussing when it could come in India," Dr. Paul said at the Health Ministry press conference. He cautioned that irresponsible behaviour could cause the COVID-19 numbers to rise again in India.

Ministry joint secretary Lav Agrawal noted that 50% of the new cases were being reported from Kerala and Maharashtra.

Central teams in 11 States

"We would request everyone to take the COVID-19 surge across the world seriously. When we talk about the third wave, we are talking about it as a weather update and not understanding its seriousness and our responsibilities associated with it," the official said.

He added that the Centre had deputed teams to 11 States to help them. "Besides northeastern States, the teams have been sent to Maharashtra, Chhattisgarh, Kerala and Odisha, as they were reflecting a growth trajectory," he said.

Arunachal officials trek nine hours to vaccinate 16 grazers

Deputy Commissioner leads team to village at 14,000 ft

Away from home grazing their yaks, 16 residents of Luguthang village in Arunachal Pradesh's Tawang district could not make it to a COVID-19 vaccination camp organised on May 19 at Domstang, about a five-hour trek away.

However, the vaccines reached the homes of the grazers at 14,000 ft above mean sea level on July 12, brought in by a team that trekked for more than nine hours from the nearest motorable road at a place called Thingbu Hydel.

One of the farthest villages in Tawang district, Luguthang is close to the border with Tibet and is aerially 30 km from Tawang. All 10 families, comprising 65 people, in the village are yak grazers.

The district authorities organised a vaccination camp on May 19 at Domstang, a village midway between Luguthang and Thingbu Hydel. The camp catered to Luguthang and other villages in the area. Officials said 33 residents of Luguthang in the eligible age groups got vaccinated on May 19.

Message relayed

"This is the time when grazers move out with their livestock to far-flung areas. We sent special messages through trekkers for 16 such grazers, who were left out of the camp, to return home within a specific time for vaccination," District Information Officer Nawang Chotata told The Hindu.

Incessant rain threatened to delay the trip of the vaccination team. But Deputy Commissioner Sang Phuntsok was determined to keep the date with the 16 "left out" grazers.

He and six others, including zilla parishad chairman Leki Gombu and health officials, started the trek from Thingbu Hydel at 7.15 a.m. on July 11. They reached Luguthang by 4.30 p.m. that evening after crossing two of the toughest peaks in the district - Nyukteng and Nahchhot.

Tough terrain

The route cut through dense forests, swampy stretches and the Luguthang river, a tributary of Tawang Chu, several times.

The team held a short meeting with the villagers the next morning after a night's stay, before the 16 grazers were inoculated by district reproductive and child health officer Rinchin Neema. Senior veterinary officer Thutan Tashi gave free medicines for diarrhoea, deworming and other ailments for the livestock.

"Apart from COVID-19 vaccination, 19 patients were treated for different ailments," Mr. Phuntsok said after the team returned to Thingbu Hydel on July 13.

"The trip was worth it as all the eligible villagers have received their first dose of the vaccine," he added.

Have enough vaccines, says Bhutanese PM

In a first, Himalayan nation accepts donations from U.S., China despite no diplomatic ties with them

SUHASINI HAIDAR
NEW DELHI

Bhutan has received enough vaccines to complete the inoculation of its adult population, said its Prime Minister Lotay Tshering on Tuesday. He announced that the country would have more than a million doses by the year-end, including, in a first, donations from the United States and China, two nations Bhutan does not have diplomatic relations with.

As The Hindu had reported, the Himalayan nation, with a population of about 5,50,000 eligible for vaccination, is receiving its second dose of AstraZeneca vaccines from the European Union, after India failed to fulfil its promises due to the second wave of the pandemic.

"With more countries coming forward with similar commitments, Bhutan has informed them of the vaccine sufficiency for now...However, the request for the need for future booster doses has been conveyed," Mr. Tshering said in a statement released by the Royal Government of Bhutan's PMO.

The statement thanked Bhutan's partners, including multilateral agencies such as the U.N. and specifically the U.S., the European Union, India and China, for "demonstrating unconditional support and playing an important part in the lives of all Bhutanese."

17 nations contacted

Worried about the non-availability of vaccines for the second dose due in mid-July, Bhutan's Health Minister had told The Hindu that the government had reached out to 17 countries to complete its full vaccination schedule.

Lotay Tshering

According to the PMO, Bhutan has now received, or is receiving, 5,00,000 doses of Moderna vaccines from the U.S., 3,50,000 doses of AstraZeneca from European countries, including Denmark, Croatia and Bulgaria, 50,000 doses of Sinopharm from the Chinese government and 5,850 through the international COVAX alliance facility. In addition, Bhutan has placed commercial orders for 2,00,000 doses of Pfizer, which will arrive in a few months.

Vaccine Maitri initiative

India had provided Bhutan with 5,50,000 doses of Covishield (AstraZeneca) under its Vaccine Maitri programme for its first round of vaccinations in March 2021, of which about 62,000 are still being administered, as Bhutan has crossed a record 93% of first-dose vaccinations.

"For the second dose, His Majesty [King Jigme Khesar Namgyal Wangchuk] had advised the government that sourcing vaccines from India once more would be incon siderate given the shortage of vaccines and surge of cases in the country at the time."

New Delhi has suspended the Vaccine Maitri initiative

since April, and the Ministry of External Affairs has repeatedly said that domestic production of vaccines would be used for "domestic vaccinations" for the present, with about 4 million being administered daily.

In his statement, Mr. Tshering disclosed that India had conveyed that it would "step in despite all the challenges" if Bhutan failed to get vaccines from elsewhere.

While Bhutan has close development partnerships with India and the EU, the government's decision to accept 2,50,000 doses of Moderna from Washington and 50,000 doses of Sinopharm from China is seen as a departure from the past, given that Bhutan prefers not to maintain direct diplomatic relations with permanent members of the UNSC or P-5 countries.

India's first COVID patient tests positive for virus again

Third year medical student from Wuhan not vaccinated

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
THIRISSUR

A medical student at Wuhan University, China, who was the first Indian COVID-19 patient in the country, has tested positive for the virus again.

District Medical Officer K.J. Reena confirmed here on Tuesday that the student, hailing from Mathilakam, near Kodungalloor, tested positive on Monday.

The student did the screening test for travelling to Delhi for academic purposes. "Her RT-PCR test is positive. As the student is asymptomatic, she is under observation at home," the DMO said. She has not taken COVID-19 vaccine.

The third year medical student in Wuhan university tested positive on January 30, 2020, becoming the first COVID-19 case in the country, when she returned for holidays. She was discharged from hospital on February 20, 2020, after she tested negative. The student was continuing her studies online at Wuhan University when she tested positive again.

Petitioner seeks strict laws to protect doctors from assault

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
MUMBAI

The Bombay High Court on Tuesday said it will pass an order on a plea seeking stricter laws and regulations to protect doctors from being attacked and assaulted by family members of patients.

A Division Bench of Chief Justice Dipankar Datta and Justice G.S. Kulkarni was hearing a public interest litigation (PIL) filed by Dr. Rajeev Joshi, seeking orders from the court to protect doctors from being attacked.

Advocate General Ashutosh Kumbhakoni informed the court that complaints by doctors could be registered under the Indian Penal Code and complaints of medical negligence and professional misconduct against doctors could be registered by the expert cell constituted to protect doctors from unverified complaints.

Deuba becomes Nepal PM for 5th time

Oli says the language used in the SC verdict 'has alarmed those who believe in multi-party democracy'

KALLOL BHATTACHARJEE
NEW DELHI

Sher Bahadur Deuba, leader of the Nepali Congress, is the new Prime Minister of Nepal. The 75-year old centrist politician was sworn to office by President Bidhya Devi Bhandari on Tuesday evening, a day after the Supreme Court of Nepal, in a dramatic verdict, said former Prime Minister K.P. Sharma Oli had violated constitutional principles.

The coalition government in Kathmandu will consist of Mr. Deuba's Nepali Congress, the Maoist Centre of Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' and the Janata Samajbadi Party, which is a conglomeration of former Maoists and the Madhesi leaders. Mr. Deuba was sworn in with a small Cabinet. Gyanendra

Karki was sworn in as the Minister of Law, Justice and Parliamentary Affairs and Bal Krishna Khand took oath as the Minister of Home Affairs. The Maoist Centre got two portfolios – Janardan Sharma got the Finance Ministry and Pampha Bhusal will be in charge of Energy, Water Resources and Irrigation, an important Ministry of the Himalayan country.

The oath of office was administered by Ms. Bhandari, who was also subjected to criticism of the Supreme Court for her role in denying

Mr. Deuba a chance to prove majority in Parliament in May.

This is the fifth time that Mr. Deuba is returning to power as the Prime Minister of Nepal. Bhesh Raj Adhikary, personal secretary of Ms. Bhandari, told reporters that "in line with the apex court's verdict, President Bhandari named Deuba as the Prime Minister".

Previously, Mr. Deuba served as Nepal's Prime Minister four times from June 2017-February 2018, June 2004-February 2005, July 2001-October 2002 and September 1995-March 1997.

Lasting impact

Earlier, Mr. Oli delivered a speech before stepping down, and said the verdict of the Supreme Court would have a lasting impact on Nepal. "The language used in the verdict has alarmed those who believe in multi-party democracy," said Mr. Oli, who was elected Prime Minister on October 11, 2015, following the adoption of the new Constitution. His second tenure began in 2018.

Throughout his tenure, Mr. Oli defended the Constitution against criticism from the Madhesi – people from Nepal's plains who said the document was partial to the established elite of Kathmandu.

"The Constitution is the document borne out of decades of struggle and sacrifice by the people of Nepal. We strengthened the political system of Nepal," Mr. Oli said in his farewell speech. (With inputs from PTI)

Supreme Court offers a way out of Kathmandu political impasse

Verdict is another rebuke of Oli's attempts at one-upmanship

SRINIVASAN RAMANI

The decision by a five-member Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court of Nepal to yet again overturn Prime Minister Khadga Prasad Oli's dissolution of the House of Representatives was expected. Mr. Oli's decision, ratified by President Bidhya Devi Bhandari who repeated the action taken in December 2020, came about in controversial circumstances in late May.

After both Mr. Oli and the Nepali Congress's Sher Bahadur Deuba were unable to establish majority support in Parliament in trust votes, they presented claims to the President with signatures affirming support. Mr. Deuba's claim presented to Ms. Bhandari with signatures of 149 legislators was more valid than Mr. Oli's, whose claim of support from 153 lawmakers were based on signatures of the leaders of the parties rather than from each individual.

The discrepancy in Mr. Oli's claims was due to the fact that both the ruling Communist Party of Nepal (Unified Marxist-Leninist) (UML) and the Janata Samajbadi Party (JSP) in the Opposition were vertically split with rebel factions supporting Mr. Deuba's candidacy, even though the parliamentary leaders of the parties gave their signatures affirming support for Mr. Oli.

Right before the President's decision, Mr. Oli had asked her to invoke Article 76 (5), which allows the President to appoint a member with majority support of the House through representation. However, the clause clearly specifies that this is possible only if the Prime Minister goes through a trust vote [Article 76 (3)], and Mr. Oli's ploy to seek the President's invocation of Article 76(5) raised the Opposition's hackles. Ms. Bhandari rejected both claims and decided to dissolve the House and called for general elections to be held in November.

New PM

The Supreme Court has not only overruled Mr. Oli's decision to dissolve the House, but also said the rejection of Mr. Deuba's claim with the support of 149 legislators of the 275-member House was unconstitutional as per Article 76(5). This led to Ms. Bhandari's appointment of Mr. Deuba as the new Prime Minister.

The 149 lawmakers supporting Mr. Deuba's candidacy included those from Pushpa Kamal Dahal-led Communist Party of Nepal (Maoist-Centre), the Baburam Bhattarai-Upendra Yadav-led faction of the JSP and the Madhav Nepal-Jhalanath Khanal-led faction in the ruling UML.

What's next

The court's ruling also offered a way out of the political impasse – the Bench has allowed lawmakers to utilise their individual agency during the trust vote by making it clear that they are free to defy their parties' whips. But in a party system that thrives heavily on patronage, whether individual lawmakers will apply such an agency during the trust vote remains to be seen.

It is still not clear if Mr. Madhav Nepal's faction within the UML will decide to vote formally for Mr. Deuba in the trust vote. Already Mr. Oli has sought to avoid a split within his party by coming up with concessions to the Nepal-Khanal faction, and this could still throw a spanner in the works for Mr. Deuba. If Mr. Deuba fails again, the extended stalemate could only result in calling for fresh elections later this year.

President's role

Nevertheless, the Supreme Court's decision is yet another rebuke of Mr. Oli's attempts at one-upmanship that set the stage for a constitutional breakdown.

The ruling also brings scrutiny on the role of Ms. Bhandari whose decisions to rubber-stamp her former party colleague, Mr. Oli, have now been overturned twice by the court.

The President's office had in fact argued in a petition to the court last month that her actions cannot be subject to a judicial review, but the verdict categorically rejected this view by saying, "The action taken by the President falls under the executive function. In such a situation, if the President's moves are kept out of the judicial review it will be an attack on the principle of the separation of power, control and balance", as reported in The Kathmandu Post.

Don't want to fight inside cities, say Taliban

They urge residents to reach out to them; warn Turkey against extending troop presence in Afghanistan

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE
KABUL

The Taliban do not want to battle government forces inside Afghanistan's cities and would rather see them surrender, a senior insurgent leader said on Tuesday, as the militants also warned Turkey against extending its troop presence.

The hardline Islamist group has swept through much of the north as foreign troops complete their withdrawal, and the Afghan government now holds little more than a constellation of provincial capitals that must largely be resupplied by air.

As security deteriorates, France on Tuesday became the latest country to call on its citizens to leave – offering them a last flight out of Kabul, free of charge.

Earlier, the head of a Taliban commission that oversees government forces who surrender urged residents of Afghanistan's cities to reach out to them.

"Now that the fighting from mountains and deserts has reached the doors of the cities, Mujahiddin (Taliban) don't want fighting inside the city," Amir Khan Muttaqi said in a message tweeted by a Taliban spokesman. "It is better... to use any possible channel to get in touch with our invitation and guidance commission," he said, adding this would "prevent their cities from getting damaged".

The strategy is one well-worn by the Taliban – particularly during their first rise to power in the 1990s – cutting off towns and district centres and getting elders to negotiate a surrender. Hours after Muttaqi's message, a rush hour roadside bomb blast in the centre of the Afghan capital killed four civilians and wounded 11 others.

Muttaqi's comments came as the Defence Ministry said Afghan forces had cleared

Qala-i-New city after days of fighting.

Commandos executed

The Badghis province capital saw sustained street fighting last week in the first assault by the Taliban on a major urban centre since foreign troops commenced their final withdrawal in May.

The call also came the same day as a video emerged that CNN said it had verified, showing a group of Afghan commandos being gunned down by the Taliban in June after surrendering.

In a separate statement, the Taliban said Turkey's decision to provide security to Kabul airport when U.S.-led forces leave was "reprehensible". "We consider stay of foreign forces in our homeland by any country under whatever pretext as occupation," the group said, days after Ankara agreed with Washington to provide security for Kabul airport.

As foreign forces wind up their withdrawal – due to be completed by August 31 – the situation on the ground is changing rapidly.

Death toll in S. Africa riots rises to 45

ASSOCIATED PRESS
JOHANNESBURG

The death toll from rioting in South Africa rose to 45 on Tuesday as the police and the military tried to halt the unrest in poor areas of two provinces that began last week after the imprisonment of former President Jacob Zuma.

Many of the deaths in Gauteng and KwaZulu-Natal provinces occurred in stampedes as people stole food, electric appliances, liquor and clothing from stores, officials said.

Sporadic violence broke out after Mr. Zuma on Thursday began serving a 15-month sentence for contempt of court. He had refused to comply with a court order to testify at a state-backed inquiry investigating allegations of corruption while he was President from 2009 to 2018.

The unrest then spiralled into a spree of looting in township areas of the two provinces, witnesses said, although it has not spread to South Africa's other seven provinces. "Criminal element has hijacked the situation," said Premier David Makhura of Gauteng province, which includes Johannesburg.

Biden nominates Gupta as top anti-drug official

WASHINGTON

President Joe Biden has nominated West Virginia's former health commissioner as the nation's top anti-drug official, tapping a doctor who served on the frontlines of the nation's opioid epidemic.

The White House said on Tuesday that Dr. Rahul Gupta will be the first physician to lead the Office of National Drug Control Policy, also known as the "drug czar".

The nomination drew bipartisan praise from West Virginia officials.

Republican Governor Jim Justice called it a "great news", and Democratic Senator Joe Manchin said the pick "means someone with firsthand knowledge of the opioid crisis, especially in West Virginia, will be coordinating the national fight against the drug epidemic that continues to ravage our nation".

Google fined €500 mn by French anti-trust agency

France's competition regulator fined Google 500 million euros on Tuesday for failing to negotiate in good faith with French publishers in a dispute over payments for their news.

The agency threatened fines of another 900,000 euros per day if Google doesn't come up with proposals within two months on how it will compensate publishers and news agencies for their content. Google said it was "very disappointed" by the decision.

The dispute is part of a larger effort by authorities in the European Union and around the world to force Google and other tech companies to compensate publishers for content.

92 killed in Iraq COVID-19 hospital fire

BAGHDAD

The death toll from a fire that swept through a hospital coronavirus ward in Iraq climbed to 92 on Tuesday as anguished relatives buried their loved ones and lashed out at the government over the country's second such disaster in less than three months.

Health officials said scores of others were injured in the blaze that erupted on Monday at al-Hussein Teaching Hospital in Nasiriyah. The tragedy cast a spotlight on what many have decried as widespread negligence and mismanagement in Iraq's hospitals after decades of war and sanctions.

In the holy city of Najaf, the dead from Nasiriyah were laid to rest. Families stood over the coffins to say one last prayer. Their tears were tinged with anger, with some saying the disaster could have been prevented. They blamed both the provincial government and the central government in Baghdad. "The whole state system has collapsed, and who paid the price? These people have paid the price," Haidar al-Askari seethed.

Cuba blames U.S. for anti-government protests

Authorities beef up police patrols across country, clamp down on social media

AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE
HAVANA

The Cuban police are out in force on the streets of the country after thousands of protesters rallied against the government on the weekend over high prices and food shortages.

More than 100 people, including independent journalists and Opposition activists, were arrested, various sources said.

President Miguel Diaz-Ca-

nel on Monday blamed the protests on the United States pursuing a "policy of economic suffocation to provoke social unrest in the country". Cuba has been under U.S. sanctions since 1962. He also accused Cuban Americans of using social media to spur the demonstrations. "What do they want? To provoke social unrest" with a view to "regime change", the President said in an address broadcast on public television and radio.

In a statement, U.S. President Joe Biden expressed support for the protesters' demand for relief "from the decades of repression and economic suffering to which they have been subjected by Cuba's authoritarian regime". Secretary of State Antony Blinken said it would be a "grievous mistake" for Cuba to blame the U.S. for the protests he said could be traced to the communist leadership's "mismanagement" of the economy and COVID-19.

The Cuban authorities have also cut access to major social media platforms in an effort to stem the flow of information, a web monitoring organisation said.

Data from the London-based group NetBlocks showed disruptions from Monday to WhatsApp, Facebook, Instagram and as well as some Telegram servers.

'High fuel prices threaten recovery'

SBI's economists flag rising household stress, urge cuts in oil taxes to ease burden on consumers

VIKAS DHOOT
NEW DELHI

India's economic recovery could be delayed by rising financial stress on households, with inflation adding to their woes, State Bank of India's economics research team observed on Tuesday, urging that fuel taxes be cut to both cool inflationary pressures and ease the burden on consumers.

"In June... spend on health expenditure has substantially reduced but expenditure on oil has more than crowded out the spending on other non-discretionary items, like grocery and utility services that was the trend in earlier months which is worrisome," SBI group chief economist advisor Soumya Kanti Ghosh pointed out. "In fact, the share of non-discretionary spend has jumped to 75% in

Wallets squeezed: Trends indicate consumers are cutting back spending on other goods, say SBI's economists. • H. S. MANJUNATH

June, from 62% in March," Mr. Ghosh said, citing an analysis of monthly credit card spending data.

"This demands urgent cut in oil prices through tax rationalisation, otherwise consumers' non-discretionary spending will continue to get distorted and crowd out discretionary expenses. This will also impart an upward bias in inflation," he emphasised.

Observing that rising transport costs would eventually push up food inflation even further, the researchers said higher petrol and diesel prices and regional truck driver shortages were driving up road transport costs.

With every 10% increase in petrol pump prices in Mumbai estimated to lead to a 0.50% increase in the Consumer Price Index (CPI), the SBI economists said consumption trends in June indicated consumers were cutting back spending on other goods to be able to fork out the higher fuel costs.

Household distress rising

The second COVID-19 wave, that began in March, coincided with a significant dip in bank deposits, the researchers observed, with the number of districts seeing outflows of deposits almost doubling from the first-wave period. Bank deposits in the first quarter had declined by 38% by June 18, compared with a growth recorded in April to June period in 2020.

Household debt had also shot up, so the recovery would be delayed as there was an indication of debt-financed consumption, Mr. Ghosh said. Household debt as a percentage of GDP had increased sharply to 37.3% or ₹73.6 lakh crore in 2020-21, from 32.5% of GDP or ₹66.1 lakh crore in 2019-20.

Asserting that the decline in financial savings reflected the household distress in India, SBI's economists noted, "the household financial savings rate in the third quarter of 2020-21 has come down to 8.2% of GDP from 21% and 10.4% in the previous two quarters".

"This indicates how delayed the recovery will be in India... as we are predominantly a domestic consumption based [economy]."

Funding gap may stump 'Housing for All' goal

₹1.24 lakh cr. needed in 1.5 years: ICRA

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
NEW DELHI

The government's promise to provide 'Housing for All' by 2022 faces a severe funding crunch even as implementation is running behind schedule.

The Centre had promised to build 50 million houses by 2022 under the PM Awas Yojana (PMAY) unveiled in 2015, but even a subsequently scaled down target of 32.6 million may be difficult to meet by next year, as there is a 'large' ₹1.24 lakh crore funding gap to be bridged in the next eighteen months, ratings agency ICRA said.

"With 1.5 years to go, against the revised targets, 19.55 million houses have been sanctioned and 14.16 million have been completed through PMAY-Rural till April 2021, implying completion of 67% of the revised target and 72% of the sanctioned houses," said Kapil Banga, assistant vice-president and sector head, ICRA, adding that only 43% of the 11.2 million urban housing units had been built so far.

India's trade with China in the first half of 2021 rose by a record 62.7% — the highest increase among China's major trade partners — with total two-way trade surpassing the pre-pandemic levels.

Two-way trade after six months was $57.48 billion, the highest on record for the first half. S&P keeps India rating at lowest investment grade

'Reform execution crucial for recovery'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

S&P Global Ratings on Tuesday kept India's sovereign rating unchanged at the lowest investment grade of 'BBB-' for the 14th year in a row, and said the government's ability to execute additional economic reforms that spur investment and create jobs will be crucial for recovery from the current economic slowdown.

S&P projected a 9.5% GDP growth in the current fiscal year that began in April and a 7.8% expansion in the following year.

Stable outlook

Forecasting economic recovery to gain pace through the second half of 2021-22 fiscal, S&P kept the rating outlook at stable.

"The government's ability to deliver and execute additional economic reforms, especially those that spur investment and job creation, will be important for India's ability to recover from the economic slowdown.

"We expect economic activity in India to begin to normalise throughout the remainder of fiscal 2022, resulting in real GDP growth of about 9.5%," said S&P Global.

"The stable outlook reflects our expectation that India's economy will recover following the resolution of the COVID-19 pandemic, and that the country's strong external settings will act as a buffer against financial strains despite elevated government funding needs over the next 24 months." 'Attack is our strong point'

Satwiksairaj and Chirag say they have the game to beat anyone in the world

BADMINTON

V.V. SUBRAHMANYAM
HYDERABAD

Chirag Shetty and R. Satwiksairaj are being tipped as medal hopes in men's doubles at the Olympics, given the kind of reputation they have built up in the recent past with their attacking game.

What exactly does the World No.10 ranked pair think about the Olympics? "Mathias Boe's smart training has been really beneficial to us. Short duration sessions, lesser breaks, more focused and not too hard sessions but really quality sessions," said 20-year-old Satwiksairaj.

"Thanks to Boe, we are playing much better, more confidently. We will have to see how it shapes up in the Olympics. I feel the strong points are our attack. Definitely, we have changed our game a bit for the good. We will have to see how they work against the opponents. A very good communication channel between us is our strength," he said.

"Chirag plays a daring game even at crucial points, coming up mostly with winning points. He controls the game after 15 points," Satwik said. "We are not thinking too much. We just want to give our best, changing the tactics as the situation demands and not inviting any sort of pressure."

Lack of crowds

"Having no crowds is a disadvantage though we have played a few tournaments and got used to the new normal. It might be more mechanical now, playing like in any practice sessions," said Satwik with a big smile.

For his part, 24-year-old Chirag said the emphasis initially was on physical strength before focussing on on-court training defence and shot selection as the Games approach.

"Definitely, looking forward to the Olympics which will be different but we are going to take it like any other tournament," he said. "Our strength is our attack which separates us from the others. If we are able to create as many opportunities to attack we will be playing at our best," he said.

"I will be lying if I say there is no pressure on us. But, if both of us play at our best. I think we have the game to beat anyone in the world," Chirag said.

"In the Olympics, anything can happen. No one has an upper hand. Even the World No. 1 or the No. 16 is equal. Whoever handles the pressure well will have an edge," he concluded.

India to host 2026 BWF World Championship

V.V. SUBRAHMANYAM
HYDERABAD

The Badminton World Federation (BWF) has allotted the BWF World Championship to India for 2026, it was officially announced on Tuesday.

This will be the second time that India will host the premium tournament, after the 2009 edition in Hyderabad.

Confident

Badminton Association of India president Himanta Biswa Sarma was confident that hosting the Worlds would help Indian badminton take bigger steps towards becoming a world powerhouse.

"We are thankful to BWF for considering India for badminton's most prestigious and premier tournament and I believe with world-class shuttlers coming to participate, it will be a great opportunity and motivation for the enthusiasts of the game and for the sport to see a huge growth across the country," said Sarma.

"With a string of tournaments being cancelled due to the pandemic globally, BWF had reached out to us with an alternate proposal. We, at BAI, felt that this was a great opportunity for the country as well as for the badminton fraternity," said BAI general secretary Ajay K. Singhania.

India has so far won 10 World Championship medals with reigning champion P.V. Sindhu leading the chart with a gold, two silver, and two bronze. Prakash Padukone claimed India's first medal at the Worlds in 1983. The other winners have been Saina Nehwal (silver, 2015 & bronze, 2017), B. Sai Praneeth (bronze, 2019), and Ashwini Ponnappa & Jwala Gutta (doubles bronze, 2011).

Cricket on a knife-edge: learning to live with the virus

BETWEEN WICKETS

SURESH MENON

The trial is over, and we await the judgement. Last weekend saw one of the biggest experiments in recent sporting history at three venues across England: Wembley, Wimbledon and Lord's.

It involved crowds of over 60,000 as Italy beat England in the Euro final, 15,000 as Novak Djokovic climbed into the record books with his 20th Grand Slam title (and Ashleigh Barty claimed her second), and some 20,000 who watched a hastily put together England beat Pakistan in a One-Day International.

That's nearly one lakh people whose immediate future will tell us something about our long-term future.

Brave or foolhardy

Cricket, sport, and indeed mankind will have to learn to live with the coronavirus. This much we have learnt. If sport, as we believe, is a reflection of society, then what happens at a sporting venue could reflect what might happen outside it. Whether the English authorities were being brave or foolhardy will be revealed too. That might act as the template for others to follow (or not) in the continuing battle against the virus.

England cricket captain Ben Stokes has said that he is reconciled to going back to life in a bio-secure bubble. He and his team might have to if the India series next month is to be played safely, with the players feeling secure. The result of the experiment will be known before the first ball is bowled on August 4.

Already England have had to field a new team after the coronavirus entered their camp ahead of the Pakistan series. If there is tension in and around a cricket team, that is only natural.

In Sri Lanka, the start of the white-ball series against India was postponed by five days after the hosts' batting coach and team analyst contracted covid. The sequence of testing-isolating-awaiting negative report-returning to competition has become as commonplace as wearing masks-social distancing-handwashing, and most importantly, vaccinating.

Ashley Giles, the managing director of England men's cricket summed it up when he said, "We are fully aware of the risks and we are aware of the knife-edge that we are working on all the time."

Cricket is being played around the world on a knife-edge; and only the absence of, or relative low numbers of casualties can be taken as an endorsement of the decision to play.

Efficacy of the bio-bubble

The efficacy of the 'secure' bio-bubble depends largely on the people inside it. Sri Lanka recently suspended three players for breaching it on their tour of England and ordered their return home. They were seen on the streets of Durham after a T20 International.

There are bio-bubbles and then there are bio-bubbles. The ones in England and Australia seem to have kept the players safe during internationals (played to empty stadiums) there this year. These didn't work quite so efficiently in India during the IPL when Wriddhiman Saha and Amit Mishra were among those who caught the virus.

The thumb rule seems to be: less travel, constant monitoring, common sense. And of course, discipline.

It is difficult not to sympathise with the players and support staff who are forced into the bubble in order to a) entertain us and b) prompt some cash flow into the sport and for themselves. It is tough. But, increasingly as we are learning, eternal vigilance is the price all of us have to pay.

Recently, county cricket in England was affected, with the Derbyshire v Essex match being called off after a positive test in the former's camp. England's new limited over franchise tournament, The Hundred, scheduled to commence on July 21, seems to be under some threat since the squads are unlikely to be in bubbles.

England cannot afford to have any national player (most of whom have had at least one jab) affected since the series against India is set to bring in about a £100 million in broadcast revenues. The Indian squad have had both their jabs.

The domestic season in India is set to begin on September 21. There are 2127 matches to be played. Things like travel and accommodation and indeed the bubble (if necessary) will have to be worked out in the weeks to come, depending on how the anticipated third wave affects the population. It is a huge exercise.

That new expression in the language — 'super-spreader' — is not one we should turn to regularly. Or ever. So if the experiment with crowds in England passes off without incident (something that will be known only in a fortnight), sport would have gained enormously. And the experiment would have been worth it. If not...

During a career between 1973 and 1993, Yashpal played Ranji Trophy for Punjab (47 matches), Haryana (14) and Railways (6).

No duck in 42 ODIs

In an international career from 1978 to 1985, Yashpal was never out for a duck in 42 ODIs. During his 37-Test career that began at Lord's, Yashpal's 140 against England at Chennai in 1982 was the highpoint.

His top-score was part of a 316-run stand with wrist-artist G.R. Viswanath who scored a career-high 222. Yashpal "learnt by watching the master at work" as the duo batted throughout the second day.

Yashpal made up for limited strokes through sheer resolve. Perpetually battling the fear of being dropped, Yashpal turned circumspect. That perhaps explained his caution until the first 40-50 runs before shifting gears.

One such innings resulted in his maiden Test century, against Australia at Delhi's Ferozeshah Kotla, in 1979. Following a 'pair' in the previous Test at Kanpur, Yashpal was desperate.

For the better part of his half-century, Yashpal was booed for his defensive approach. He made up for lost time by going after Peter Sleep.

Three consecutive sixes into the stands behind mid-wicket and, instantly, Yashpal was the darling of the crowd.

A similar approach in ODIs rescued India thrice during the historic 1983 World Cup triumph!

In the opener against two-time champion West Indies, Yashpal scored a 120-ball 89 in India's 262 for eight in 60 overs.

Reviving the innings

K. Srikanth, Sunil Gavaskar, Mohinder Amarnath, Sandeep Patil and Kapil Dev fell with just 141 on the board, but Yashpal and Roger Binny resurrected the innings with a 73-run sixth-wicket stand against the likes of Michael Holding, Andy Roberts, Malcolm Marshall and Joel Garner.

The resultant 34-run defeat was the first for West Indies in the World Cup.

In a must-win game against Australia, Yashpal top-scored with 40 in India's 247 in 55.5 overs. Here, the attack he negotiated included Geoff Lawson, Rodney Hogg, Tom Hogan and the feared Jeff Thomson.

After Madan Lal and Binny took four wickets each in India's 118-run triumph, Yashpal's contribution stood pushed to the background. But skipper Kapil never missed an opportunity to underline Yashpal's role.

once again delivered with a calculated 61 off 115 deliveries as India chased down 214 with six wickets to spare.

Fresh in memory

Even after close to four decades, the image of Yashpal helping a Bob Willis delivery on its way to the deep square-leg fence is still fresh in the minds of many.

Yashpal leaves behind memories of his brave, valuable contributions in a triumph that changed the face of Indian cricket forever.

While Shafali Verma was impressive at the top and the spinners came to the rescue later in the game, the middle-order and the pace department needs to step up.

Pacers Shikha Pandey and Arundhati Reddy, who were all over the place on Sunday, will have to be much more accurate.

England leads the multi-format series 8-6 and therefore can't lose it.

It was the final blessing on behalf of the nation and a morale boost for the Olympics-bound Indian athletes as Prime Minister Narendra Modi goaded them to play without the pressure of winning and do their best wholeheartedly.

In an interaction that spanned more than an hour with 15 athletes and their family members, starting with World No. 1 archer Deepika Kumari and ending with tennis ace Sania Mirza, the Prime Minister revealed his knowledge of their background, journey and achievements.

The Prime Minister started in Gujarati with rifle shooter Elavenil Valarivan and ended with a Tamil Vanakkam to her parents.

Deepika assured the PM she was focused on training and giving her best in Tokyo. Modi was impressed by arch-

Chand had kept her phone away and not allowed her to eat ice cream during the Rio Games.

"Sometimes I eat ice cream," said Sindhu with a smile and the Prime Minister promised to have ice cream with her when she returned from Tokyo.

"You are very focused. You have a long journey. You will do very well," the Prime Minister told shooter Saurabh Chaudhary.

Olympic Village opens its doors to welcome athletes

The residents, who will follow strict COVID-19 countermeasures, can avail a host of facilities like a 24x7 dining hall and fitness centre

TOKYO GAMES

TOKYO

The Tokyo 2020 Olympic Village officially opened its doors on Tuesday and began welcoming the athletes ahead of this year's Games, which will take place between July 23 and August 8.

Over 11,000 athletes from 205 National Olympic Committees and the IOC Refugee Olympic Team will compete in the Games, with the majority staying in the Olympic Village situated in the picturesque Harumi waterfront district of Tokyo.

Bach's message

Speaking about the athletes arriving, IOC President Thomas Bach in a release said: "The athletes are grateful that these Olympic Games are happening under these circumstances, and that all measures are being taken to deliver safe and secure

Games. "After all that they had to overcome during this last year - where they did not know whether the next competition would take place, they did not know whether they could go to training the next day, they did not know where they would meet with their coach again - after all this additional stress during the pandemic, finally, they can shine on the Olympic stage.

"And I hope that they will,

under these circumstances nevertheless, enjoy it to the fullest."

Around 85% of those arriving in the Olympic Village will have been vaccinated against COVID-19. In addition, all Village residents will follow strict COVID-19 countermeasures outlined in the Athletes and Team Officials Playbook.

These include common hygiene practices such as mask-wearing, hand sanitisation, and physical distancing, as well as details covering daily screening testing and limitations on athletes' movements.

Unique features

Whilst in the Olympic Village, the residents will experience a range of unique features which includes a dining hall, open 24/7, that will offer around 700 food options, catering to all dietary requirements.

A fitness centre will also be available, while those looking to relax between competitions can enjoy several recreation areas around the Village. In the residential facilities, the bed frames are made of cardboard and are 100% recyclable, while blackout curtains have been installed to allow sleep at any time during the day.

In its quest to make these the most innovative Olympic Games, Tokyo 2020 is operating several autonomous internal shuttle buses within the Village.

There will also, for the first time in the history of the Games, be a dedicated treatment programme that will provide comprehensive medical care for female athletes, at the Clinic Complex (Polyclinic).

Usha picks Neeraj to end India's medal drought

Feels young Sreeshankar can spring a big surprise; holds out hope for Kamalpreet and Annu Rani

KOCHI

Whenever P.T. Usha saw javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra at the 2016 under-20 Worlds in Poland, she was reminded of her running days.

"Even when he was just walking around, I remember, he used to keep trying out throws as if he carried an imaginary javelin," said Usha, who was in Poland then with her trainee Jisna Mathew, in a chat with The Hindu on Tuesday.

"I used to do that often when I was young... if I saw a hurdle anywhere or even a stone on the road, I would run and try to clear it.

Strong "Neeraj looked so strong and confident then. And when he won the junior Worlds gold with a world record, I felt that he would go far," she said.

Usha, who narrowly missed winning an Olympic medal in the 400m hurdles in 1984 at Los Angeles, feels that Neeraj will end India's long wait for its first-ever Olympic athletics medal. "Neeraj did 88m earlier this year, he could probably go past 90m. I think he is capable of winning a medal," said Usha, now a prominent coach.

She also feels that long jumper M. Sreeshankar can produce a big surprise.

"He is the No. 2 in the team. Considering his age, Sreeshankar has produced some big jumps. He may not be very consistent and that could be because he has not had any international competition this year. "But he is young and that is why I feel he can surprise us all with a big show," said Usha. "But he should not be under any pressure. If he is bold and free, he can reach the final and do very well after that," she said.

Usha picked discus thrower Kamalpreet and javelin thrower Annu Rani as two other athletes capable of making their respective finals.

"Kamalpreet has broken Krishna Poonia's national record and has done 66-plus and Annu Rani has been very consistent, so I think both will enter the final.

"Shot putter Tajinderpal Singh Toor could also make it if he repeats his big throws," she said.

But she doesn't hold out much hope for the 4x400m relay teams (mixed and men).

"Amoj Jacob, Muhammed Anas, Revathi and Subha will probably run the mixed relay but the two girls are not capable of going below 53s, so it will be very difficult.

"And some of our top men have not run many quarter-mile races this year. So you can't predict anything in the men's relay," she said.

Anand and Kramnik set to resume rivalry in a new format

CHESS

P.K. AJITH KUMAR

Viswanathan Anand and Vladimir Kramnik often produced fascinating chess when they came face-to-face, until the Russian retired in 2019.

That rivalry resumes on Wednesday - albeit in a brand new format.

The 14th and 15th World champions are set to play a series of four games of No-Casting Chess at Dortmund for the Sparkassen Trophy. The format will not allow the players to castle - that is, bringing the king, from the middle of the board, to the safety of a fortress at either of the flanks, by a single move.

Castling is the only move in chess with which you can move two pieces - the king and the rook - at the same time. Now, chess is a very theoretical game with professional players memorising the first few moves (called the opening).

Mind games: Former World champion Viswanathan Anand and Vladimir Kramnik will match wits in an innovative variant.

So the real, unpredictable action would begin only after the opening moves are played out. Castling is very much part of the opening moves.

When you throw casting out of the window, an element of unpredictability comes into the game from early on. A player cannot depend on memorised patterns.

Chess could be more dynamic and exciting. That is what Kramnik felt when he proposed the idea about the new variant in 2019.

Anand, fresh from his stunning show at the Croatia Grand Chess Tour where he belied his age to take the runner-up spot in a strong field, feels No-Casting Chess could be entertaining.

"I found the concept fascinating," he told The Hindu. "And I am looking forward to it."

So is International Master V. Saravanan. "Since Anand and Kramnik are very creative players, I think it would be interesting," he said. "Anand is in excellent form and Kramnik, though retired, is still a strong player, I feel."

The match concludes on July 18.

Kabra becomes first Indian gymnastics judge

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI

Deepak Kabra has become the first Indian to be selected for judging the gymnastics competition at the Olympic Games, a life goal achieved for the man who knew he wouldn't have made it there as an active gymnast because of his not-so-strong fundamentals.

Kabra will be seen officiating the men's artistic gymnasts at the Tokyo Games, which gets underway on July 23.

"It takes a minimum of 12 years to reach Olympics and I was lucky to get it exactly after 12 years," said Kabra, who was appointed as a member of the Asian Gymnastics Union's technical committee in 2018.
